Hitler Agrees to Sign Anti-War Pact

OFFER IS SEEN AS STEP TOWARD PEACE IN EUROPE

Turns Down Mutual Assistance Plan.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STRESA, Italy, April 12.—The show of solidarity here yesterday by Great Britain, France and Italy brought a pledge today from Nazi Germany of a further measure of European co-operation which raised hopes tonight that an eastern European guarantee pact, in which Germany would be included, might be reached.

To an inquiry, which Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, wired to Berlin yesterday, the government of Reichsfuehrer Hitler sent a response today that it would now be ready to sign "an eastern pact of nonaggression, even if some other signatories stipulate among themselves accords of reciprocal assistance."

Seen as German Concession.

The fact that Germany will sign a nonaggression agreement with other eastern countries who pledge mutual aid to each other represents a further concession by Germany, according to observers. Hitler told Simon in Berlin that he would sign a nonaggression pact, but would have nothing to do with mutual assistance accords.

Hitler's response, which Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath handed to Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador in Berlin, gave new impetus to the Stresa conference when it was wrangling over the proposed French denunciation of Germany before the league of nations council on Monday. The delegates were hopeful that the pact Hitler is ready to sign would, even in its disjunct form, relieve anxieties about war possibilities in eastern Europe.

It was surmised in conference circles that Hitler had made the concession toward collaboration because of the imminent signing of the Franco-Russian military alliance.

Laval Going to Moscow.

The French said tonight they would proceed with the conclusion of the Russian treaty and that the visit of Foreign Minister Pierre Laval to Moscow would be carried out as scheduled late this month.

The German answer to Simon seemed to put the delegates of all three nations in good humor and served to enliven a formal dinner which Premier Mussolini gave tonight, at which 150 persons were present and at which the usual exchange of toasts was conspicuously absent.

While the labors of the conference will require sessions until Sunday morning, much progress was made today in cleaning up the agenda of business despite ill humor and umbrage among the French over yesterday's incident when Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the British exchequer, gave out a statement of British foreign policy in London while Prime Minister MacDonald was here. It took several hours this morning to pacify the French, who scented a British trick.

The Day's Accomplishments.

At two prolonged sessions, which totaled seven hours, the conference accomplished the following:

FIRST—It reached unity on the French appeal to the league. Details of the program to be followed by the three powers were not announced.

SECOND—It disposed of the question of sanctions against future treaty violating nations by leaving this to be threshed out before the league council. It is understood the conferees agreed that the sanctions agreed upon by the league will not be retroactive against Germany for its violation of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty.

THIRD—It discussed the problem of a Danubian pact, an eastern pact, and an aviation pact.

France's memorandum supporting its appeal against Germany's rearmament was dispatched to Geneva today. It was shorn of much of its fulmination and is a mere historic document in its contents as it now stands.

How Pact Situation Arose.

Germany's promise of more collaboration came about in a somewhat curious way and was apparently the result of an idea excogitated by Premier Mussolini.

Yesterday Simon reported that Germany was unwilling to sign pacts of mutual assistance, but was willing to

GRADE CROSSING ELIMINATION TO BE PAID BY U. S.

Maryland Crash Is Spur to Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—The federal government will assume the entire cost of the 200 million dollar railroad grade crossing program, President Roosevelt announced today. The project is part of his 4 billion 880 million work relief measure.

The President made his announcement on grade crossing elimination in commenting upon the crash of a bus and Baltimore & Ohio railroad train at Rockville, Md., last night. Fourteen high school children were killed and thirteen others were injured in the crash.

The President said the accident was another illustration of what is going on throughout the country. He declared the terrible toll of lives should be checked.

Speed Declared Essential.

Of his 200 million program he declared as much as possible should be spent by crossing elimination by July 1, 1936. Speed he held to be essential as part of the administration drive to put unemployed to work.

For that reason he said projects will be deferred where land condemnation proceedings threaten delay. To states and cities will go the problem of getting necessary land. He said the first question that will be asked an applicant, is, "Have you got the land?"

A second principle he gave was that the program will be confined to main line railroads. He said the tendency of railroads has been to abandon branch lines because of bus and truck competition.

Dangers Are Increasing.

The President said grade crossing elimination has become more necessary with the development of streamline trains. With speed raised from 45 to 50 miles to 75 to 80 miles an hour the need for grade crossing elimination has risen proportionately, he said.

Also at his press conference the President held out little hope for American cotton textile manufacturers for federal aid to check rapidly increasing imports of Japanese cotton textiles. He said the imports had not reached an alarming total.

Governors in Conference.

While he spoke governors of New England states, who had visited him during the day to seek aid, conferred in the cabinet room with Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

The President said importation of Japanese cotton textiles has risen from about 12 million yards in 1933 to an indicated 49 million yards for 1935. The anticipated 1935 total is seven-tenths of 1 per cent of the American production, he said.

MORE HOME LOAN MONEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—Special.]—With only desultory debate, a few inquiries about the breaking point of the nation's credit, and a futile effort to abolish 4,400 jobs, the senate today passed the Home Owners' Loan corporation bill, increasing that organization's lending powers from 3 billion to 4 billion 750 million dollars. No record vote was taken.

The bill, as passed by the house, was completely rewritten in the senate, but the changes chiefly were matters of form rather than substance, and no difficulty is expected in conference. Other than purely technical amendments, the senate adopted one by Senator Norris [Radical, Neb.] permitting the filing of new applications until 60 days after enactment of the law, and one by Senator Russell [Dem., Ga.] excluding persons engaged in real estate lending from serving the HOLC.

Defeat Plan to Cut Jobs.

An amendment by Senator Bankhead [Dem., Ala.], which would have abolished all HOLC regional offices and turned over their functions to the state headquarters, was voted down. It would have eliminated 4,400 jobs, "supervisors of supervisors of supervisors," as Senator Hugo L. Black, Bankhead's colleague, called them.

"There is no need for these regional offices," Black argued.

Senator Black's argument failed to shake the serene indifference of other

RETURN OF LONG ABSENT SPRING FORECAST TODAY

Fair and almost springlike weather for the week-end for Chicago and vicinity is the prospect, according to the predictions yesterday by Weather Forecaster C. A. Donnel.

The low-hanging fog which blanketed the city on Thursday and tied up air trafic, lifted early yesterday and today should find the skies clear and the temperatures in the high forties, Mr. Donnel said. The outlook for tomorrow is "fair and warmer."

Yesterday's temperatures remained in the upper thirties, with a maximum of 39 degrees and a few drizzles of rain. However, the skies were clear enough that full schedules at the airport had been resumed by noon.

Chicago needn't have any worry about the dust storms to the south and west, Mr. Donnel said, unless there is a radical change in atmospheric conditions. The winds carrying the dust have been veering southward, while Chicago has had southeast winds, which shifted yesterday to the north.

BRITAIN AGAIN SPEEDS UP AIR MAIL IN EMPIRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—The British empire air mail schedule again will be speeded up within the next few months. It will bring England within two days of India, two and a half days of East Africa, four days of Singapore, and seven days of Australia.

This announcement was made by Sir Kingsley Wood, postmaster general, at a dinner last night of the newspaper press fund.

"One does not need much imagination," Wood added, "to visualize the day in the not too far distant future when many British newspapers will employ air service in supplying regular and special editions to many dominions.

GUNMEN KIDNAP PRIEST; ROB HIM OF AUTOMOBILE

The Rev. Matthew Canning, pastor of St. Charles Catholic church, 2060 Roosevelt road, was kidnaped last night by two armed men who had just taken $20 from William H. Goy, attendant in a filling station at 1301 South Western avenue.

Father Canning drove into the station to be confronted by the guns of the two robbers. He was then compelled to drive them to 21st street and California avenue, where he was forced out of his car.

Germans Free Ex-Chicagoan Seized as Spy

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, April 12.—Richard Roiderer, the first American to be tried before the dreaded German People's court, was acquitted tonight of espionage charges and released from custody after spending almost ten months in prison. The five black robed judges reached their decision after deliberating 45 minutes.

Haggard, with red rimmed eyes, his mouth twitching nervously, the naturalized American citizen, who is a former resident of Chicago and Cleveland, sobbed with joy after the court returned its verdict.

Denies He Is a Spy.

"It was a narrow escape—such a narrow escape," Roiderer cried. "I was foolish. I was insane to have made notes in my notebook about ammunition. I never was a spy. I am a pacifist.

"I am so happy. I will see my mother and sweetheart again in Munich. Then I will return to the United States."

Roiderer's aged mother suffered a stroke while he was in prison.

The accused man, who was arrested at the Swiss frontier because he had jotted down notes of German armaments in his notebook, appeared for trial in a brown suit and a pink shirt and collar.

Tells of Betrayal.

The sinister figure in the drama was Hans Wohlfahrt, a language teacher in Munich, the accused's closest friend. Roiderer told how Wohlfahrt spent evenings in saloons and ran into debt.

"I attempted to reform him," the defendant said. "I invited him to spend his evenings with me and my fiancée, Margarete Sickert. We spent many nice evenings together talking about philosophy, books, art, and so forth. Wohlfahrt fell in love with my fiancée. Her mother warned me I should stand up for my rights and send him packing, but I trusted Margarete and my friend. Then Wohlfahrt betrayed me to the police."

Roiderer testified he had another friend, named Rankel, a Storm Trooper who was in charge of the weapons of his detachment. Last spring Rankel asked the accused to type out a list of the weapons of his detachment because his handwriting was poor. Roiderer said he typed the list and then jotted down the figures in his notebook.

The contents of the notebook were read to the court.

"I am not a spy," the prisoner sobbed; "I am an American. As an American I am opposed to dictatorships, and there is a danger of dictatorship in America. I had to express myself about this problem which has stirred me so deeply."

"The suspicions of the police and Roiderer's arrest were justified," the court said. "He abused the hospitality of the country to which he came with his mother to help her collect a pension. He indulged in negative criticism. What would happen to a German in the United States who criticized everything in America?

Spending Quiz Demanded by Relief Board

In a turbulent meeting which lasted five hours the Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday voted to request United States District Attorney Green, Attorney General Kerner of Illinois, and State's Attorney Courtney to investigate financial transactions of the commission.

The motion for the investigation was carried unanimously. It was made by Victor A. Olander, vice president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, who threatened to resign his membership on the commission unless it were adopted.

Charges Libelous Conspiracy.

"There seems to have been a conspiracy bordering on criminal libel if the statement of our executive secretary is correct that cancellation marks were deleted from work relief payment checks which were reproduced in a newspaper," Mr. Olander declared. "If there has been wrongdoing on the part of staf employés or commission members they should be removed, however, and prosecuted on criminal charges.

"I want the United States district attorney to investigate the whole situation, including the publication of relief records which we are told were falsified. Let's not make a political football of this for anybody."

Act to Improve System.

With all ten members present for the first time in many months, the commission, at its meeting at its headquarters, 1319 South Michigan avenue, also took action on several fronts to improve the system of disbursing relief funds. The chief developments were:

1. A committee of three members was appointed to study possible changes in the means of supervising relief expenditures.

2. The commission approved the announcement of its executive secretary, Wilfred S. Reynolds, that hereafter weekly checks for work relief clients will not be drawn until timekeepers' reports prove that the clients have put in the required number of hours on projects.

3. The commission heard and approved a statement by Leo M. Lyons, Cook county relief administrator, that from now on the accounting department will not pay dairy companies for relief clients' milk until each monthly delivery period has been completed.

Move to Refute Charges.

Mr. Olander's motion for an investigation, which is understood to be for the purpose of clearing the relief organization of published allegations that there are wholesale "irregularities" in disbursements, came toward the close of the meeting.

Leading up to this action was a statement by Executive Secretary Reynolds referring to charges that many work relief pay checks had been sent to undeserving persons and cashed. Mr. Reynolds declared that in seven cases investigated thus far the checks had either not been mailed out or had been recovered by the commission.

Published Checks "Altered."

Although these checks had been revoked and canceled, the cancellation marks had been removed when they were reproduced in an afternoon newspaper, Mr. Reynolds declared. After several changes were made in Mr. Olander's resolution, it read:

"Moved, that this matter of any irregularities in the financial transactions of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission be referred to the United States distritc attorney in so far as federal funds are concerned,

WALGREEN NOTE OFFERS PROOF OF RED CHARGES

Senator Moves for State Probe.

Movements to bring about open public hearings on the much discussed prevalence of radical sentiment on the University of Chicago campus were started yesterday. Principal developments of the day were:

1. Charles R. Walgreen, drug store chain head, replied to a request of Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the university, for more specific information on his charges of subversive teaching with an offer to lay his proofs before Mr. Hutchins and the university board of trustees, with a proviso that the meeting be open to the press.

2. State Senator Charles Baker [Rep., Monroe Center] announced that he would request the state legislature to make an investigation of radicalism in the university.

3. The first letter sent by Mr. Walgreen to President Hutchins, containing his original criticism and the announcement of his niece's withdrawal from the university, was made public, and Mr. Hutchins replied.

4. Pacifist students parading on the University of Chicago campus were dispersed by other students unsympathetic with the so-called "student strike against war," originating in New York. Barrages of eggs and fists were laid down by the combatants. [Details on page 2.]

Hutchins Asks "Proofs."

On Thursday President Hutchins wrote to Mr. Walgreen as follows:

"The charges you make in your letter of yesterday are, of course, extremely serious. Since they are serious, I am compelled to ask you to be more specific.

"Will you please give me the instances of communistic influence and seditious propaganda by the faculty to which your niece has been exposed?"

The last paragraph refers to Mr. Walgreen's withdrawal of his niece, Miss Lucille Norton, as a student at the university. It was in explaining this withdrawal that Mr. Walgreen first made his charges of subversive teaching. Mr. Walgreen's reply to Mr. Hutchins, forwarded yesterday, read:

"I agree with you that the subject of communistic influence in the University of Chicago is too serious a matter not to be investigated. However, I do not feel that two such individuals as we have any right to be the sole judges in what would amount practically to the trial of a great university.

Urges Hearing Open to Public.

"I will be pleased to submit what I consider proofs of communistic influences in the Chicago university, provided you will arrange an early meeting to be attended by the trustees of the University of Chicago, you, and myself. As it is a matter which deeply concerns the public, representatives of the press must be permitted to be present.

"It would be agreeable to me to have this meeting at any convenient place that you may designate. Tuesday or Wednesday of this coming week would be agreeable to me."

President Hutchins was not available at a late hour last night to say whether such a meeting would be held or whether he would approve Mr. Walgreen's suggestions.

Walgreen's Original Criticism.

The text of the original letter of complaint by the drug executive to the university head read:

"With regret I am having my niece, Miss Lucille Norton, discontinue her studies at the University of Chicago.

"I am unwilling to have her absorb the communistic influences to which she is so insidiously exposed.

"Why one of our country's leading universities, sound and substantial in the majority of its teachings and activities, with its fine opportunity for teaching and advancing a higher and finer standard of American citizenship, should permit, even to a limited degree, seditious propaganda under the guise of academic freedom is something I cannot understand.

"And—equally far from my understanding it is—why do good American citizens continue to support or even tolerate such a program?"

Assails Rise of Communism.

In further explation of his action Mr. Walgreen said:

"Communism is diametrically opposed to our form of government. It advocates the overthrow of this government by force, and that, to my way of thinking, is both sedition and treason, and should be treated as such.

"The advocacy of the overthrow of our existing government is in itself a declaration of war," Mr. Walgreen added, when it was pointed out that the statutory crimes of sedition and treason can exist only in time of war.

To this Mr. Hutchins replied with a statement issued "in behalf of the university to prevent any misunderstandings on the part of the general public which might be created by Mr. Walgreen's criticism."

Text of Hutchins' Reply.

His statement read:

"The university welcomes every opportunity to make clear its position in regard to its methods of instruction and its course of study. The university is not teaching communism. It is not advocating violent overthrow of the government. It is not engaged in propaganda of any sort. It does not attempt to indoctrinate students. It attempts the critical examination of important problems and of different points of view.

"I believe that freedom of inquiry, freedom of speech, and freedom of teaching are indispensable to democracy. It is the duty of this university and of all universities to insist on freedom in this respect. As long as they have it they are the true bulwark of our form of government."

State Senator Baker, whose bills withdrawing public support and tax exemptions from schools in which subversive propaganda is spread have twice been defeated, was quick to seize upon the Walgreen episode as an opportunity to demand an investigation of the University of Chicago. He said that a resolution authorizing an inquiry into radical teachings at the University of Chicago and other institutions will be submitted by him when the legislature reconvenes in Springfield next Tuesday.

Plans Further Assembly Action.

Senator Baker also said that he will reintroduce the bills which he has sponsored unsuccessfully. The Baker sedition acts were rejected in the house in 1933 after passage in the senate and were killed in the revenue committee of the senate on Wednesday, after a hearing at which President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university and other educators appeared.

"Mr. Walgreen's act has called attention to the out and out teaching of communism and other un-American doctrins at the University of Chicago," Senator Baker said. "It is time that the state legislature start an inquiry into such activities in our schools. The University of Chicago is chartered under the state and under state law many of its buildings are exempt from taxation. As such it can be investigated by the senate."

Senator Baker said that the scope of the inquiry should later be widened to include all other educational institutions in the state, but that it should be started at the University of Chicago, which he terms a "hotbed of radical propaganda."

Aims of Baker Bills.

The Baker bills would withdraw state aid and tax exemptions from educational institutions "which permit any of its staf to teach or advocate the overthrow of representative form of government by force, violence, or other unlawful means, or encourage opposition or resistance by force or other unlawful means to the authority of the United States or the state of Illinois."

In their form as presented in 1933 the bills referred only to "seditious doctrins," a broad term to which exception was taken by educators. The present bills provide for the teaching of history and other subjects in which all forms of government are studied and are directed only at actual communistic propaganda in which unlawful action is urged.

BARRAGE OF EGGS ROUTS PACIFISTS' PARADE AT U. OF C.

National Student 'Strike' Proves to Be 'Dud.'

A barrage of eggs and stench bombs met University of Chicago pacifists when they tried to parade on the Midway campus yesterday after a meeting of nearly 2,500 students in Mandel hall. Bruised noses and heads were reported in the melee that followed, but no arrests were made. Similar incidents were reported the country over as an abortive attempt at a national student "strike" as a pacifist demonstration and protest against war was made under radical auspices.

Student participation in the "strike" was reported far under the total of 150,000 predicted by the sponsoring organization. High school activity was negligible while meetings on college campuses met with varying success. The youthful orators in many universities spoke to an accompaniment of boos and hisses. In a number of instances meetings broke up with fisticuffs.

U. of C. Meeting One of Biggest.

The University of Chicago meeting was one of the largest held in the country, scores of students who flocked to Mandel hall admitting that they came prepared for a fight or "to see what it's all about." Speakers at the Midway meeting included Prof. Quincy Wright, Prof. Robert Morss Lovett; W. E. Garrison, editor of the Christian Century; Dr. James Yard, former Northwestern university religious director, and Prof. Maynard Kreuger, socialist aldermanic candidate.

The disorder broke out on the Midway when about 300 students, at the close of the Mandel Hall meeting, began a parade through the campus. They proceeded about a block before eggs, stench bombs and stones were thrown among them by a score of defenders of the student Reserve Officers Trains Corps. Before university and city police arrived to quell the disturbance, Charles Butler, one of the R. O. T. C. group, incurred a broken nose and a score of others were bruised and cut. The parade continued to the Circle on the campus where the marchers took an oath of pacifism, while a fire siren sounded by opposition students drowned out their words.

Loyola, N. U. Meetings.

Similar pacifist meetings in Fiske hall on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university and at Loyola university attracted few students. With the consent of the faculty, 500 students of the Central Y. M. C. A. college held a meeting in the school auditorium and later marched through the loop to the La Salle-Wacker building where resolutions protesting the R. O. T. C. were submitted to the board of education.

Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan reported that only 80 pupils at Crane and Tuley High schools walked out.

Two girls and four boys were arrested in front of the Wilbur Wright Junior college, 3400 North Austin avenue, when teachers reported that they were distributing strike literature. They were later released.

At Minneapolis, Gov. Floyd B. Olson, radical Farm-Laborite, addressed 3,000 students of the University of Minnesota at a meeting which university officials had refused to sanction. He was heckled by students. University of Wisconsin students held a meeting at Madison, where 1,000 of them voted to support the university's anti-war program.

War-hating orators at Harvard university and Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston were heckled by a faction "armed" with pans and drums. At the Hasty Pudding club at Harvard a counter demonstration was quelled by police after stench bombs had been hurled.

Boos Greet the Swastika.

Boos and a few shouts of applause greeted the dropping of a huge swastika into a group of 2,500 students that met in the Columbia university gymnasium at New York.

Anti-war speakers were jeered at Ohio State university in Columbus. At Northampton, Mass., 800 women students of Smith college, supposed center of radical activity, rejected a pledge which would have bound them not to support the government in war.

At Haverford, Pa., two pistol shots were fired at the Haverford college meeting and a one pound gun boomed interruptions at Syracuse university's demonstration. Five pacifist student leaders and a minister were ducked in the Red Cedar river at East Lansing, Mich., by 400 Michigan State college students, who broke up the pacifist gathering with a shower of eggs.

Norman Thomas Appears.

Norman Thomas, Socialist presidential candidate, appeared before 2,000 students of Temple and Pennsylvania universities at Philadelphia. At Washington a delegation of students left at the White House a memorial protesting war and preparedness.

At Los Angeles, five fiery crosses appeared on the campus of the University of California early yesterday and pamphlets were distributed reading "Communism Will Not Be Tolerated."

Fewer than 200 students participated in the "strike" at the University of Illinois.

U. OF C. DENIES IT HAMPERED PATRIOTIC GROUP

Claims of Students Are Called Baseless.

Hulen Carroll Jr., president of the Public Policy association, patriotic organization at the University of Chicago, issued a statement yesterday charging that university authorities had fostered a systematic effort to frustrate his organization.

Dean of Students George Alan Works and his assistant, Dr. William E. Scott, declared that the charge was baseless. The only obstructions which Carroll met, they said, were of his own creation, due to his failure to comply with requirements expected of all student organizations using university buildings for their meetings.

Platform Praised, Leader Criticized.

Carroll and the university representatives exchanged some thousands of words in a verbal discussion of the matter. When they had finished Ellmore Patterson, football captain and senior class president at the university, added about fifty words.

"When you told me about your idea for the association, Hulen, I thought it was a great thing," said Patterson. "Nearly all of the students believe in your platform. But they are not convinced that you are the right leader."

Out of a welter of words, it appeared that Carroll's original difficulty with the university authorities grew from the use of the university fieldhouse for a meeting sponsored by the Public Policy association on April 4. He charged that permission to use the fieldhouse was canceled as a "disciplinary measure."

Dr. Scott explained that he had felt that discipline was necessary, but because of Carroll's irresponsibility, not because of his ideas. The university has found it necessary to set up certain rules governing financial responsibility for use of its property by student organizations, and as he explained it, Carroll became entangled in the official red tape, but was extricated in time for the meeting to be held.

Carroll was also questioned, Dean Works said, concerning connections of his organization with parties outside the university. Dean Works explained that the university discourages any such outside connections of student organizations. While the National Student league, a left wing organization on the campus, has been questioned recently on suspicion of similar outside connections, the ban was originally put into effect to prevent commercial concerns using student organizations for profit, the dean said.

Meeting Results in Fight.

Carroll's organization has sponsored several massmeetings on the Chicago campus. The last one, Thursday evening, produced a general fight, of which details are still somewhat hazy, except that some one was hit by a cornet wielded by an American Legion musician who took part in the program.

The Daily Maroon, student newspaper, which has been engaged in controversy with Carroll for some time, is now sponsoring a rival organization.

CLINNIN REPORTS ON PROPAGANDA WORK IN SCHOOLS

John V. Clinnin, chairman of the American citizenship section of the Illinois Bar association, yesterday sent to James S. Baldwin of Decatur, president of the association, a report on the activities of his group, outlining the various steps taken to combat the spreading of anti-American propaganda and awaken citizens to the dangers of subversive teachings.

The report said that although a wide variance was found in the matter of curriculums on American history and citizenship in Illinois schools, the educators as a whole were sympathetic toward adopting a standard for instruction in these courses.

Minority groups allied with communistic or socialistic organizations have been insidiously spreading propaganda throughout the schools, advocating resistance to national defense in time of war, the report declared.

PLAINS STATES BEGIN CLEANUP AS DUST ABATES

Clouds Move Out to Sea Across South.

Kansas City, Mo., April 12.—[Special.]—Work crews in western Kansas cities, usually employed at this time of year to shovel away snow left by late storms, today were clearing streets of tons of heavy fertile silt left in the wake of the most severe dust storm of the season.

Some main highways were covered by dust drifts from a foot to three feet deep. Out on the plains the carcasses of hundreds of jack rabbits and occasionally that of a smothered cow lay on drifts that topped fence posts.

For the first time in a week the sun broke through the "black blizzard," which had subsided after covering many thousands of square miles in Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, and Kansas.

Clouds Move to Sea.

But clouds of western dust still swirled over southern states and were carried out to sea beyond Florida. Dust thick enough to cause eyes to smart settled over Augusta, Ga., while the sun was reduced 35 per cent of normal at Jacksonville, Fla.

W. J. Bennett, U. S. meteorologist at Jacksonville, said most of the dust was being carried to sea high over the peninsula by steady westerly winds.

Dust fifty miles off the coast was reported today by the crew of the S. S. Gogesen, which was docked at Beaumont, Tex. Seamen said it was the first time dust ever had been encountered in gulf shipping.

Today's respite was the first time since Sunday that many residents of western Kansas had been able to see more than a block or two. They ventured forth from homes where they had been "holed in" and resumed their usual activity.

Schools Again Open.

Schools reopened after a two day holiday in towns throughout the area. Merchants who had closed their stores Wednesday, when the most severe storm of the series struck, returned to their shops and cleared away the dust.

Railroad travel returned to normal and all trains were crowded.

Farmers said that though the wheat crop appeared to be a total loss in the area, row crops, including corn, will be harvested if some rain or snow comes soon.

The live stock loss apparently was not heavy though the carcasses of animals were seen occasionally by motorists.

Four inches of snow fell in east central Colorado, but it failed to reach the dust section. However, clearing skies were reported over the southeastern part of Colorado, western Oklahoma, northwestern New Mexico and Texas.

Extent of Damage Disputed.

There were many differences of opinion throughout the afflicted area concerning the relative damage caused by the dust. Some declared the loss enormous, while others minimized the damage.

The storm area is marked definitly west of Plains, Kas., fifty miles southwest of Dodge City. Between these cities there are thousands of acres of green wheat fields which escaped damage by the dust. From Plains, in Meade county, and Liberal, in Seward county, both of which border the Oklahoma panhandle, the dust covers highways and has destroyed much of the wheat.

One bright spot in the midst of a dust darkened situation is the millions in government payments counted on by wheat farmers in the affected states. F. K. Reed, federal crop statistician at Topeka, said western Kansas wheat farmers should receive about 15 million dollars from the government this year.

Relief administrators in states affected by the dust were notified today by Harry L. Hopkins, federal administrator, that FERA funds and labor would be released for dust control projects. Hopkins said the FERA would supply 10 cents a gallon for tractor fuel for each acre, on application of the states.

SWEEPING DRIVE TO COLLECT AUTO TAXES PLANNED

Preparations are nearly complete, according to reports, for a new drive against motorists who have so far evaded payment of 1935 state and city vehicle license fees. It is planned to start next week rounding up the automobile owners who are still parading old plates and windshield stickers. The law requires that new plates and stickers be purchased by Jan. 1.

The drive this time, the reports say, will be the most comprehensive yet undertaken. Conferences have been held between City Controler Upham, who had charge of Chicago's previous drive, and Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes in which plans were worked out for concerted action by the Chicago city and park police and the state and county highway police.

The position taken by the conferees was that three and a half months is sufficient leeway for motorists to comply with the law, and that ample warning has been given. This time, according to the reports, there will be no warning, but as soon as the order is issued the motorists will be arrested.

SETTLE STRIKE OVER ELEVATORS IN NURSES' HOME

The strike of elevator constructors at the new county hospital nurses' home, Polk and Lincoln streets, because the county budget called for the employment of nonunion girl elevator operators was settled yesterday through the efforts of County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly. Under a compromise effected at a conference between representatives of the elevator starters' union, the Cook County Nursing school, and Kelly, the school will employ four girl union elevator operators at the union scale of $140 a month. Part of the compromise will be to install one automatic elevator. Thomas P. O'Grady acted for the union in the settlement.

HOLDUP SLAYING SUSPECT SEIZED AS GUN FAILS HIM

A man identified as Charles Lapa, 27 years old, 11721 South Morgan street, suspect in the slaying of a city employé last Christmas day, was captured yesterday by Marquette police in the rear of 1742 Washburne avenue.

Sergt. Michael Dubec and his squad, answering a report of a suspicious character there, found Lapa with a pistol. He tried to fire at the policemen, but his gun did not discharge. At the detective bureau he declined to give his name, but was identified through finger prints as a paroled convict.

He will be viewed by witnesses to the killing of George Ratner, a city employé, slain by a holdup man in a gasoline station at 1554 Larrabee street.

BOY, 7, INJURED BY AUTO AS HE RESCUES GIRL

Shoves Her Out of Car's Path; Driver Held.

Thomas Bennett, 7 years old, 700 West 61st place, sacrificed his own safety late yesterday afternoon to prevent a little playmate from being struck by an automobile.

Thomas was playing in the street near his home with Muriel Burke, 9 years old, 702 West 61st place, when a car approached. The girl failed to notice it and Thomas, seeing her danger, rushed over and shoved her out of the way.

The car, driven by Arnold Neideen, 18 years old, 5942 South Carpenter street, struck and seriously injured the boy. He was taken to the St. Bernard hospital, where his condition late last night was described as critical. The Englewood police, who held Neideen, said his car was an old model with faulty brakes.

Her father, Joseph Franco, 716 North 18th avenue, Melrose Park, refused to believe that his daughter was a bride until shown the marriage certificate found in the pocket of the bridegroom, John Spoors, 1005 Ferdinand avenue, Forest Park.

Spoors and Miss Marie Frasco, 16 years old, were in a critical condition yesterday at the Oak Park hospital The three were struck by an automobile at Roosevelt road and Ferdinand street, Forest Park. Charles J. Radway, 55 years old, 2110 South Third avenue, Maywood, the driver of the car, was not held. The inquest was continued until May 9.

Death Toll Reaches 263.

FOUR ON WAY TO KANSAS CITY FOR LOTTERY TRIAL

Four men, captured in Chicago Thursday night and charged by postal inspectors with being ringleaders in a lottery syndicate, were started back to Kansas City last night to stand trial for using the mails to defraud.

Postal inspectors who have been instrumental in breaking up the gang, declared that the lottery tickets advertised total prizes of $2,085,000, based on the Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, sweepstakes of June 15. Already, the government said, at least $300,000 had been collected by members of the gang selling tickets in various large cities.

The prisoners are Joseph Berkowitz, 44 years, who has been fined on two previous occasions for similar operations; Al Thomas, 32 years old; Jay Reynolds, 26 years old, and Sam Wiley, 34 years old.

WIDOW OF SLAIN MAN MAKES VOW TO FIND KILLER

Mrs. Corinne Hendrickson, whose husband, Edgar, was slain by a mysterious intruder in their home at 1831 North Lawndale avenue on April 1, heard a coroner's jury return a verdict of "murder by a person unknown" yesterday, then said:

"Some day I will find the man who killed my husband. I am looking for him everywhere I go. I shall keep on attending the police showups, and some day I'll see him!"

Mrs. Hendrickson testified at the inquest, telling how the stranger had gained entrance to the home by a pretext of wanting price quotations on some electrical work from her husband.

OUSTED LEADERS OF IOWA U. FRAT HERE AFTER JOBS

Bluestein Worried Over Silence from Home.

Hyman Bluestein of Lynn, Mass., ex-president of the ex-Iowa chapter of Phi Beta Delta, national Jewish fraternity, was in Chicago yesterday looking for a job. He was accompanied by Mitchell Lavine of Newark, N. J., ex-vice president of the organization.

The chapter was disbanded and the members suspended by the University of Iowa's board of discipline on a charge of "maintaining a disorderly house."

Neither Bluestein nor Lavine was thinking seriously of returning to the parental homes, they said. Bluestein said that he had not heard from his father and believed that the parent might be annoyed.

Embarrassing to Relatives.

"This thing is very embarrassing to my father, who is a prominent man in Lynn," Bluestein said. "It is also very embarrassing to my brother. He is a student at Tufts college and is a winner of a Lydia E. Pinkham scolarship. The Lydia E. Pinkham factories are in Lynn and each year the company gives $2,000 to the best high school student. That's how my brother got the scholarship."

Both Bluestein and Lavine seemed puzzled by the turn of events that suddenly made national news of them. Asked how long he would be in Chicago, Bluestein peered dubiously into his wallet and said he "didn't know."

Merchants Hush Affair.

Bluestein said that all but four of the fraternity brothers had packed and departed the site of the scandal on the Iowa campus. Both seem aggrieved and surprised at the attitude of merchants in Iowa City.

"They asked us not to fight the thing," Bluestein said, "because we would stir up feeling against them and cut into the profits. We were also told that already in Germany the tale is circulating that 17 Jewish students had ravaged two Aryan girls—and some of the stories threw in a baby for good measure."

Bluestein was asked how many of the brothers had been in company of two young women of Iowa City, alledgedly smuggled into the fraternity for a midnight revel. He pondered.

"No," he said, "I will not answer that. We are men. After all it was a fraternity and we must stick together."

WHITEWASH IN IOWA

BY EARL MULLIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., April 12.—[Special.]—Investigation of vice in and around the campus of Iowa university here today was becoming a forgotten thing, with the entire matter whitewashed by state investigators. All attention now is centered on negotiations by part of the members of Phi Beta Delta, national Jewish fraternity, for reinstatement. It was considered unlikely that more than three of the 23 in the ousted chapter would stand a chance of reinstatement.

In Des Moines, Gov. Clyde L. Herring revealed contents of the report submitted to him by State Agents Frank Moorhead and Al Haight. They made a two day investigation of charges against the ousted fraternity men.

An Isolated Case.

Gov. Herring said their report showed that the importation of women for immoral purposes into the Phi Beta Delta house, which resulted in the disciplinary action, had been an isolated case. The report cleared other fraternities of similar practices.

After discussing drinking conditions on the campus, a matter not brought in the original exposé, the report stated that one or two spots in Iowa City sheltered prostitutes, but that they would be closed by the county officials.

The report concluded with the statement that the drinking of hard liquor on the campus is now much less than during prohibition.

At the present time the town is tighter than a drum, all light ladies of pleasure are keeping hidden.

SUBURBS TO VOTE TODAY ON SCHOOL BOARD OFFICIALS

School trustees will be elected today in more than 35 suburban townships, towns and school districts. Among the contests in which principal interest centers are those for trustee of Evanstown Township High school and the superintendency of the Zion board of education.

In Evanston, Mrs. Lillian T. Sidley is seeking her fourth three year term as trustee in opposition to John M. Tittle, son of the Rev. Ernest Fremont Tittle, pastor of the First Methodist church of Evanston. There are also contests in the suburb's two elementary school districts.

In Zion, the city and township school election will bring another phase in the political fight against Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva, which resulted in the defeat of his six candidates for municipal office on April 2.

Onias W. Farley is seeking reëlection as president of the board of education, running on a coalition ticket with Daniel Mason and Miss Cornelia Shaw, candidates for school trustees. Voliva's candidates are Clarence C. Cupp, running for president, and Edwin L. Brown and Joseph L. Bishop, seeking the two trusteeships.

The board of education now contains two Voliva supporters and five members of opposite political faith.

Richard F. Hire and W. C. Upton are the coalition candidates for two positions on the new Zion High school board. Voliva's candidates are John Nathan Bales, defeated mayoralty candidate, and Bishop. Roy B. Griffin, coalition choice for trustee of school district No. 46, is being opposed by D. M. Crabtree, Voliva's candidate.

Answers Wartime Bribe Charge with $50,000 Suit

James E. Reeves, an executive in the maintenance department of the Corn Products Refining company, Argo, yesterday filed in the Circuit court a bill for $50,000 damages against Mayor Richard P. Lambert of Summit, charging slander. Reeves was Lambert's opponent for mayor at the last election. The bill charges that Lambert asserted Reeves was paid $125 to keep a man out of the world war, when Reeves was a member of an exemption board.

INDIGNANT HOUSE PROWLER TELLS WOES TO POLICE

So Does Home Owner and Judge Does Rest.

Edward Murray, 26 years old, 716 Buena avenue, an aspiring young electrician, crawled into the basement of an apartment hotel at 1426 West Congress street on April 3. Then, after viewing his surroundings with some interest, he took out a pair of pliers and began casually to cut down various electrical fixtures.

At this point Andy, a combination spitz and chow dog, padded up to investigate. Either Andy formed a snap judgment against Murray or viewed the electrician as a victual.

At any rate the dog took a firm hold on the seat of Murray's pants. The electrician fled with Andy coupled on behind until the cloth in the trousers gave way.

Murray proceeded to the Des Plaines street police station and complained bitterly against the keeping of a vicious dog in the hotel at 1426 West Congress street. The police went to that address and demanded an explanation from Mrs. Grace Jackson, owner of the place.

"Indeed I have a vicious dog," Mrs. Jackson told them, "and I'm proud of the beast. Do you have the address of the complainant?"

"We have, lady," the policemen chorused.

"Then let's go get him. I would like to know why he cut down my electrical fixtures."

Murray was arraigned yesterday in the Felony court before Judge Joseph A. Graber on a charge of burglary. The defendant waived aside as a mere peccadillo the cutting down of the electrical fixtures. He had crawled through the window to pet Andy, Murray explained, and had been misunderstood by the dog.

Judge Graber changed the charge from burglary to petty larceny, sentenced Murray to 10 days in the Bridewell, and asked the defendant if he had anything to say.

"Well," mused Murray, "maybe I shouldn't have given the police my address. That's probably how they found me."

ABSOLVED IN BRAWL DEATH.

A coroner's jury exonerated Frank Stec, 40 years old, 1875 Winnebago avenue, at the inquest yesterday into the death of William T. Cox Jr., 43 years old, 1873 Winnebago avenue. Cox was fatally injured Tuesday during a fight with Stec.

Workman Plunges to Roof; Michigan Ave. Trafic Halts

Adolph Newman, 45 years old, 4234 Augusta boulevard, was critically injured yesterday when he fell from a sign on which he was working to the roof of a one story building at 502 North Michigan avenue. Trafic was delayed for 15 minutes in Michigan avenue as firemen removed Newman from the roof. Physicians at St. Luke's hospital found that Newman's back was broken and that he had suffered possible internal injuries.

REPORT PRAISES CHICAGO'S THREE JUNIOR COLLEGES

Ten High Schools Taken Off Probation.

The progress shown by the three new Chicago junior colleges during the last seven months, was praised yesterday by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary schools, in session at the Stevens hotel.

At the same time A. W. Clevenger, secretary of the association, informed William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, that the 10 Chicago high schools placed on probation last year had been reinstated as fully accredited. He said that only three Chicago schools—Bowen High school, Lake View evening school and the Carl Schurz evening school—will be on probation this year.

The three schools were warned that unless certain instances of insufficient teaching preparation are up to standard next year, they will be removed from the accredited list. The Steinmetz High school was denied accrediting because it has been in operation less than a year.

Efforts of Board Praised.

The ten reinstated Chicago high schools are Amundsen, Farragut, Foreman, Harper, Hirsch, Kelly, Kelvyn, Manley, Sullivan and Von Steuben. The commission on secondary schools praised the efforts made during the year by the board of education in improving housing conditions and lowering the number of pupils assigned to each teacher.

The report of the commission on the Chicago junior colleges said:

"One cannot help but be impressed by the assistance that thousands of young persons are getting for their responsibilities as citizens of Chicago through the work of these institutions." The report said an improvement could be shown in the reduction of teaching load, standard of teaching staf and improved library equipment.

Thirteen high schools, outside of Chicago were dropped from the accredited list. One hundred and twenty-seven high schools were warned that unless certain failings in their standards are corrected they will be dropped next year. Twelve colleges were denied admittance to the association and the National College of Education in Evanston was taken off the list of accredited schools. Butler university at Indianapolis was accredited, with the board of review retaining the right to reconsider on a second inspection.

Y College Denied Accrediting.

The Central Y. M. C. A. college, Chicago, was denied accrediting because of failure to comply with teaching staf requirements. Among the 18 Illinois high schools warned by the association were the Argo Community High school and the Woodstock High school.

H. G. Hotz, professor of education at the University of Arkansas and secretary of the commission on secondary schools, said the action of the board of review showed a general improvement in secondary schools in the jurisdiction of the association.

At the annual banquet of the association last night, B. L. Stradley, president, assailed professional college and university "recruiting agents" who, he claimed, rush high school students in order to fill their large institutions, built in boom days. He said the Chicago high schools are a "happy hunting ground" for the college agents.

Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, told the association that the first duty of government in times of economic emergency is to train children properly.

L. N. McWorther, assistant superintendent of schools at Minneapolis, was nominated for president of the association in the report of the nominating committee.

Opera Star's Marriage Announced

REVEAL WEDDING OF MISS TALLEY AND HER TEACHER

Pair Secretly Married on March 23.

New City, N. Y., April 12.—[Special.]—Marion Talley, Kansas City girl who abandoned an operatic career for a Kansas wheat farm, was secretly married here March 23 to Adolph Eckstrom, New York voice teacher with whom she studied, it was revealed today. The marriage was disclosed when the marriage license return was filed at the county clerk's office.

Miss Talley gave her age as 28 in the license application and her residence as New City. Eckstrom gave his as 37. The application said it was the first marriage for each, with a notation that Miss Talley's first marriage was annulled.

Marriage Annulled in 1933.

She obtained an annulment of her marriage to Michael Raucheisen, 43 year old Berlin concert pianist, on the grounds of fraud and deception, in a secret hearing in Long Beach, Cal., Jan. 27, 1933. She and Raucheisen had married the previous July 1.

The New City ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. H. Gridley, pastor of the New City Methodist Episcopal church. Witnesses were Cloatler Petersen, New York City, and George Link Jr. of New City, according to the records. Friends of the couple in New York said they departed on an automobile tour to the west coast.

Made Debut in 1926.

Miss Talley, as a plump, rosy-cheeked girl of 19, made her debut in the Metropolitan Opera house on Feb. 17, 1926, as Gilda in "Rigoletto." Her debut appearance received a tumultuous greeting from the audience, although music critics did not agree on the quality of her voice in subsequent reviews. Three years later she announced the purchase of a large wheat farm near Colby, Kas.

Her annulment was based on her first husband's alleged pre-nuptial agreement that he would allow her mother and sister to live with them if she would become his wife. They were married in White Plains, N. Y., shortly after which he "ordered her mother and sister to remain away," according to her petition in the annulment proceedings.

Niles Center Seeks Writ to Halt Garbage Dumping

A bill asking an injunction to stop the city of Chicago from dumping garbage on property belonging to the American Sewer and Drain Construction company in the 3600 block on Touhy avenue in Niles Center was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by 83 property owners, the village, and the board of school district 73. The bill alleges the dumping has been going on for eight months and has caused conditions inimical to the health of Niles Center residents.

DUNES COUNTRY PUTS IN ITS BID AS MOVIE HAVEN

Offers Many Virtues to Big Film Tax 'Refugees.'

On the southeastern shores of Lake Michigan—the land of bathing beaches and sand dunes and thriving towns and fruit regions—are locations that should attract the eyes of the movie colony if it carries out its threats to leave California to avoid payment of heavy state income taxes.

The proposed tax measure, providing a levy of one-third the federal tax, was passed Thursday by the California house.

A few days ago several Hollywood magnates indicated they might move their plants to Florida. While discounting these statements as merely a measure taken by the film industry intended to convey its importance to California, officials and civic leaders of several towns along Lake Michigan yesterday told of the facilities they could offer for the making of movies and the transplanting of the industry.

Let Statistics Tell the Story.

L. M. Vaughn, general manager of the Chamber of Commerce of Michigan City, Ind., delved into his statistics and challenged any one to tell him why that municipality would not be admirable as a site for the film industry.

"Why, we have only nine days of fog a year and California has 22 such days," Mr. Vaughn declared.

"The sun shines in Michigan City 60 per cent of the time. While it shines 76 per cent of the time in California, according to their figures, sunlight isn't as necessary to filming as it was in the early days before the movies had made their great technical advances.

"We have the best beaches in the world around here. We have good roads and are within a short distance of Chicago. The dunes make an ideal background for desert scenes. Our little lakes and springs are many and are crystal clear. There are no earthquakes in this region."

Taxes at the Minimum.

Michigan City also has a penitentiary, which could be used to advantage by the movie men in convict dramas.

As for taxes, Mr. Vaughn said that while California "practically lives off the movies," Indiana's rates are low, and the latter state believes in paying as it goes.

At Benton Harbor, Mich., J. H. Pound, secretary of the chamber of commerce, emphasized the absence of any state tax levy and a maximum city and county rate of $11.50 per $1,000 of real estate valuation as some of the inducements for the film colony to migrate to Michigan.

Benton Harbor and nearby St. Joseph offer the particular advantages of desirable scenic sites in the dunes and on the beaches. Benton Harbor has two and a half miles of shoreline and 91 acres of parks. No heavy winds or duststorms ever disturb the region.

Mayor William G. Packard of South Haven, Mich., said he would be glad to welcome the movies to his city.

"We have a fine harbor," he declared, "and the warmest winters and coolest summers in the middle west. The dunes, the numerous lakes, the varieties of vegetation, the comparative proximity to Chicago are other desirable factors. Under the city charter, taxes cannot be increased indiscriminately."

U. S. FIXES STANDARD FOR SIZE, CONDITION, COLOR OF HOT DOGS

Washington, D. C., April 12.—(AP)—The government paused today in its recovery efforts and stooped to aid the lowly hot dog.

From now on people in Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington are assured by the department of agriculture that when they order "one, with mustard," it will be "uniform in length and thickness, firm, and resilient," without a wrinkle, and with "an attractive dark wine color," according to new United States standards.

Trafic Delayed Till Horse Is Rescued from Manhole

Trafic in Dearborn street between Washington and Madison streets was halted for nearly half an hour last night while firemen and a wrecking crew of the Surface Lines extricated the horse of Mounted Policeman John Reidy from a manhole. The right leg of the animal had slipped into the hole as the cover tilted under its weight. Neither the policeman nor his mount was injured.

RELIEF BOARD DEMANDS QUIZ OF ITS ACTIONS

Asks U. S., State, County to Investigate Spending.

and to the attorney general of Illinois and the state's attorney of Cook county in so far as state funds are concerned, with the request that these officials investigate and determine to what extent, if any, there has been falsification of records of the commission in connection with recent publicity."

District Attorney Green said last night that he did not see how it would be possible for him to investigate relief expenditures. Although 75 per cent of the money being spent is federal funds, this becomes "state property" as soon as it is turned over to Illinois, he declared. His office would have no jurisdiction unless it could be shown that the mails were being used in connection with relief frauds, he said.

Attorney General Kerner and State's Attorney Courtney could not be reached.

Urges "Independent" Controler.

Before Mr. Olander's investigation resolution was adopted, State Treasurer John Stelle, a new member of the commission, who has been frankly critical of the system of administering relief, proposed the appointment by Chairman Robert J. Dunham of the committee of three members to study the merits of installing an "independent" controler of expenditures, who would report to the commission directly instead of through Executive Secretary Reynolds.

"As it is, we can never place responsibility for business transactions," Mr. Stelle asserted. "There is buck passing whenever some serious question arises. The business part of the organization should be checking against the welfare part to give us better control. After all, this is a $150,000,000 a year corporation."

Speed Stuns Appointees.

Immediately after Stelle's motion was passed, Chairman Dunham appointed Stelle, State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, and State Finance Director K. L. Ames Jr. to the committee. His speedy action, and the fact that these three ex-officio members are said to be the least sympathetic to the relief commission, seemed to stun them.

State Auditor Barrett then presented a statement charging "looseness" and "minor irregularities" in the work relief pay system. In conclusion his statement declared that "it is the wish of the state auditor to be provided with the necessary means to properly execute his authority, or be permitted by properly constituted authority to be fully relieved of any responsibility whatsoever in regard to federal funds."

The state auditor complained that under the present decentralized system of making payments to clients and merchants his staf is compelled to approve signatures on checks without evidence that the expenditures were authorized. Checks now are sent from relief offices in each of the 102 counties, whereas until last October all were drawn and mailed from the Chicago headquarters.

Quick Action Is Jolt.

Chairman Dunham surprised the commission and Barrett most of all by immediately declaring he would take steps to see that the state auditor is relieved of all responsibility in connection with relief matters.

"Furthermore," the chairman said to Barrett, "by your own statement you have 60 employés, appointed by you but paid by the commission, who have no responsibility except to pass on signatures on checks. I will be glad to relieve not only you but the 60 employés of all responsibility. The commission can then select a personnel that will be responsible to the federal relief authorities."

No More Advance Checks.

Mr. Reynolds then announced that, effective immediately, he had issued an order that checks for relief shall not be drawn until timekeepers' reports are received. The present system of writing checks in advance was adopted to eliminate delays of from one to two weeks which intervened between the work and the time the client got his check.

Cook County Commissioner Lyons soon afterward was "on the carpet" to explain away Barrett's charges that advance payments were being made to dairy companies. He said he had ordered this situation remedied, adding that only 8 per cent of the companies had been paid in advance, and then for only a few days of any delivery month.

M'KEE GETS CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH IN BEACH AWARD CASE

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice Albert Conway today set aside an award of $2,569,809 for property at Bergen Beach which had cost its owners $325,000 a few months before, and declared for the record that he saw no evidence of fraud on the part of Joseph V. McKee.

This decision followed an argument in which it was charged by Corporation Counsel Paul Wendels that Mr. McKee, former aldermanic president, acting mayor and candidate for mayor in 1933, was being carried by the two largest property owners at Bergen Beach for $105,000 worth of oil stocks while he was acting officially on matters vitally affecting the value of the property there.

Meantime Oswald W. Knauth, the new director of the emergency relief bureau, today ordered a special investigation into the cases of more than 600 men assigned to the parks department by the works division who were discharged during January and February for continued absence from their jobs and for refusal to work. Forty-one fall in the latter category.

The inquiry will be to determine if they, although failing to take advantage of opportunity to work, have found support on the home relief rolls.

Mr. Knauth set down as the future general policy of his administration the principle that needy persons who refuse to work cannot dip into the taxpayers' funds.

GRADE CROSSING ELIMINATION TO BE PAID BY U. S.

Democrats in the chamber, but Senator Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio, manager of the bill, actively opposed the amendment.

The Democrats were even less moved by the disposition of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] to inquire into the status of the nation's credit.

"I think I heard the senator from Ohio say that the treasury department officials testified that they wished the committee would limit this particular draft upon the public credit to a billion and a quarter dollars additional bonds, Senator Vandenberg observed.

"That is correct," said Mr. Bulkley.

Senator Vandenberg wanted to know whether the treasury had presented any argument to sustain its position and Bulkley said it had not.

"I should like to ask the senator whether any inference is to be drawn from this suggestion by the treasury that we are approaching the exhaustion of the government's borrowing capacity," Senator Vandenberg continued. "Does the senator read into this any suggestion that we are close to a danger signal?"

"I think it is rather a question of time when the bonds might be marketed and whether it would interfere with other operations of the treasury," Senator Bulkley replied.

The HOLC bill is an amendment to the Home Owners' loan act of June 13, 1933, which, as amended in April, 1934, fully guaranteed HOLC bonds in the amount of 2 billion dollars. The amount was increased to 3 billion in June, 1934, and this amendment increases it to 4 billion 750 million. The corporation, which stopped receiving applications for home loans last November, reports that it had 1,700,000 applications on file.

The bill also amends the national housing act of 1934 to reduce the required capital of national mortgage associations from 5 million dollars to 2 million, with a view to encouraging the formation of such associations under the federal housing program.

UPHOLD STATE'S AUTHORITY OVER CORPORATIONS

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday upheld the state's right to dissolve corporations that are involved in criminal violations of law. The ruling came in the case of the Blue Rose Oil company, 5820 Ogden avenue, whose president, Charles D. Duncan of Hinsdale, last November was fined $36,000 and sentenced to 1 to 5 years in prison on a charge of defrauding the state of $30,000 in gasoline taxes. Circuit Judge Max Allaben of Du Page county ordered dissolution of the company under the corporation act, but the concern's officials appealed. The Supreme court ruled that evidence in the case showed "continued and deliberate evasion of the laws" on the company's part.

HORNER ASSAILS G. O. P. WHO BEAT SALES TAX BOOST

Accuses House Bloc of Partisanship.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today issued a blistering statement flaying the house Republicans who yesterday voted against increasing the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent in order to collect the relief fund required by Washington. He accused them of destructive partisanship and likened their attitude to that of "the leaders, careless of human life, who forced the civil war."

"While I am impatient and somewhat discouraged by this partisan action," the governor said, "I am yet hopeful that the pressure of enlightened and unselfish public opinion speedily will compel the abandonment of partisan obstructionism and successfully demand action to meet our immediate relief problem. Illinois must keep its high place in the union as a state that does not shirk its responsibilities to the unfortunate."

Six Democrats Unmentioned.

Mr. Horner's castigation was directed solely at the forty-six Republicans who voted as a unit against the sales tax increase and a second bill which would put public utility services under the levy. No mention was made in the statement of the six Democrats who voted with the Republicans.

The governor's bitternes was discernible all through his statement.

"There is only one interpretation that can be placed upon the action of the Republican members of the house when they voted as a solid bloc to defeat the measures which provided for a continuation of the relief work that is being conducted by the state with the aid of the federal government," he began.

Motives Called Selfish.

"For selfish, partisan motives the Republican organization in the house, allied with the very active lobby of the public utilities of the state, have voted to abandon to starvation and misery the men, women, and children of the state who cannot provide for themselves."

Mr. Horner then accused the Republicans of sitting back in their chairs and making no effort to formulate a relief plan of their own during the three months the session has met, "biding their time, awaiting the presentation of a plan that could be labeled an administration measure."

[Both the governor and Mayor Kelly of Chicago have announced approval of the measure defeated yesterday.]

"Then at their first opportunity, they [the Republicans] have thrown their solid strength against this plan, not because they are really convinced that it was not meritorious—for they offer no plan by which adequate funds could be raised—but because they saw an opportunity for what they could proclaim a party victory.

Cites Work Relief Program.

"To achieve this object they not only have sacrificed the unfortunate unemployed but they have made doubtful the state's adequate share in the allotments to be made under the work relief program. It is for them to explain to their starving constituents and to the hundreds of thousands dependent on relief why they took the action they now rejoice in.

"I had hoped that our political opponents in the legislature would, in these trying times, subordinate partisan politics to the public weal. There should be no partisanship in the subject of relief, and the present administration has kept relief out of politics. Naturally, it pains me to observe this readiness of our political opponents to make a political football out of relief and thus endeavor to capitalize the misery of our unemployed citizens.

"The leaders of the Republicans in this partisan campaign are the same men that in the last legislature sought to array one section of Illinois against another. They now apparently are willing to array the state against the rest of the country.

"There is a parallel between their attitude and that of those leaders who for partisan, political reasons brought about the civil war in which thousands of lives were sacrificed. The leaders who forced the civil war were as careless of human life as are those leaders who for partisan, political reasons are willing that countless Illinoisans should suffer misery and starvation."

Nine Millions Unmentioned.

No mention was made in the governor's statement of the allocation of nine million dollars made in Washington yesterday to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to continue relief during April. The sum was earmarked about the same time that the Illinois bills were being defeated.

When asked about this today, the governor declared that Washington had so acted "in the belief that we in Illinois would keep our promise to pass the bills. They were acting in good faith."

Although the house bills are dead, identical measures are pending in the senate. It was reported today that the governor's advisers have suggested that an attempt be made to pass the senate bills next week and bring them over to the house. The theory of that strategy would be that if the Republicans withheld support a second time their "guilt," as the governor sees it, would be more pronounced.

Defeat of Sales Tax Boost Leaves Mayor Concerned

Mayor Kelly returned to Chicago yesterday from Washington expressing concern over the action of the Illinois house of representatives on Thursday in defeating the bills increasing the sales tax 50 per cent and amending it to include public utilities for the purpose of raising 26 millions for relief.

The mayor conferred in the capital with President Roosevelt and Harry L. Hopkins, head of the Federal Emergency Relief administration, which has ordered Illinois to raise 36 millions—ten millions more than the bills would produce—as its share of relief costs. He said he hopes to obtain from them an outright grant of 150 millions for Chicago and a loan of about 50 millions more for self-liquidating projects out of the federal work relief fund.

"Hopkins was discouraged when he heard of the action of the Illinois house," said the mayor, "but he was noncommittal. I hope he won't counter the legislative move with a reduction in the grant of federal funds we expect to get for the state.

Still Hopes for Passage.

"I want Washington to feel that we are coöperating with the federal government so we can get money with which to put the unemployed to work. I think that when the legislature understands the situation it will pass the bill raising the sales tax to 3 per cent, and I believe also that the measure applying the tax to the utilities should be adopted.

"The federal government is going out of relief business and is expecting every state to take care of its unemployables.

"The tax to do that in Illinois is nothing compared with the stimulation of business that would come from work relief grants to the state.

"Will Absorb the Tax."

"As for saying that we are taxing a glass of water (a statement made by Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville] in the house on Thursday), why, the improved efficiency that we will be able to get in the water system through work paid for from the federal grant will increase the profit in the system. This increased profit from eliminating the present leakage will more than absorb the tax."

The mayor explained again that with the adoption of a token plan under which the exact sales tax can be paid most persons would be paying no more tax than now and many would actually pay less.

Among the Cook county legislators there appeared to be a feeling that the Horner administration would proceed in the senate with sales tax bills similar to those defeated in the house, but there was no forecast as to the date the attempt would be made.

DIONNES QUOTE POPE IN BATTLE AGAINST QUINT GUARDIAN LAW

TORONTO, April 12.—(AP)—In a letter published in this week's issue of the Catholic Register, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne again protest against a legislative enactment that makes their quintuplet daughters wards of the king.

The parents say they "will not rest while we still have a breath left to fight it," and maintain the bill "divides our family and takes away our parental rights."

Quoting from a papal encyclical that "it would be contrary to natural justice if the child before the use of reason were removed from the care of its parents," the Dionnes ask: "Are we to believe that the laws of the church, under Pope Leo XIII., do not apply to our parish or Corbeil? Where are they who are supposed to enforce the laws of the church?"

The parents write that there "is talk of building us a home," but "we would rather live in our old place with our children than in a palace of gold without them. All we want is what God gave us—our babies."

MRS. CHAPIN HELD PRISONER; MATE SUES FOR DIVORCE

MEXICO CITY, April 12. — (AP) — Humphrey Chapin, 32 year old scion of a prominent Buffalo, N. Y., family, today filed suit for divorce against Mrs. Mary Alexander Dahlberg Chapin, who was returned under guard from San Luis Potosi to face charges of taking her husband's typewriter and clothes.

Mrs. Chapin was detained at San Luis while she was en route to Chicago where, she had announced, she intended to sue for divorce, charging cruelty. She was taken temporarily to police headquarters as a prisoner.

In his divorce petition Chapin charged that Mrs. Chapin had threatened to hire gangsters to kill him. He also claimed she frequently struck him and recently drove him out of their house here, forcing him to go to a hotel. Mrs. Chapin said her husband had abused her in many ways and denied taking his clothes or typewriter.

In announcing she would file suit for divorce in Chicago Mrs. Chapin said she would also ask $500,000 damages from his mother, Mrs. H. E. Green of Buffalo, for alienation of affections. The Chapins were married in Conjeo, Colo., in 1933.

The Piccards lectured last night at Franklin and Marshall college, but said nothing of their mishap. It became known today when they asked a garage to fix the car, which Mrs. Piccard said skidded and plunged into a ditch.

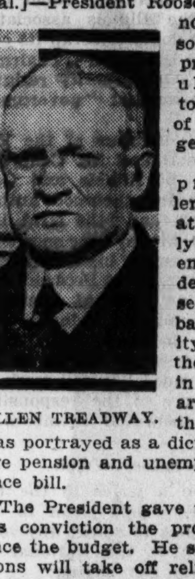
ROOSEVELT SEES SECURITY PLAN AS BUDGET AID

Holds Program Would Balance Books.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt this afternoon hailed the social security program as the ultimate answer to the balancing of the federal budget.



ALLEN TREADWAY.

His views were projected in a lengthy discussion at his semi-weekly press conference. They were delivered as the second day of debate on the security program in the house resulted in a parliamentary squall when the White House was portrayed as a dictator on the old age pension and unemployment insurance bill.

The President gave two reasons for his conviction the program will balance the budget. He said old age pensions will take off relief virtually all needy persons over the age of 65 and that unemployment insurance will provide a cushion to maintain purchasing power in the event the nation is hit by depressions in the future.

Calls Plan "Nation's Soundest."

Explaining his term "cushion," the President said unemployment insurance in depressions will keep people off relief rolls for a long period. This, he added, will prevent an immediate drain on the treasury.

The President declared that unemployment insurance and old age pensions go hand in hand to cut down allocations for relief and work relief. He described the program as the soundest thing the nation could do.

The President indicate he intends to transfer persons from relief rolls to old age pensions and unemployment insurance without waiting for a reserve to be accumulated by the individuals. These would be supported by those at work through the pay roll tax provided in the bill.

Treadway Scores Program.

The attack on the White House was made by Allen T. Treadway of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the ways and means committee, in an attack on the social security program. Treadway labeled the bill as the immature work of professors, brain trusters, and New Dealers.

"The bill was in committee for three months," he said, "while members waited day in and day out for some advice from the White House. When the instruction was received the bill was brought out."

Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], chairman of the committee, leaped to his feet with, "the committee never received any direction or constructive information from the White House."

Charge Precipitates Squall.

"I am sorry that the chairman is ignorant of the proceedure of his committee," Treadway parried.

"I'm not so ignorant I can't tell the truth," Doughton shouted.

Treadway responded by declaring that when the Republicans were in power they never were dictated to by the White House. He added that he hoped that when the party returned to power it never would receive such dictation.

"May I point out that the chairman has spoken the truth in using one word," said Representative John Tabor [Rep., N. Y.]. "It should be noted he said the committee received no constructive suggestion from the White House."

"I agree," Treadway said.

Representative Edward A. Kenney [Dem., N. J.] rose to ask Treadway if he had any plan to offer as a substitute to the administration measure.

"What a ridiculous question," Treadway replied. "What good would it do us in the minority to propose a plan in the face of an overwhelming majority? Sit down and don't get up to ask foolish questions."

Democrats Speed to Defense.

Other Democrats rushed to the defense of Doughton and Kenney. The exchange was followed with zest by the representatives, who applauded each verbal thrust of their champions.

Because of the poor showing made by radicals in the first day of debate, the house leadership late in the afternoon decided to permit a vote on the Townsend and Lundeen bills which provide for more drastic taxation and higher compensation payments that the New Deal wants. These are to be offered as amendments when the bill is voted upon.

PLAN MONUMENT FOR THOMAS JEFFERSON AS 192D BIRTHDAY NEARS

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—On the eve of Thomas Jefferson's 192d birthday, an organization was perfected here today to plan a memorial for the author of the Declaration of Independence, to be located in the national capital and to be on a par with the monuments erected here to Washington and Lincoln.

At the organization meeting Representative Boylan of New York was chosen permanent chairman of the organization, to be known as the Thomas Jefferson Memorial commission. Senators McNary of Oregon, Lonergan of Connecticut and Thomas of Utah were named vice chairmen and Representative Smith of Virginia was made secretary.

An executive committee was constituted, composed of Representative Culkin of New York, Joseph P. Tumulty, former secretary to President Wilson; Hollins N. Randolph, a descendant of Thomas Jefferson; Stuart G. Gibboney of New York, and Dr. Fiske Kimball of Philadelphia.

J. L. Markham Ordered to Pay Up $550 Alimony

John Lavin Markham, president of J. L. Markham Coal and Supply company, 310 South Michigan avenue, was given until May 6 to pay $550 of alimony arrears to his wife, Wanda, by Superior Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday. If Markham does not pay he will be held in contempt of court, the judge indicated. The wife's suit for separate maintenance, charging cruelty, is pending.

PRESIDENT STOPS SENATE GROUP'S QUIZ OF RICHBERG

Balks Munitions Body on Colt Blue Eagle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today called off a scheduled attempt on the part of the senate munitions committee to question Donald R. Richberg, NRA chief, and ascertain why the government has not boycotted the Colt Fire arms company. The Blue Eagle was removed from this company on March 27, but government departments having contracts with the firm were not notified.

Richberg was to have appeared today, but President Roosevelt called Senator Gerald P. Nye [Radical, N. D.], chairman of the committee, and requested that no action be taken at this time because of promising negotiations looking toward a settlement of the Colt company's strike.

Nye Assails "Favoritism."

Nye complied with the President's request, but later issued a caustic statement alleging NRA favoritism to a munitions maker and threatening a sweeping investigation unless full compliance soon were accomplished.

Members of the senate committee, who have become somewhat frenzied in their investigation of munitions makers, were horrified by the possible suggestion that a manufacturer of firearms which supplies the war department with machine guns was being favored.

In other quarters it was assumed that the administration was more tenderly solicitous of the NRA and that, too, piqued Senator Nye, for he is one of the Blue Eagle's bitterest foes.

President Expects Settlement.

At his press conference this afternoon the President explained that he talked with Senator Nye over the telephone, saying he thought it would be wise to postpone the inquiry because of the pending negotiations. The President also said he hoped the strike would be settled.

Nye's statement follows:

"Upon request of the President the committee will not press for immediate light which was sought on the failure of the government to enforce the law against a munitions firm as it does against others.

"The President seems assured that a settlement of the Colt Firearms corporation-NRA controversy will be accomplished early next week. I hope this is possible. But I shall be greatly disappointed if any settlement is reached that is short of full compliance with the provisions of the NIRA and the orders of the labor relations board seeking such compliance.

Nye May Ask Special Quiz.

"If it is short of that I shall be insistent upon a sweeping public inquiry to determine why a munitions firm is granted consideration different from that afforded other business by the government in the enforcement of the law. While there can be no denying a strong relationship exists between munitions firms and certain departments of our government, I cannot believe that the NRA and the administration will tolerate favor in the administration of present recovery efforts."

Other members of the committee said this was the first time on record that government departments were not notified when a manufacturing company having contracts lost its Blue Eagle.

Thomas R. Winans Sued for Divorce and Alimony

After a number of previous separations and reconciliations, Mrs. Diane Winans filed a bill for divorce in the Circuit court yesterday against Thomas R. Winans, 1250 Stone street, district sales manager for the Youngstown Pressed Steel company. The bill, drawn by Attorney David W. Kahane, charges several acts of cruelty since their marriage in 1930. Mrs. Winans seeks alimony and support for her son, Thomas Richard, 4 years old.

TRAIL OF LOST BOY TAKEN UP BY POLICE DOG

Owner Thinks He'll Find Richard Perrot.

A German shepherd dog, claimed by his owner to be a champion trailer, was enlisted last night in the hunt for 4 year old Richard Max Perrot, who disappeared from his home at 4110 North Maplewood avenue on April 4.

The dog, Sandy, was taken to the North Damen avenue police station by its owner, W. Weissenbacher, 1506 George street, president of the National Shepherd Dog club. Accompanied by Sergt. James Giblen, the dog and its owner then went to the Perrot home.

Although eight days have passed since the boy left home, much rain has fallen since then, Weissenbacher maintained that his dog could pick up the scent if the path of the boy were struck.

Sure Dog Will Know.

"If we get near a building where the boy was kept, Sandy will know," Weissenbacher declared.

A shoe of young Richard's was produced to give the dog the scent, and the hunt went on for hours in the vicinity of the Perrot home. It will be continued today.

In the meantime, police search along the north branch of the Chicago river and in the forest preserve proved futile. A report from Lansing, in the southwest part of the county, brought a temporary flurry of police activity when it was reported a man and boy had been seen in a tavern near there.

Proves Futile Clew.

It died down when the two were found, and proved to be a farmer and his son.

In Chicago, police of the Central, Des Plaines street and Chicago avenue districts were instructed to search their territories for morons and casuals in an effort to find the man who supposedly lured young Richard from his home.

POLICE KEEP UP HANDBOOK WAR; RAID 11 PLACES

Chicago policemen, taking seriously their orders to stop all gambling, yesterday raided 11 alleged handbooks, one of them conducted in a parked automobile, and also seized the pin and marble machines in fice stores.

Sergeants Michael Ahern and Thomas Lamie, entering the Via Lago café at 827 Wilson avenue, found a loud speaker dispensing race results. Harry Yaeger, 5012 Sheridan road, and James Davis, 5240 Sheridan road, alleged owners of the handbook in the café, and five employés were arrested.

Irving Rubin, 508 North Monticello avenue, alleged to have been accepting bets as he sat in his car at 3166 Broadway, was seized by Policemen Frank Schultz and Felix Kosinski.

Other alleged handbooks raided were at 112 East Superior street, 404 North Wells street, 714 North Clark street, 1156 North Clark street, 167 East Ohio street, 210 North Wabash avenue, 535 South Dearborn street, 59 East Adams street, and 234 South Wabash avenue. The pin machines seized all were in the Summerdale police district.

MARY ASTOR, MOVIE ACTRESS, DIVORCED BY DOCTOR-HUSBAND

DR. FRANKLIN THORPE. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.—(AP)—Mary Astor's marriage of nearly five years to Dr. Franklin Thorpe ended in divorce today at a 5 minute court hearing in which the film actress was accused of referring humiliatingly before friends to her physician-husband's smaller earning power.

"I have a lucrative practice," Dr. Thorpe testified, "but compared to an actress' salary, well, of course ——"

A settlement of community property already had been made, he told Superior Judge Dudley Valentine. He said the actress had agreed he should have custody of their 3 year old daughter, Marilyn. Miss Astor, whose real name is Lucille Vasconcellos Langhanke, was married previously to Kenneth Hawks, film director, who was killed in an airplane accident with a number of other members of a film troube in 1930. She was married to Dr. Thorpe in 1931.

BARBER MURDER WITNESS' DEATH STILL UNSOLVED

A coroner's jury, considering the death of Sebastian Sapienza, who was shot down Thursday evening near his home at 1728 West 99th street, yesterday returned a verdict of murder by persons unknown.

Sapienza, a barber, was on his way home when two men slipped up to him and fired, bullets striking him in the head and body. Following the shooting the slayers joined a third man in an automobile and fled.

The police believe Sapienza was slain because he knew too much about the killing of Joseph Adducci, who was shot in a barber shop at 11857 South Michigan avenue on Sept. 15, 1934. At the time Sapienza was working in the shop and saw the killers. He appeared as a witness at the trial of Sam Bruno, 1871 Sheffield avenue, who was convicted and sentenced to 14 years in prison. The identity of the others who assisted in the Adducci slaying has never been determined.

CROWE STARTS HIS MOVEMENT TO REVIVE G. O. P.

Drafts Platform and Holds Meeting.

The second effort within three days to revive the Republican party in Cook county was made yesterday by former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. He led a meeting of his new Republican club, around which he proposes to rally new strength, solicited the aid of ward committeemen, judges and county commissioners who were present, and announced a new set of party principles he has drafted. The meeting was in the Hamilton club.

Its keynote, like that of the session conducted on Wednesday before the Republican Round Table by Fred Lundin, was "unselfishness, personal disinterestedness, and a desire to see the return of the Republican party to power." To prove his motives, Crowe pointed out that he as president and the other two officers of the club are barred by the by-laws from holding public office during the time they serve the club and for two years thereafter.

Beginning with international policies, the platform said the party's "chief concern should be to retain friendly relations with all nations while avoiding entangling alliances," and set up the following points as the means thereto:

"Opposition to the United States entering the world court or league of nations; opposition to war except in defense of territory, although advocating adequate defenses; immediate nationalization of munition plants in time of war; by taking the profit out of war, end war."

MISSING WOMAN IS HUNTED WITH PACK OF HOUNDS

Farmington, Conn., April 12.—(AP)—Two sets of footprints provided slim clews tonight as 150 persons, aided by bloodhounds, searched the Connecticut countryside for 25 year old Mrs. Andrew Gordon, socially prominent.

Mrs. Gordon, the mother of a 3 month old daughter, has been missing since Wednesday evening, when she left her home after telling her maid she was going to a drug store.

Bloodhounds were believed to have picked up her trail at the estate of the late A. Ware Merriam here, where police found one set of the footprints.

The prints were similar to those discovered near a drug store in West Hartford, six miles northeast of Farmington, where a woman answering the missing Junior leaguer's description was reported seen last night.

Mrs. Gordon suffered a nervous breakdown some time ago, friends said.

TWO INDUSTRIES LASH OUT AT NRA; ONE SCRAPS CODE

Authority Chairman Quits —Fights Control Bill.

Two blasts against NRA control were loosed yesterday by industries that have been operating under code authorities. The Illinois association of one industry voted to scrap its code authority, while the national chairman of the other's code authority resigned with a protest against "government control."

The board of directors of the Furnace, Sheet Metal and Air Conditioning association of Illinois and Cook county voted to drop their code authority, and charged that "the NRA is a greater racket than any ever sponsored by Al Capone or any of his henchmen."

Donald P. Blake, 11044 Prospect avenue, resigned as national chairman of the retail monument industry code authority, and declared that, after conscientious effort to live up to the code, he had decided "it will work an irreparable injury to the responsible, ethical, and substantial members of our industry."

Asks Senators to Act.

Mr. Blake, in a letter to the two Illinois senators, asked them to use their full influence to defeat any form of an extension of the National Industrial Recovery Act, saying:

"The passage of the NRA bill, as submitted, will constitute a complete abdication by you of the basic and fundamental principles of our American form of government, and will constitute a serious drag on industrial recovery, which will further delay national recovery."

The action of the Furnace, Sheet Metal and Air Conditioning group was made by a vote of directors representing 8,000 members of the organization, and a statement of their stand was made by J. A. Miedema, former state code authority head.

Charges "Shakedown" by Code.

"Our members reached the end of the trail," he said, "when administration officials tried to shake down code members for the privilege of voting at the industry conference in Cincinnati two weeks ago."

Miedema declared he went to the conference armed with proxies of 20,000 central west members of the code. There, he said, all but 23 of the proxies were refused, and the middle western representatives were offered the right to vote 6,000 of them in exchange for a certified check for $120,000.

"The national code authority in our industry is a collection agency to gather vast sums of money to be distributed among the favored few in unearned salaries and unbelievably padded expense accounts," Miedema charged.

ACTION FOR $25,000 MAY BE OUTLAWED BY HEART BALM LAW

Noblesville, Ind., April 12.—[Special.]—A $25,000 damage suit filed in Circuit court here against Elmer Billhymer, wealthy farmer near here, may be outlawed under Indiana's anti-heart balm bill, it was indicated today.

The plaintif, Mrs. Eva Miller, widow of a world war veteran and the mother of four children, charged that Billhymer induced his son, Dayton, not to marry her.

She became acquainted with the son while employed as housekeeper by his father, she said. Attorneys said they were not certain whether the new law will apply to the suit.

THE "Last" WORD IN CUSTOM STYLE

We believe the last word in Custom Style is the word of a leading, living Custom Bootmaker, who is making Shoes over his own lasts, in his own shop, every day for the best dressed men in New York, at $40 and $50 PER PAIR.

Mr. Peterson not only whittled out this Last, designed this Pattern and selected the Leather—but he personally inspected everything that goes into a Regal Shoe—inside and outside, from heel to toe, and supervised every operation in the Regal Factory—from the Cutting Room to the Finishing Room.

When he picked up the finished shoe in our Packing Room and compared the Regal Reproduction with his Original, he made our Factory Superintendent feel good when he said that he couldn't tell WHICH was WHICH.

Today on the "Compare Shelf" in all Regal Windows, we are showing Mr. Peterson's Hand-made Original $42 Shoes side by side with the $5.55 Regal Reproductions.

And we don't believe you can tell the difference, because the Lasts are exactly the same. The finished shoes look just alike and we are using the same Imported Calfskin used in the $42 Original—and it's the best Leather tanned anywhere at any price. You can't buy anything better.

This new Custom Style is only One of a Hundred of our New Spring Models, but we believe it's one of the best Town Oxfords for Easter. We know that others will try to copy this Style, but we don't believe anyone will use this Leather or attempt to duplicate this Value—not at our price. $5.55.

GERMANY AGREES TO JOIN PACT OF NONAGGRESSION

Described as Step Toward European Peace.

sign a nonaggression pact. Mussolini asked if Germany would be ready to sign a nonaggression pact with other powers who, however, would have in addition clauses of mutual assistance among themselves.

Simon said he did not know, but would ask. He telegraphed Berlin and Von Neurath replied affirmatively. Von Neurath added that Germany has not changed its views that mutual aid pacts are useless and dangerous. He added also that if there were a supplementary mutual assistance pact Germany preferred that it be separate and not made part of the general nonaggression pact.

BRITISH EXPLAIN MIXUP

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—A mixup, attributed to lack of coördination between the British government at London and its representatives at the three power conference at Stresa, caused some recrimination and a crop of denials and explanations today.

Last night a high personage in the house of commons talked to British reporters, explaining the British policy in the present European situation. Today the foreign office hastened to explain that this talk was given to enlighten parliamentary correspondents and was definitly not a statement of any change in policy.

"The [newspaper] account should not be taken as representing any new official pronouncement," the foreign office said. "No new decisions have been taken nor new official pronouncement made since the British delegation left for Stresa."

What "High Personage" Said.

The high personage in his statement last night said Great Britain is determined to embark on no further commitments which might involve it in another European war. He said the British view that European security can best be attained by regional pacts within the framework of the league of nations remains unchanged, and while Britain will not become a party to any such agreements affecting eastern and central Europe, it is willing to give them its blessing, although it flatly refuses thereby to assume any additional liabilities.

Furthermore, he said, the government does not intend to make a strong declaration such as the French and Italians would welcome that Britain is prepared to take specific action in event of German aggression. Such a declaration, it is explained, might involve Britain in serious commitments far beyond anything hitherto contemplated, and is therefore out of the question.

This it was pointed out today, followed closely all that has been said for the last month on the British policy. French and Italian correspondents got hold of this through their British colleagues and are said to have cabled garbled reports to Paris and Rome, which excited the gathering at Stresa and caused an announcement to be made that the only statement of British policy worth accepting had been given out there.

French Plan New Parley.

PARIS, April 12.—(AP)—Reliable sources said tonight a special conference of delegates from Austria, Germany, Italy, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, and Jugo-Slavia likely would be called shortly to discuss a nonaggression pact "with assurances."

The three powers at Stresa, these sources asserted, agreed on the necessity of pushing a nonaggression pact, including Austria and all its neighbors and guaranteeing Austria's independence.

A resolution to be presented for adoption by the league of nations council, it was said, will provide for the creation of a "committee of three" to determine proper methods of preventing future violation of treaties by one country.

GREAT BRITAIN BUILDS VAST UNDERGROUND AMMUNITION DUMP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—A network of underground bombproof shelters is being built under Salisbury plain for the storage of munitions, the Daily Herald said today.

Barracks are being built, buildings are being reconstructed, and temporary structures are being transformed into permanent ones. So great is the authorities' haste that builders have been asked to work Saturday afternoons and Sundays.

The isolation of the plain, in the view of the war office, lends itself admirably to the construction of underground ammunition dumps. Every possible step is being taken to render the storage rooms invulnerable. They are being built some distance from each other further to minimize the danger.

Confession Frees Innocent Man; State Pays $1,000

Olympia, Wash., April 12.—(AP)—Parole for Hal Grandon, who confessed to a crime for which Lee Braden was sent to rpison, was approved today by Gov. Clarence D. Martin.

Grandon was serving from five to six years for a robbery conviction in 1932. Braden was sentenced to from seven to ten years. He had served 11 months before his vindication.

CUBA REMOVES BAN ON OUTLAWED POLITICAL BODIES

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, April 12.—All the old Cuban political parties, outlawed several months ago, were restored to legal status today by a cabinet decree.

The decree excludes prominent figures and office holders of the régime of former President Machado from candidacy in the coming elections. A commission composed of the secretaries of commerce, justice, communications and interior and the mayor of Havana is set up to draft supplementary legislation fixing the scope of this exclusion.

The Liberal, Conservative and Popular parties will be permitted to use their old names, emblems and slogans.

GERMANY DENIES OFFER OF PACT IS SOMETHING NEW

Nazis Tell Their Version of Stresa Development.

BERLIN, April 12.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler today reassured Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, that he stands by his offer to sign bilateral nonaggression pacts without mutual assistance provisions.

That was the promise he made Simon, now at the tri-power conference at Stresa, during their recent conversations here, and that promise Simon carried to Stresa in the German memorandum summing up the conversations.

German officials expressed surprise at reports from Stresa that the reich had offered something new to help the conference reach an agreement.

German Policy Outlined.

Simon, through the British embassy, today asked Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath to confirm what Hitler had told him. Von Neurath complied. This was, in brief:

1. That Germany would sign bilateral pacts agreeing not to aid an aggressor in any way, whether economically, financially, militarily or otherwise;

2. That Germany would not accept mutual assistance provisions;

3. That what other powers put into their bilateral nonaggression pacts was not Germany's affair;

4. That all these bilateral pacts could be assimilaated into one general pact.

Bars Use of German Guns.

The effect of this, German officials said, would be that other powers could have their mutual assistance if they wanted it, but none of Germany's pacts would obligate it to use its men and guns to help anyone in trouble.

It would also obviate other powers' passing over German territory en route to answer an SOS call.

That Germany should agree to negotiaate bilateral pacts without the mutual assistance clause even though other powers included it among themselves was described as "quite logical" for, it was stated, "in the making of bilateral pacts outside countries cannot dictate what those treaties shall contain."

Optimism was lacking in official quarters here. One spokesman said it was like pulling teeth "for some countries to relinquish privileges they acquired 15 years ago."

"But no progress can be made," he continued, "until discrimination against Germany has been abandoned in the interest of a peaceful Europe."

DRIVE TO WIPE OUT PRIVATE INDUSTRIES LAUNCHED BY RUSSIA

MOSCOW, April 12.—(AP)—A campaign to smoke out private Russian manufacturers doing an illegal, though flourishing, business was launched today with the offering of rewards for information leading to their apprehension and punishment.

Press accounts estimated there are at least 1,000 "home factories" in Moscow where shoes, hats, clothing, and other articles are manufactured.

Many of these are registered and operated in legal form as coöperative profit-sharing concerns. With them there will be no interference. The action is directed at those which have no licenses and hire their workers, which is contrary to soviet law. Besides these "home factories" there are some 8,000 tailors, shoemakers, hatmakers, and the like registered and working individually in Moscow side by side with the state industries.

BRITISH EDITOR BEGINS DRIVE TO 'STAY OUT OF WAR'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—A sequel to the publication in the Daily Express on April 5 of a letter from J. M. Patterson, editor of the New York Daily News, advising his country to stay out of any European war and advocating that Great Britain and the United States stand together is an appeal this morning by Lord Beaverbrook, owner of the Express.

He asks for voluntary workers to distribute 10,000,000 copies of a pamphlet "giving an account of a movement in the United States aiming at coöperation and companionship with Britain in order to avoid war."

"We must bring to that movement," Lord Beaverbrook states, "the support and devotion of all who believe that in isolation from European quarrels and entanglements lies the only assurance of peace for our own country, the certainty of unity of the empire and the prospect of holding and keeping for Great Britain the moral leadership of the world."

PREFERS TO HELP POOR CHILDREN; WON'T MEET KING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—"Charity before pageantry" is the motto of Councillor S. R. Weightman, mayor of Bermondsey, one of the poorest districts of south London. He revealed today he had turned down a chance to shake hands with King George, preferring to spend money on needy cripples.

Weightman, who also is employed by the Southern railway as a locomotive cleaner, was to have been presented to the king at Chamberwell Green on May 18 with other mayors during the jubilee drive in south London. Explaining his decision to stay away, the mayor said:

"If I went to Camberwell to meet the king, 30 poor crippled children of Bermondsey would be robbed of a week's holiday at the seaside."

Bermondsey borough council already had decided not to spend public funds on the jubilee celebrations. Consequently the only way to share the expenses for the reception would be for Weightman to spend $400 or $500 from the mayoral purse.

"That purse was given me to meet calls of charity and out of it I intend to pay for a holiday for these crippled children," the mayor said. "I have nothing against the king personally. I think he is a good, straight man. When he learns why I declined to meet him he will, no doubt, appreciate my action."

FEVER BOX HALTS ARTHRITIS; USED IN FORD HOSPITAL

Science Also Treats Eye Affections with It.

Detroit, Mich., April 12.—(AP)—A new kind of fever box, designed by C. F. Kettering of General Motors, which has cured some forms of arthritis, eye infections and other ills, and been used on bone cancer, was shown to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology here today.

The interior of the box rises to temperatures of 160 to 170 degrees. In this, with only their heads outside, more than 100 human beings have found more or less relief from a variety of troubles during the last year at the Henry Ford hospital.

Lung Trouble Is Relieved.

The box has cured 50 per cent of a considerable number of cases of tuberculosis in animals, all of them infected with an acute form of the human variety of lung trouble. The tuberculosis experiments are considered "significant" as indicating that relief may be expected when the fever box is used on human tubercular sufferers.

The new apparatus has been in use at the Henry Ford hospital here for a year, under direction of Dr. F. W. Hartman, Dr. R. J. Major and Dr. H. P. Doub.

Artificial fevers have been used by physicians for several years, created by varying methods, from electric pads to radio. The advantage of the Kettering hot box is its simplicity, its comparative cheapness and ease of temperature control.

Wrap Bodies in Thick Covering.

The patients, human or animal, are placed in an atmosphere with up to 50 per cent relative humidity and temperatures of 160 to 170 degrees. Human or animal, their bodies are carefully wrapped in thick coverings. This is to prevent blisters.

Within about 45 minutes the humans show temperatures of 103 degrees. The temperature in the box then is dropped gradually. Meanwhile, the human temperatures rise to 105, and may go higher. The air in the box "cools" to about 120 degrees, which seems enough to maintain the artificial fever of most humans, once it has been set going.

The humans and the animals remain in the box four or five hours. They endure the discomfort of intense heat with the aid of sedatives, which may be given from time to time according to their sensations.

For Pelvic Inflammation.

For one type of arthritis the hot box has proven almost a specific cure. It has not relieved all kinds of arthritis. It has been effective for pelvic inflammations of women. Also for infections of the eyes. One case was a boy whose eyeball had been punctured by a dart thrown by a playmate. The fever cleared the infection and healed the eye without total loss of sight.

A man with bone cancer, who was given both X-rays and the artificial fever, recovered apparently and has been back at work for nine months with no sign of the cancer's return.

His cancer was a type regularly treated with X-rays and often so cured. The fever box appeared to speed the relief. A few animal cancer cases have been tried in the box without results.

New Approach to Thrombosis.

A new approach to the unsolved problem of coronary thrombosis, the heart disease that took former President Calvin Coolidge and that threatens those who work under high pressure, was described by scientists.

The report was made to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by Jane Sands Robb, M. D., of Syracuse university college of medicine.

Coronary thrombosis is a failure of the blood supply to one or more of the thirteen muscles which operate the human heart. Dr. Robb's work is a method of identifying some of the specific heart muscles which go wrong.

It is an advance on a technique which physicians have been using for 30 years in analysis of the meaning of motions of the electric tracing pencil in electrocardiagrams of the heart. The machine which does this was invented by Finthoven about 1900.

BRITISH MEDICAL BODY MODIFIES OATH OF SECRECY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—The bonds of a Hippocratic oath which have tied doctors' tongues since the days of ancient Greece have been loosened somewhat by the British Medical association.

A doctor may tell about his clients if police ask for information and if he can square it with his conscience. The medical association refused to make hard and fast rules, saying it is up to each doctor to decide whether his conscience permits him to answer police questions. If he thinks the police are entitled to the information, the doctor who tells hereafter will not be considered as violating his oath.

Only yesterday a doctor at a murder hearing refused to say what his woman client, who was accused, was suffering from. The medical association's ruling resulted from the Brighton torso murder, in which doctors were asked by police whether women clients had sought advice and then failed to put in an appearance.

FIVE-FOLD QUIZ ON CRASH FATAL TO 14 LAUNCHED

Williamsport, Md., April 12.—(AP)—Grief-stricken Williamsport parents today received the broken bodies of 14 children who died in the shambles of a bus on a Baltimore and Ohio railroad grade crossing at Rockville, Md.

At Rockville, a five-sided investigation was started. Percy Line, driver of the bus which was carrying the children home from a chemistry show at the University of Maryland, was released tonight after being held on a charge of manslaughter. His bond was $1,000.

Only two of the 15 injured persons were still in hospitals.

The sweeping five-cornered investigation was launched by the state public service commission, the state police department, Montgomery county and Rockville officials, the interstate commerce commission, and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

A formal coroner's inquest was scheduled for Tuesday at Rockville.

Line and Miss Louise Funk, the teacher, who carried her chemistry class on the ill-fated trip, said they heard no warning signals, saw no warning lights at the crossing. There was no watchman on duty at the crossing. His time of duty had expired an hour and a half before the crash.

HIJACK $8,000 LIQUOR CARGO; KIDNAP DRIVER

James J. Steele, a truck driver for the Union Transfer company of Omaha, Neb., reported to the police at Geneva yesterday that he had been kidnaped Thursday afternoon by four men who hijacked his truck, loaded with an $8,000 cargo of liquor.

The liquor, from the Hiram Walker distillery at Peoria, was consigned to a firm in Council Bluffs, Ia. Steele said the robbers halted him on a road near Moline. Two of the men took possession of the truck, while the others compelled him to get into their car.

CHICAGO'S PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM.

Mayor Kelly has opened discussions with the President and other federal officials on construction projects in Chicago for which federal money is desired. Congress has voted nearly 5 billion dollars for relief. Most of it is to be spent in providing employment. Logically, then, most of it ought to be spent in the cities, for it is in the cities that unemployment is most severe.

THE TRIBUNE did not favor the 5 billion dollar slush fund and does not approve it now. Much of the money, and probably most of it, is going to be squandered uselessly. Huge sums are going to be spent for public works of political, not practical, value. Millions will be grafted. There is ample evidence from previous experience to indicate that other millions are going to be wasted in activities such as instruction in barefoot dancing, the purpose of which is to buy up the votes of the ladies. The wastage will be colossal, as it has been in previous easy money distributions, and the resultant stimulation to business, if any, will not be worth more than a small fraction of what it will cost.

Chicago does not believe that prosperity can be restored through squandering, but the fact remains that the government is going to pour out money with a lavish hand and a large share of the outlay will have to be paid back, soon or late, by Chicago taxpayers. Under the circumstances, Mayor Kelly would be derelict in his duty if he did not obtain for Chicago at least a part of the money which Chicago will be forced to contribute to the slush fund.

Chicago does not want money to throw away. Chicago does expect that useful public works, of permanent value to the community, will be financed by the government. Public works which meet this rigid specification are elevated highways to serve the double purpose of saving lives and speeding movement through the city; the outer drive bridge, the lake front airport, and street and alley pavement. This list is not complete, but it suggests the type of improvement which the mayor, with a clear conscience, can ask the government to finance. All of these projects are of permanent value. They will add to the wealth of the community and of the country. They can be started promptly because they have all been carefully studied for months and some of them have been under scrutiny for years.

Chicago counts upon Mayor Kelly to respect the dignity of his position and of the city which he represents. Though other communities may behave like hogs at the trough, Chicago has no need and no desire to place itself in their class or to join in their grunting chorus.

LEGISLATION FOR WAR CONDITIONS.

There is no object to which congress could devote itself with more assurance of unqualified and emphatic support from the public than keeping this nation out of another European war. There is the same support for any intelligent effort to equalize, so far as it is practicable, the sacrifices which war, if it is imposed upon us, must exact from every one in the country.

The pursuit of both of these objects, however, should be governed by more sincerity and more regard for the nation and its people than is exhibited by the politicians who, in this session of congress, are devising war time laws and policies. The fact is that the ostensible purpose of these individuals is not their real interest, which is to keep in the spotlight, pose as enemies of war and war profiteers, and increase the power of politics and burocracy under cover of national emergency. The unscrupulous campaign to induce congress and the public to accept the legislation proposed has shown no intention to consider the actual conditions which have existed in past wars and will exist in any war. The chief of these is the necessity of an enormously and swiftly expanded supply of war material to clothe and equip the millions of men called to arms. This requires the highest elasticity and efficiency in the productive activities of the nation. It is a requirement vital to the welfare of the fighting men and to the success of the nation's cause. Yet these theorists would have us adopt a system which would suddenly turn the whole vast productive machinery over to the control of any government that happened to be in office, to be directed by any agents it saw fit to select at the moment.

The result, of course, would be immediate confusion and the permanent slowing down and lowering of production when the highest efficiency and the swiftest rate of production are of prime importance to the fighting forces and to the nation. The powers of the executive in war time are of the widest and most drastic character, and war sentiment supports not only their full exercise but even an extra-legal expansion the President and all the executive branch of government are disposed to undertake. This power not only under Woodrow Wilson but in every belligerent country was applied to make use of the existing machinery of production to the fullest extent and no nation was so insane as to turn it over to political control in the face of war demands.

If congress will read the records of war experience in any country, as for example that of the war prime minister of Great Britain, Lloyd George, it will make short work of bills framed by men who are not thinking of the needs of the soldier or of the nation at war but are exploiting ignorance and the prejudices they have fanned up for their own political profit. Coöperation between the government, which in war is the President, and the experienced directors of productive enterprise is essential and assured. At best it will fall short of the needs of the time, but the substitution of political operation for that of experienced private management would be a disaster. The condition it would produce would be welcome to the enemy. It would please every one at home and abroad who would like to see the American republic broken and revolutionized, and this includes the Red bosses of the Kremlin with whose ideas Nye, Norris and other advocates of a sovietized America are sympathetic.

The absorption of inordinate war profits is another object which the American public approves and would have provided for by sound measures but not by laws which ignore the requirements of financial solvency and productive efficiency under American institutions and are in fact schemes for confiscation and the extension of a socialistic control of all private property and private enterprise.

FAST AIR TRANSPORT.

In an editorial printed in the Aug. 7 issue of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, we took occasion to compliment the airlines on the introduction of sleeping planes. The congratulations, however, were qualified with the remark that while Chicago-New York flights might offer the best proving laboratory for the innovation, shortened schedules would soon render air Pullmans impractical. We predicted that "within the next few years" improved machines would fly the distance in three and even two hours.

Only eight months of those "next few years" have passed and the goal is in sight. The United Airlines has established Chicago-New York schedules naming four hours and twenty minutes as the standard transit time, including an intermediate stop at Cleveland—but time tables mean little. Even the slower westbound trip against prevailing winds has been made in less than four hours. The T. W. A. has two nonstop eastbound schedules for high flying Douglases advertising four hours nominal transit time but with actual records under three hours.

The American Airlines, too, following our prophecy, have withdrawn the sleeping planes and are shortening flying time with new equipment.

While it is customary to presume that air services are building up trafic at the expense of the railroads, we doubt this conclusion. Perhaps the plane is challenging the sphere of the long distance telephone to a certain extent, but in the main it is creating its own specialized trafic. The month of March, as an instance, included the busiest four weeks ever witnessed at the Chicago airport, yet this season of the year does not invite travel of any description.

All of which forcibly reminds us that while private enterprise is rapidly cutting down the time from New York to our airport, civic indifference is largely neutralizing the efforts by doing nothing toward the construction of a landing field within reasonable distance of the loop—the lake front offering an opportunity unparalleled anywhere. Do we care nothing for the maintenance of Chicago as the world's greatest air center?

MEDITATION OF AN OLD BRAVOER.

There is a gentleman who attends the Thursday evening symphony concerts who shouts "Bravo!" when pleased with what has just been played. Back in the season of '26 there was another who had the same idea, but he never could bring himself to say it above a loud whisper. He ended up as an editorial writer, as was only natural. It is an occupation in which, in recent years at least, a whispered bravo has been adequate to meet most of the situations calling for comment.

Even an old bravoer, however, must admit if he is socially minded that an audience containing only one bravoer is worse off than with none at all. When there is only one the rest of the audience can scarcely listen to the last movement for wondering what will be the judgment of the one vocal critic. What Mr. Moore may have to say the next day may carry more weight, but not at that moment. As the piece moves toward its end the suspense heightens. Fifteen hundred customers are waiting for the verdict of the one-man jury.

A chorus of bravoers is to be desired, but as long as the word is bravo Chicago will have to content itself with solo work. The reason is that bravo, however easily it may spring to the lips in Milan, can't be said comfortably in Chicago. Here our word is 'ataboy.

It is suggested that the gentleman substitute 'ataboy for bravo. That might win converts. If his fondness for bravo is so great that he cannot refrain from shouting it from time to time he can always go out to the ball park. It might create something of a sensation, but no one can say with certainty, in advance, that bodily harm would result. Still, a little additional insurance might not be amiss.

THE BACKWOODS LEADS.

[Peoria Transcript.]

Urban residents of Illinois often look with pity upon foothills communities in the southern part of the state. Residents of that section are sometimes considered gawking bumpkins who are happy in their ignorance and squalor.

That, however, is a mistake. Some of the smaller communities in isolated sections of Illinois have as much right to be proud of their achievements as Peoria or other industrial cities.

Take, for example, Bone Gap. The very name of this community has comic possibilities. But there is nothing backward about this little Edwards county town that has a population of only 500. It is the first town in Illinois to achieve 100 per cent protection of grade school children against diphtheria.

Every child in the first eight grades of its public schools has been inoculated with toxoid. Whatever else may happen, Bone Gap rests assured that it will not sacrifice any of its children to diphtheria. The significance of this achievement is heightened by the fact that diphtheria prevalence is running over 40 per cent higher in Illinois this year than last.

Larger Illinois cities might do well to take a lesson from this "backwoods" town and protect its school children against diphtheria.

If one must be disagreeable he ought at least to hide it. I shall get a gas mask. Besides, it will come in handy when I go walking. If a police dog unleashed (who ever saw a police dog that wasn't?) comes after me I will glare at him through my gas mask and yell, and a yell coming through a gas mask is the most demoniacal, unearthly sound ever heard. That police dog will turn tail and run thirty-five miles before he stops. Yes, a gas mask would be a good thing to carry around. You never know when you're going to sit down in the bus or the street car or at the movies alongside of somebody that's been eating onions! Or garlic! Oh, I just must dig up the old gas mask.

SONNETS.

(On the death of Edwin Arlington Robinson.)

Some few there are a roving power instills
With love of beauty for sheer beauty's sake,
Who are not wholly of us, in whom thrills
A surge of passion of which warp they make
Their songs. They do not pander to our world.
Its coin can purchase nothing they require
But quiet, while within them they are swirled
Into outpourings of their souls' desire.
In a vast realm of little men is need
Of mighty dreamers, who undaunted go
On the unswerving pathway of their creed
And spurn the fanfare of mock power and show;
Who see far and beyond the tinsel worth
Whereby we gauge our excellence on earth.

I know a house within whose cool recess
Shall live a shade, still sundered and alone,
But rooted so that none may dispossess
His visitation. They who have seen and known
Of him on earth will leave the panels bare
And shun as he did all overadorned,
Feeling the simple to be no less fair
And grief restrained full as sincerely mourned.
From that still house the music shall unceased
Flow for long time to come. We here will breathe
Its finely carven beauty with increased
Wonder and reverence, and seek to wreathe
Belated laurels, that in life he fled
And cares as little for now he is dead.

A BOONDOGGLER is an entirely innocent, respectable person. It just means he makes toys and trinkets out of scrap material and is paid out of relief funds. But take the word alone, without any explanation, and it sounds mighty rough. A fat woman on a very crowded street car yesterday complained that the man in front of her was standing on her foot. "I beg your pardon, madam," said the man; "I am sure I am not standing on your feet." "Oh, shet yer fool mouth," said the fat lady angrily, "you dirty boondoggler!" And the man was so humiliated and ashamed that he slunk off the car at the next corner, and I'll bet he's still trying to find out what a boondoggler is. Anyhow, boondoggler is such a mean sounding word that you'd better smile when you say it to anybody. Some people resent that kind of language.

DIABETES IN CHILDREN.

FEW of us can forget the hopeless picture presented by diabetic children before the discovery of insulin scarcely more than a dozen years ago. The prospect was not a pleasing one. In spite of the efforts of the physician and the parents, these children literally starved to death. There were thousands of them with their emaciated bodies and wistful, hopeless countenances. In order to keep them sugar free and prevent diabetic coma [unconsciousness] and death, sugars and carbohydrates had to be restricted in the diet. Strength was sapped and every happy emotion of childhood destroyed. Few of them lived more than two years after the onset of diabetes.

And then came the discovery of insulin, a precious gift to suffering humanity. It offered afflicted children the right to live, to be happy, to play, and to develop into normal men and women. There are but few cases that will not respond to careful dietetic management and the appropriate use of insulin. A little more than a decade ago these children were irretrievably lost; now they are with us in ever increasing numbers as young adults, and soon we will find them as participating members of society.

Any child who has excessive thirst, a voracious appetite, and profuse excretion of urine should be examined for the presence of diabetes. In many cases the condition will appear suddenly. There is a loss of weight, and parents will usually notice an increase in irritability, disturbed sleep, spells of anger or impatience, and, in spite of the best parental control, many will break over the dietetic boundaries. Perhaps the proverbial assault upon the jam jar was a response to the demand for sugar.

Even though recognized and treated early, the symptoms will generally increase for a time and a large amount of insulin will be required. After a few years, however, if wisely managed, the disease will steady down so that in young adult life a smaller amount of insulin is required.

I watched with interest a young diabetic through his college course, medical school, and hospital internship. At one time he required fifty to sixty units of insulin each day. He studied his own case thoroughly, determined his blood sugar, and today at the age of 26 he is taking less than 20 units and doing more than a hard day's work. Another case is that of a lad who at the age of 12 was able to control his diabetes with ten to fifteen units of insulin each day. When he began to grow in stature he required on the average fifty units. Now, at the age of 18, he is well stabilized on twenty-five units.

It is not always necessary to keep the child entirely sugar-free, as to do so would require too frequent insulin injections, or doses so large that an insulin reaction might occur. Rather than run the risk of insulin reactions it is often wiser to permit the blood sugar to remain at a level a trifle higher than normal.

During the period of adolescence—and in many children this begins as early as 12 or 13 years of age—strict adherence to a diet is difficult. Although most of these children understand their status thoroughly, yet with the enlargement of the spirit of adventure and of freedom they are inclined to break away from the rigid diet. They will do this occasionally even though they know the consequences. Gradually wisdom comes and they are just as anxious as any one to control such accidents as coma and the reaction that follows an overdose of insulin. An intelligent child, beyond the age of 5 or 6, can be taught to follow a diet and to weigh his food.

The psychological attitude of diabetic children is interesting. Although at first they may feel somewhat handicapped, most of them regain confidence as they study their own cases and gain the upper hand. They become masters of the situation. They must not be looked upon as physically ill, although they may quickly become so if diet or insulin is neglected.

HAY FEVER SHOTS.

L. L. writes: Are the shots given for hay fever experimental or really beneficial?

REPLY.

Hypodermic injections [vaccine] are protective against hay fever if the vaccine contains the particular pollen that causes the symptoms. To protect ourselves against typhoid fever we must be vaccinated with typhoid vaccine. The use of diphtheria toxoid will protect against diphtheria and nothing else. If the hay fever vaccine is made from the offending pollen it is usually beneficial.

[We have a booklet on hay fever that you can get by sending 10 cents and a stamped addressed envelope. The injections are usually begun about this time of year.]

TEARS.

M. J. C. writes: Your predecessor stated that nature produces one of the best eye washes in the form of tears. How can tears be brought to the eyes for the purpose of cleaning them?

REPLY.

Use a slice of onion. The pungent odor will produce a flow of tears. Fluid [tears] is constantly secreted by the tear glands. When emotion overcomes us and we cry the tear glands excrete a large amount of fluid—much more than can be carried off by the ducts that lead from the inner angle of the eyes into the nose. It is then that tears overflow. Nature washes the eyes with fluid from the tear glands every time we wink.

MUSCLE CRAMPS.

N. B. writes: Is there such a thing as muscles "locking"?

REPLY.

If such a condition occurs it is not common. Most cases of "locked" muscles are cramps, that is, a spasm of a group of muscles accompanied by sharp pain and occasioned by chill or cold, or by allowing the muscles to remain in a fixed position for a long period of time. Recently a German orthopedic surgeon, A. Fordemann, described "locked" muscles. He believes that one single muscle contracts before the others of a given group. This is difficult to explain as many groups of muscles have the same general nerve supply. At any rate, muscles will cramp and the remedy is massage and kneading designed to restore circulation and thus promote relaxation.

Paris Today

BY MAY BIRKHEAD.

PARIS.—For generations, it is no exaggeration to say, all Americans in Paris were supposed to be rich. They weren't, of course. But the legend clung, and even today it is difficult for many of the French to get out of the habit of thinking that all our compatriots must be well heeled and able to spend money almost as they please. One of the Americans who helped to create this impression of unlimited wealth first appeared on the scene here about 100 years ago. He was Col. Thorn, and he was anything but a thorn in the flesh of the Parisians, except those who wanted and could not get invitations to his brilliant parties. Before his appearance here a good many Americans had about the reputation that Dickens spread in his "American Notes," or Mrs. Trollope after her visit, about the same time, to the United States. One French countess, a contemporary of Col. Thorn's, described most of the Americans who had come under her observation on the boulevards as having a wandering eye, hat on back of his head, firmly closed mouth, cheeks swollen with tobacco, high shoulders, and seeming to put his legs almost anywhere, either on a chair or settee, or on his neighbor's knees.

Well, Col. Thorn soon gave the French countesses and other ladies of high degree in Paris a different conception of what an American could be. Even on his arrival in Paris he was soon going to just the right tailors, bootmakers, glovers, and gunmakers. The papers soon called him a financial potentate or an American colossus. He took over, in the Rue de Varenne, a superb dwelling, or hotel, known as the Hotel Monaco, and got the Princesse de Béthune and the Duchesse de Rohan, than whom none were more loftily placed, to give him suggestions about furnishing it and tell him whom he should invite to his parties, which soon became the talk of the capital. This hotel, by the way, eventually became the Austrian embassy and, if we are not mistaken, was recently taken over by the premier as his official residence. Mrs. Thorn, when she received, had the Princesse de Béthune at her side. A fancy dress ball given by the Thorns in 1840 is still noted in the annals of Paris.

AMERICANISM AT THE UNIVERSITY.

Chicago, April 6.—A professor of the University of Chicago in addressing an open meeting of the student public policy association in Mandel hall on April 4 advised that association to discontinue its massmeetings on Americanism and to form "study groups" to learn what it is all about.

If university students have been properly taught in the grade and high schools and if the faculty at the University of Chicago believe in and live Americanism and promote Americanism by both word and example there should be no need for special "study groups" behind closed doors on that subject. Speakers other than members of the faculty should be permitted to express their views through another American institution, that of the open meeting.

The professor's mannerism and speech make one suspicious that his purpose in advising "study groups" on Americanism was not to confine study solely to Americanism but to bring into the study that of many other "isms," apparently already sufficiently instilled in the minds of students by some members of the faculty and others.

All power to the public policy association at the University of Chicago in its purpose to revive thought in Americanism and American institutions, old fashioned perhaps, but still believed in by most of the faculty at the university and certainly by a tremendous majority in the United States. If subversive methods should be used by some members of the faculty to discourage the public policy association in its promotion of Americanism or such methods be used to wreck that organization in its infancy there is little doubt that an organization of alumni of the university will be formed to carry on and support that association. DICTIONARY HOUNDS.

Chicago, April 4.—The experience of Josephine Clark in her search for an elusive cross-word at the public library brings to mind my quest on the same errand three weeks ago.

After watching a man for forty minutes try to work out a cross-word puzzle direct from one of the two New Standard Websters nailed to a stand in the fourth floor reading room I went to the desk and asked an attendant if there was not a time limit on those books. The woman attendant said no.

There is a time limit in some other large cities and should be here without discrimination to cross-worders or others. I bring a list of words instead of the puzzle itself to the library and what I am doing is not known to others. Others than cross-worders use the dictionaries.

At our local Ogden Park branch of the library an attendant tells people, cross-worders and others, when they use the dictionary too long to the inconvenience of others. This would seem to be a good idea for the main public library itself. They of course have no right to withhold reference books from any one.

REQUEST FOR A BUS LINE.

Chicago, April 6.—What is the feasibility of a bus line on Lincoln Park West, from Diversey boulevard via Ogden and Blue Island avenues, connecting with the west side Washington boulevard and Jackson boulevard buses? Was the widening of Ogden avenue for the exclusive use of private passenger automobiles or are we taxpayers, who are not wealthy enough to afford private cars, to be refunded the moneys spent in taxes for the widening?
ALICE SORENSON.

ONCE UPON A TIME—AND NOW.

Chicago, April 10.—Once upon a time, when men were men and not stuffed carrots, a man married a woman because she was his conception of some ideal, because he loved her [or thought he did anyway], because he wanted a home, children, responsibilities that breed contentment.

Our story abruptly changes scenery, with the coming of the depression. Men, believe it or not, actually married because it was the best thing to do. The girl had a job, you see, and he didn't; so cleverly putting two and two together, he calculated that he'd be a sucker not to get married.

Now, some wise and just judge out in the open spaces is bellyaching because these same poor men have not, by law, the right to sue their fortunate wives for alimony! My, my, and when is some one going to put out eighteen day diets for these sissies to follow to keep their girlish figures intact?

The world was always a mite screwy, but if this law passes, the world is a genuine hardware store as far as I'm concerned! [MISS] ADA SARTORI.

DESERVED RIDICULE.

Chicago, April 4.—Permit me as a former subject of their majesties King George and Queen Mary (of Great Britain and not of England, as you so frequently state) to defend THE TRIBUNE against the criticism of a "Visitor from the South," who objects to ridicule about knee bending and backward walking at Buckingham palace.

THE TRIBUNE did not criticize the idiotic love and veneration of the British for the throne occupants.

It did, however, most rightly give full publicity to our annual national disgrace when the government of a republic actually aids foolish women to make their undemocratic knee contortions before alien monarchs. With true ideas of personal liberty one cannot prevent such a performance, but the opposition is always free to bring ridicule to bear where appeals to pride of nationality have no effect.

While on this subject I might make the comment that it should be very simple for congress to pass a resolution stating it to be the general feeling of that body that the American government and its servants should give no support to society introductions to foreign monarchs. This would still allow a great American scientist, etc., to be presented to a foreign monarch to receive a medal.

If the representatives of the American people had as much respect for republican principles as the writer, a former alien from a monarchy, they would immediately pass such a resolution and end this disgusting performance by American society women.
ALEXANDER LINDSAY.

DOGS FOR THE BLIND.

Chicago, April 3.—I was glad to see the article in which you described the difficulties being encountered by the blind attorney and my friend, Herbert Geisler, in obtaining permission for his guide dog to go with him to his office. Your publication of the facts will prove helpful not only to Geisler but to many other totally blind persons who would purchase such dogs if building owners and transportation companies were not so stubborn about giving a break to the blind. JOHN H. WILD.

QUITE SO.

Chicago, April 6.—You made a mistake in your headline of Saturday, April 6. It should read: "Vote Five Billions for Democratic Politicians and Graft." A. PECK.

EX-NURSE WINS $10,000 BALM FROM BARONET

Jury Also Orders Him to Return $15,000 Gifts.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—Emily Fender, a nurse who took care of him when he was in a drunkard's home, won $10,000 today from Sir Anthony St. John-Mildmay for breach of promise. She also got back jewels valued at $15,000 which he had presented to her but which the plaintif said he had refused to return after she had given them to him for safekeeping. The jewels included a string of imitation pearls.

There has been considerable agitation against breach of promise suits in England following the example set in the United States, but a jury in a London court decided the loss of Miss Fender's job and the disappointment was worth $10,000.

Sir Anthony may yet escape payment of the $10,000 as the case was adjourned until Monday so that his lawyers can argue whether the promise to marry should not be declared void. He says he made the promise when he was still a married man and that therefore it is null and void because it was "contrary to public policy."

"Dazzled by Title."

Soon after the argument on that technical point began, Justice Hawke remarked:

"If I can find in favor of this young woman, I shall not be sorry."

He said she had undoubtedly been dazzled by the glamor of Sir Anthony's title.

Roland Oliver, lawyer for the defense, referred to Sir Anthony as "this inebriate baronet." He declared Miss Fender knew he was a drunkard and thought perhaps she could reform him.

"Not very hopeful material," was the lawyer's remark, to which Justice Hawke added:

"To be the wife of Sir Anthony may not be so great a privilege as some might think."

Argues Evils of Suits.

The evil of breach of promise suits was argued by Oliver. Referring to letters exchanged by members of Miss Fender's family, he said:

"There is no spur like publicity to induce a man to pay. There is something sinister about it."

Two years after meeting Sir Anthony Miss Fender accompanied him on a vacation with a chaperon, Oliver said in summing up the testimony. Then, on his promise to get a divorce if he could, she lived with him, the lawyer said.

Testimony disclosed that Miss Fender and the baronet went on a cruise together but that he married Mrs. Beatrice May Dickeson after his first wife won a divorce.

SUPREME COURT DISBARS LAWYER; CLEARS ANOTHER

Attorney Louis W. Mack of Chicago was disbarred by the Illinois Supreme court yesterday. Mack is under indictment in the Cook county Criminal court on a charge of embezzling $12,000 from the Nurre Co., Inc., mirror manufacturers, 915 Buena avenue.

The indictment, returned last Feb. 25, alleged that Mack failed to account for the money, which was intrusted to him for the purchase of a mortgage. Mack, a graduate of the University of Illinois, has practiced law here since 1910. He has offices at 228 North La Salle street.

The Supreme court dismissed disbarment proceedings filed against another Chicago attorney, J. W. Horwitz. The court held that attorneys should be protected against entrapment.

Horwitz was attorney for a man, supposedly injured, in a case brought to test the honesty of an employé of the Zurich General Accident Liability Insurance company. Detectives employed by the company had the deception continued to discover "how far Horwitz would go" in pressing for damages, although the detectives knew the case was fraudulent.

"This court will not countenance trickery and deceit such as this record shows," the opinion stated. "Much less will it grant consummation by disbarring the respondent."

FLYNN TAKES UP ALL DISTRIBUTION OF COUNTY CASH

County Clerk Michael J. Flynn yesterday assumed the whole task of disbursing county funds which had hitherto been shared by the county treasurer's office.

Flynn is county controler ex-officio. He complained that many persons were getting their checks from the county treasurer's office and did not afterwards bother to sign vouchers in the controler's office, which constitute the county's only receipts for money paid out.

"The treasurer," Flynn said, "is merely the custodian of county money and is not entitled by law to make disbursements."

County Treasurer Robert M. Sweitzer was unperturbed by Flynn's edict. "I'm glad," Sweitzer said, "that I am to be relieved of the clerical and other routine work of paying out funds."

Flynn announced that he and not the treasurer will pay out the $2,100,000 with which the county is soon to settle all corporate operating debts outstanding up to last Jan. 1. The money came from the sale of $3,000,000 in 1935 tax anticipation warants.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Thomas Wolfe Receives More Lavish Praise

"Of Time and the River" Is Work of Genius.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Of Time and the River," by Thomas Wolfe. [Scribners.]

IN his Nobel prize acceptance speech Sinclair Lewis said: "Thomas Wolfe may have a chance to be the greatest American writer. . . . In fact, I don't see why he should not be one of the greatest world writers."

The number of readers who know Mr. Wolfe's first novel, "Look Homeward Angel," is comparatively few. . . . It received extravagant critical praise, but it was published in a season when long novels were not the style.

Times and fashions in fiction as in everything else have changed since 1929. Now the public WANTS long books. One even suspects it of having a feeling that quantity spells quality.

It is lucky for the American reading public as well as for Mr. Wolfe that "Of Time and the River" is published now, for perhaps the American reader will now discover what Sinclair Lewis and the critics were talking about.

If he really reads "Of Time and the River" thoroughly, the reader will feel that he has come in contact with undeniable American genius. While "Of Time and the River" is more truly in the tradition of the great, flowing, gargantuan English novel than any American novels of our day, it has about it a careless, personal, almost reckless disregard for those traditions, a quality that has produced whatever is most individual in American fiction. There is something epically American about Mr. Wolfe's record of a young American's last years of adolescence.

To digress a moment, but, I think, to make the point more clear. One of Gertrude Stein's most interesting contentions in her lecture about English literature is that it chronicled what she called the "daily island life" of the English . . . rigid, categorical, typical. The best of English literature always has been, perhaps always will be, rigid, categorical, typical, for by the very nature of its heritage its integral life, its compactness, there can be and is a typical English life and thought and, therefore, expression. America has no such simple categorical nature. Its norm is essentially having no norm. Lack of conformance is more typically American than conformance.

When Thomas Wolfe writes a novel that is by old novel standards actually careless in form, but that has the veritable stamp upon it of the great ponderous, lusty novels of English literature, he is writing out of the soul of his country and its place in the current of time and the river of life.

What happens to the boy who went from the south to Harvard, thence to New York and Oxford and Paris and Orleans and on a bemazed wandering through provincial France is of little interest in events, but of tremendous and overpowering interest in the impact of those events on a sensitive young American's mind. Those events transmuted into adventures of the mind and the spirit and the emotions are as fresh and timeless as time itself.

It is difficult to put into words the reader's conviction that here is greatness, but every reader must feel it, unless he has skimmed the pages for the "story." It is because of and not in spite of the ordinariness of the story that this book has power. The hero is over-sensitive, but not more over-sensitive than hundreds of thousands of other young Americans who have gone to college, taught school in New York, tried passionately to understand their own, their native land, and gone abroad to be quickened in their search.

In the same sense that Marcel Proust's "Remembrance of Things Past" was autobiographical . . . that every sensual impact was known or actually observed by the author and all of the emotional reactions known if not personally felt the reader feels that "Of Time and the River" is autobiographical.

On page 858 of the gigantic novel Thomas Wolfe tells of his hero's sudden passion for writing. "He began to write now like a madman . . . driven by an insanity of sense and soul and feeling which he no longer could master or control, tranced in a hypnosis by whose fatal and insatiate compulsions he was forced, without will, to act. Gripped by that ungovernable desire, all ordered plans, designs, coherent projects for the work he had set out to do went by the board, were burned up in the flame of a quenchless passion . . . the words were wrung out of him in a kind of bloody sweat . . . he wrote them with his blood, his spirit; they were wrenched out of the last secret source and substance of his life."

That, it seems to me, must have been the way "Of Time and the River" was written, wrenched out of the last secret source and substance of a young man's life.

Four more novels, each, like this and "Look Homeward, Angel," a complete tale in itself, will comprise the gigantic record of American life which Mr. Wolfe contemplates. It has been said by those who know that millions, literally millions, of words have been written already; that over a million were written for this volume alone [which must contain nearly 500,000 words even now].

The author dedicates this volume to Maxwell Evarts Perkins, "a great editor and a brave and honest man, who stuck to the writer of this book through times of bitter hopelessness and doubt and would not let him give in to his own despair" . . . a tribute rare, indeed, from an author to his adviser-publisher.

"Of Time and the River" was published on March 8. I have been reading it slowly, relishingly, these weeks . . . and that is the way that I advise you to read it.

Rose Macaulay to Present New Book of Essays

'Personal Pleasures' Will Be a Delight.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—One of the most charming books to be published last season was Miss Rose Macaulay's "The Minor Pleasures of Life" [Gollancz]. In that book, which was intended for idle reading on the part of those who enjoy skimming the eccentric ideas of other people, all sorts of little known authors were called upon to contribute their odd preferences, and the result was a perfect work for dipping and relaxation.

But now Miss Macaulay is to follow her anthology with something of even greater interest—her own personal account of the delights of life. It is to be called "Personal Pleasures." Now Miss Macaulay differs from most other women writers of the day in the fact that while she writes novels of the most amusing order her real taste is for old books, old authors, old ways.

She cares most of all for style, that ever debated quality in literary expression which distinguishes one writer from another. And it is as an essayist or analyst, a writer of belles lettres, that she would rather be regarded. For this reason her "Casual Commentary" is a book which all admirers should possess, and "Personal Pleasures" will perhaps be the best of all her nonfictional works.

In the month of May, when the English spring reaches its height (and this means that the countryside is at its best, cricket in full swing, and every other pleasure except the pleasure of tea by the fireside is to be had in the land), Gerald Bullett will publish a new and very long and ambitious novel entitled "The Jury" [Dent]. Mr. Bullett's satirical poem, "The Bubble," made him new friends, and it is likely that his novel may be both the best and the most popular he has written.

Before that time we probably shall see a new kind of book which will have much interest for those who care most for personal impressions of literary people. It is not an autobiography, but it will have the attractiveness of a volume of reminiscences. And it is called "Contacts" [Cassell: in the United States, Harpers], and the author is Curtis Brown.

Mr. Brown has been fifty years in the newspaper and publishing worlds. He has met many of the leading writers and personalities in the United States and England. And as a literary agent he has been brought into touch with these people upon a side in which nearly all readers are concerned.

I have not seen the book; I do not know anything of its size. But as an announcement it has the value of promising a really intimate and widely ranging picture of the literary world. As far as I am aware, no other literary agent has ever written a book about his experiences, and Mr. Brown's geniality and shrewdness should give his work peculiar interest.

National Scandals Taken for a Ride by Werner

Werner the author of "Barnum," a gentleman of the literary rapier not surpassed when he slashes, has written about "Privileged Characters" [McBride] with a sharp wit and a keen understanding of their private foibles as well as of humankind's greed. The characters are those who have shamelessly made a killing out of our government, the participants in the Tea Pot Dome, ocean and air mail, veterans' hospitals, and other national scandals.

Restless Days, by Lilo Linke [Knopf], tells of a young girl growing up in Germany after the war and her attempt to fight for a cause already lost.

Writes Biography of Mungo Park, Noted Explorer of Africa

"Mungo Park, and the Quest of the Niger" [Putnam], by Stephen Gwynn, tells the remarkable story of the shy, pious young Scotch physician who shares with Stanley and Livingstone the honor of being Africa's greatest explorer.

Mungo Park, whose name makes a commuter think of a garden suburb, didn't quite solve the mystery of the Niger's course, which had baffled Europeans for many years, but he did navigate it for a thousand miles and he added that priceless word "mumbo-jumbo" to the English vocabulary.

Mr. Gwynn has done a good job in rounding out the stirring biography of this unusual explorer whose own "Travels" is one of the classics of exploration literature.

Friend Awards to Writers Are Made at Dinner

Five Young Authors Get Cash Prizes.

AT the annual Fellowship award dinner of the Friends of American Writers on Thursday evening at the Medinah club the club's honors for the year were bestowed, in person and vicariously, upon five young American writers.

The $500 Mary Malcom fellowship for creative work in American literature, presented to Northwestern university by the Friends of American Writers, was bestowed by Dr. Franklin Bliss Snyder, dean of the graduate schools, on George Paul Grant in absentia. Mr. Grant is now an assistant in English at Syracuse university. He will spend next year at Northwestern, where he will do research and creative work on the American scene.

Four awards of $50 each were made to Illinois authors who had done outstanding work between January, 1934, and March, 1935. Two of the novelists were present to receive them in person, Helena Carus, author of "Artemis, Fare Thee Well" and Jessica Nelson North, author of "Arden Acres." Another novelist, MacKinlay Kantor, author of "Long Remember," received his award through his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ruth Bennett. Dr. Percy Boynton of the University of Chicago accepted the award in the name of Vincent Sheean, whose "Personal History" was the only book of nonfiction to be so honored.

In addition to the individual awards the sum of $100 was presented to the Chicago public library to be spent for copies of the four prize books, with the number of copies of each one to be purchased left to the discretion of Carl Roden, librarian.

The evening's address was given by William Montgomery McGovern of Northwestern university, author of one of the best travel books ever written, "To Lhassa in Disguise," and president of the Society of Midland Authors, who spoke on "The Literature of Exploration from Herodotus to Halliburton." Other literary guests of honor were Sterling North, Llewellyn Jones, Susan Wilbur, and Vincent Starrett.

Mrs. Charles B. Spaulding is president of the Friends of American Writers and Mrs. James Henry Jackson chairman of the foundation for literature committee.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK

"Most Beautiful Lady" [Farrar & Rinehart], by Dorothea Brande, is called a "mystery novel" and that is exactly what it is though crime of a sort and eventually murder punctuate its course. It is the story of the most beautiful woman in the world, her marriage and destruction and throughout its length conveys a sense of doom and secret horror.

A group of artists are commissioned to paint this beautiful lady, and being real artists, not painters of pretty surfaces, they are troubled, disgusted and finally terrified by their sitter and her entourage. The book is written with the greatest skill. Technically, in pattern and in phrasing it is really fine. Those artists and their wives and all others who are so deftly indicated are very real and arouse honest sympathy or suspicion and frequently misplaced emotions.

Whether the book is too unconventional to appeal to the dyed-in-the-wool mystery story reader is a question, but any one who likes novels sensitive, adroit, and very charmingly written must find it appealing. And it does pack a very definite surprise, for many a villain sheds his apparent guile and there is a wolf or two in sheep's clothing. So, comparatively bloodless though it may be and definitly short of detectives, amateur or professional, read it for a good book with an original and arresting theme.

If you prefer the other sort of mystery a whole new flock of the Tired Business Man's Library [Appleton-Century] has just come off the press. These box the compass with Scotland Yard, the New York detective bureau and bright young amateurs performing prodigies of detection at home and abroad. The new numbers include "Murder at Marston Manor," by Robin Forsythe; "Between Murders," by Sherry King; "The Mystery of Khufu's Tomb," by Talbot Mundy; "They Called Him Death," by David Hume, and "The Murder of Miss Sloan," by Sidney Williams. Surely in all this death and destruction and its attendant retribution there is something for every jaded taste.

Books on Gardening Claim Their Place in Springtime Sales

Garden club members and the rest of us who sometimes cry ourselves to sleep because we haven't a garden, will be glad to know that these spring days books about gardens are being written, published and sold zestfully.

Louise Beebe Wilder tells "What Happens in My Garden" [Macmillan] in a volume of practical information pleasantly presented. About half of the volume concerns the rock gardens with which she has been so successful.

Max Schling, a well known New York florist offers purely practical, and practically pure advice for the layman in "Everyman's Garden" [Macmillan].

Mrs. Frederick Love Keays reviews the charms of "Old Roses" [Macmillan] both practical and historical.

A new edition of the famous "1001 Garden Questions Answered" [Dodd Mead] by Alfred Carl Hottes brings a famous handbook up to date.

And Louise Seymour Jones in "Who Loves a Garden" [Primavera Press] is delightfully inspired by that most fascinating of subjects.

HEAD OF MEXICO RAPS REDS AND COMMUNIST RULE

Cardenas Says He'll Protect Private Enterprise.

MEXICO CITY, April 12.—(AP)—Four months of uncertainty as to whether the government of President Lazaro Cardenas planned to establish a communistic régime in Mexico were ended tonight when he said "Communism is not my doctrin nor the inspiration of my policies."

At a time when strikes are sweeping the country, the president declared himself openly in favor of the strike as a weapon of the worker in obtaining social justice.

But at the same time he predicted a rapid end of current difficulties and said under his government private enterprise "can count on full guarantees and securities."

Predicts Directed Economy.

Summarizing conditions in the country, Cardenas said Mexico is headed toward an era of directed economy but that this must be founded on social justice for the working classes.

"The present strikes," he continued, "are movements which will revindicate the essential rights of the workers and I am glad they came in my administration.

"We have encouraged and defended the right of workers and peasants to elevate their living conditions with better salaries, to own their own lands and enjoy more just working conditions, and when from words we pass to facts the timid spirits are frightened.

"As for me, all those who know me know that I cannot be the instrument of a prosperity founded on unjust exploitation of the working classes.

Protests Loyalty to Constitution.

"I have always protested my loyalty to the constitution and the six year plan and am sure no one can show me a single phrase in which I have declared communism is my doctrin or the inspiration of my policies."

Nine cities were without lights or power tonight as the result of strikes called in sympathy with the week old walkout of power company employés in Tampico. Hardest hit was Vera Cruz on the Gulf of Mexico, where industry, transportation, and water service were reported completely halted.

Other towns affected by the electric power strike were San Luis Potosi, Leon, Irapuato, Guanajato, Celaya, Ciudad Guzman, Uruapan, and Merida.

Blackstone Hotel Due to Celebrate 25th Birthday

More than a thousand guests are expected to be present Tuesday night for the banquet celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the opening of the Blackstone hotel. The menu, with its accompanying wines and liqueurs, will duplicate that served to the guests on the opening night twenty-five years ago, and three head waiters and two waiters who were employed then will serve the anniversary dinner.

Jack Mulhall and Wife Separate After 13 Years

Hollywood, Cal., April 12.—[Special.]—Jack Mulhall, onetime silent movie star, and his wife, the former Evelyn Winans, have separated after thirteen years of married life, they revealed today. Neither would discuss divorce. "There is no one else in either of our lives," Mrs. Mulhall said. Mulhall is trying a comeback in talkies in minor parts.

Killed When She Runs in Front of Street Car

Mrs. Elizabeth Stackly, 55 years old, 4801 West Chicago avenue, was fatally injured early today when she was struck by a westbound Monroe street car at Canal street. She was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where she died shortly afterward. Witnesses told the police that Mrs. Stackly ran in front of the car.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Bleat for Bottle

April 12, 1935.

THE four lambs being raised on the bottle on the Wheaton experimental farm have become so tame and such drinkers that it's impossible to stroll through the sheepfold without being bothered to death by this quartet. I was in the sheepfold yesterday to look over the lambs and also take a peek at the free-for-all egg laying contest being staged every day in one corner of the barn.

Just as soon as Rawlings and I got inside the sheepfold, up came the bottle lambs begging for a bottle. One little fellow, that is creamy white compared to some of the bleaters running around with him, walked all over my feet, and pestered us every step of the trip around the fold. And keeping him company was another darker colored lamb that kept up a constant cry for milk. Rawlings picked up this fellow to show me a distinctive marking on him. Starting under his chin and continuing across his throat and chest is a narrow black stripe. It looks like a "shady" spot that the sun couldn't get to.

One of the lambs now being fed bottled milk is being deprived of its rightful share of natural milk from an ewe because its twin brother is such a bully. The bully is a big husky lamb today—the picture of health. I saw him yesterday. He's waxing fat at the expense of his brother. The half starved member of the family has been doing so badly in getting natural milk that it was necessary to feed him from a bottle.

It's a beautiful sight to see the ewes and some 212 lambs come in from the fields around evening. I watched the parade the other night just before a storm arrived. The sky was overcast with ominous black clouds. A raw wind was coming out of the east. Although only four o'clock, the ewes, apparently sensing the coming of a cold rain, started toward the sheepfold and shelter with their lambs. When I looked out into the open field the line of animals slowly walking toward the barn was more than a block long. The ewes were plodding along in a stolid manner. But the lambs were kicking up their heels, making running spurts from the line of march, and then returning to their mothers as if storms had no fear for them.

The behavior of the ewes can be taken as a sort of barometer here on the farm. If the weather is fair they will stay out in the fields until late. But let the sky become overcast and a hint of rain get into the air, and in they come to the sheepfold much earlier than usual.

The free for all egg laying contest here on the farm involves one turkey hen, one guinea hen, and several Barred Rocks. This gang of egg producers wait turns to get on two nests that are side by side in the sheepfold. I stopped yesterday to look at the contents of the nests. There were three turkey eggs, one small buff colored guinea egg, and four hen eggs in the nests. The guinea hens are breaking records out here for early egg production. A few of them already are laying, although they ordinarily do not lay until much later in the season.

Ken Miller and Andy Shadoan have been hauling hay on the Yorkville farm—an indication that haymows on the south side of the river are getting low. They drove a hayrack yesterday to a barn on the north bank of the Fox to get a load of alfalfa and put it in one of the mows on the south bank.

TWO HUNG JURIES IN FRAUD TRIALS; COST IS $46,500

State Is to Seek Third Action Against 7.

CRIMINAL COURT.

FRANK CORSINI, conspiracy, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

HERMAN STOECKICHT, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

EDUBIGES LANDEVOS, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Two trials of seven alleged bucket shop operators, both of which have ended in disagreements by juries, have cost the state approximately $46,500, it was estimated yesterday as the second trial ended in Judge E. I. Frankhauser's Criminal court. The jury, which was reported 11 to 1 for acquittal, was discharged after 42 hours of deliberation.

The first trial, before Judge Walter La Buy, ended last October when the jury, which stood 9 to 3 for acquittal, reported itself hopelessly deadlocked after 18 hours of deliberation.

Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright announced after yesterday's discharge of the second jury that the state would move for a third trial in the case. It was believed, however, that the trial would not occur until next fall. It was pointed out that all judges now sitting in the Criminal court are barred from hearing the case through petitions for changes of venue.

An itemized account of the estimated expense of the two trials, which lasted a total of 12 weeks, is as follows:

Salary of two assistant state's attorneys for three months	$ 4,000
Salary of judge for three months	5,000
Salary for jurors at $5 a day for three months	5,400
Food for jurors at $10 a day for three months	900
Jurors' amusement [bus rides, movies, etc.]	150
Court clerk's salary for three months	830
Five bailifs' salaries for three months	3,835
Salary of auditor for three months	1,200
Investigation and preparation for two trials	25,000
Total	$46,315

The defendants in the case are charged with conspiracy to defraud investors of more than $1,000,000 by means of bucket shop operations. The defendants are Leonard Rolinick, Ben Reuben, P. J. Greene, Barney Lavin, Ernest Wahl Simon, G. William Herbst, and Albert K. Sherman.

TRIBUNE BOATS ARRIVE IN RACE FROM ONTARIO

Shelter Bay Is First to Deliver Paper.

BY HARRY A. LAIRD.

[Trafic Manager, Chicago Tribune.]

It was predicted yesterday that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S newsprint carrier, the steamship Shelter Bay, would prove a dangerous rival to the S. S. New York News, another paper carrier and the holder of the 1933 and 1934 records, in their race for the honor of delivering the first cargo of the season at Chicago. The smaller Shelter Bay, with Capt. F. V. McIntyre in command, more than carried out the prophecy by passing the News at Point Betsy to arrive at Chicago at 4 p. m., just one hour ahead of Capt. R. J. Brown with his New York News. The third vessel of the fleet, the motorship Chicago Tribune, was about ten hours astern of the News.

Both Capt. Brown and Capt. McIntyre reported an uneventful passage. Indeed, the former described it as monotonous as compared with his first trip for the season of navigation, 1934, during which he battled ice in the Straits of Mackinac for three full days.

Lane Cut Through Straits.

Clearing the Welland canal at 1 p. m. last Monday, clear weather and open water stretched before the vessels all through Lake Erie, the Detroit river, Lake St. Clair, the St. Clair river, and Lake Huron. Aids to navigation, such as buoys and lighthouses, are not yet in commission; otherwise the trip was comparable with October voyages.

Late on Wednesday the wireless of the New York News picked up that of the Coast Guard steamer Escanaba, which informed them that it had succeeded in breaking through the ice in the south channel leading to the Straits of Makinac, thus shortening the voyage by forty miles. During the same evening, the Escanaba was sighted and immediately led the way to her lane through the ice.

Shelter Bay Overhauls News.

Clearing the ice at Gray's reef Thursday morning with the News still in the lead, the steady grind through the center of Lake Michigan was commenced. By the time the vessels were abreast of Point Betsy the Shelter Bay had overhauled the News and during the night took a commanding lead of ten miles.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In an item yesterday concerning the Niles Center municipal election campaign, it was erroneously stated that Thomas McMullen is a member of the United People's party. He is a member of the Citizens' party.

An item yesterday gave the address of Mrs. Carrie Smiley's saloon as 1606 West North avenue. The correct address is 1606 West Grand avenue.

88 TWINS READY FOR JOURNEY ON "TWIN ZEPHYRS"

The twin Zephyrs of the Burlington railway will arrive abreast in the Union station in Chicago at 1:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from Aurora with cargoes of twins on board. Forty-four twins from Chicago and suburbs are scheduled to ride on one train and on the other will be forty-four more.

One train will depart from Chicago with all forty-four pairs at 10:55 o'clock tomorrow morning. At Aurora it will meet the other train, which will depart from Kansas City for Chicago shortly after midnight tonight. The party then will be divided. On their way into the Union station the trains will pause at Halsted and 16th streets while Steve Owens, general agent of the railway's passenger department, conducts ceremonies celebrating the first double arrival of the trains in Chicago.

The ceremonies will be a prelude to the opening of regular service by the Zephyrs between Chicago and Minneapolis on April 21.

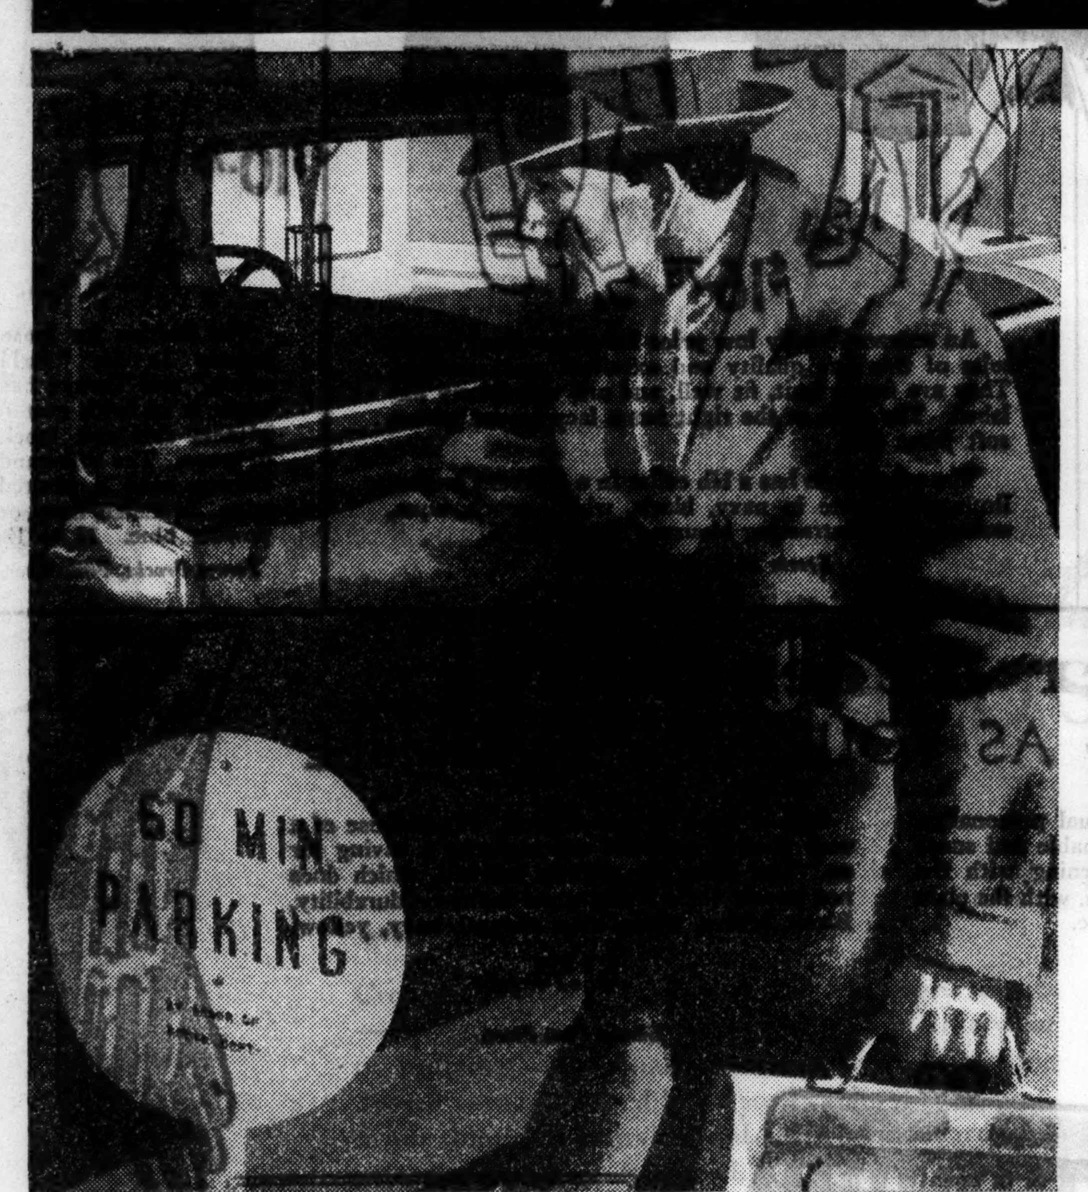
You do 80% of your driving WITHIN 25 MILES of your home



ONE "COLD" START ALONE can waste up to a cupful of gasoline before the motor warms up. That uses a lot of gasoline—as many cars are started 15 times a day . . . and many business cars 30 times a day!

SUPER-SHELL saves gasoline formerly wasted in starting and warming up. It can save as much in 50 "cold" starts as you'd need to climb all the way up Pikes Peak. It saves on pickup and steady running, too.

50 "cold" starts use as much gasoline as climbing Pikes Peak

Today's "Stop-and-Go" driving wastes your money—if your gasoline hasn't these Three Different Kinds of Power . . .

THE way most cars are driven today fairly "EATS UP" GASOLINE. Dashing around! Starting . . . choking . . . accelerating. The average car piles up FOUR-FIFTHS of its mileage in short trips.

Such driving wastes your money unless the gasoline you use has three distinct kinds of power in PERFECT BALANCE!

Super-Shell, the first truly balanced gasoline, combines POWER for quick starting . . . POWER for accelerating . . . POWER for the steady run.

It has such even volatility that it burns with maximum efficiency and without knocking at every engine temperature.

This "super-gasoline" is another accomplishment by Shell technical experts whose original research with Ricardo led to the high-compression head principle found in 95% of today's cars . . . and the "weather-conditioning" of gasoline.

SUPER-SHELL is sold at no extra cost—at more than 30,000 neighborly Shell Stations from Coast to Coast.

Saves Gasoline 3 WAYS

1. Can save up to a cupful on every "cold" start.
2. Can save up to a cupful in ten minutes of hill climbing or repeated accelerating.
3. Can save up to a cupful in every hour of steady running, many motorists report.

THREE SONS SUE TO BREAK WILL OF RICH WIDOW

Seek to Discover Assets of Alma Olsen.

Three sons of the late Alma M. Olson, Glencoe widow, sued in the Circuit court yesterday to break her will, naming two other sons and three daughters as defendants.

It was also revealed that the same plaintifs had filed a petition in the Probate court Thursday seeking to discover assets of the estate and asking that Attorney Albert O. Olson, one of the defendants in the Circuit court suit, be removed as executor. Named with Attorney Olson in the petition is his sister, Miss Hilda M. Olson.

The petition alleges that whereas the executor estimated the value of Mrs. Olson's estate at $140,000, it was actually worth $416,035 or more. It sets forth that Albert and Hilda Olson took over the management of the widow's affairs and availed themselves of the widow's ignorance of business matters by conspiring to "enrich themselves at the expense of Alma Olson and the natural beneficiaries of her estate."

Accounting of Affairs Ordered.

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell ordered an accounting of the widow's affairs from the time of the death of her husband, Carl O. Olson, founder of the Chicago Cartage company, 433 West Chicago avenue, in 1918.

Plaintifs in both actions are Charles H. Olson, 721 Belmont avenue; Walter N. Olson, 3163 North Western avenue, and Allan G. Olson, a retired naval officer living in Coronado Beach, Cal. Both actions were filed by Attorney Walter Hamilton.

Besides Albert and Hilda Olson the other defendants in the Circuit court suit are Mrs. Martha S. Benson, Grays Lake, whose son, Justus, is president of the cartage company; Russell Olson, who lives with Hilda at 450 Oakdale avenue, and Mrs. Mollie C. Irwin, 382 Lincoln avenue, Glencoe. Albert Olson has law offices at 69 West Washington street and lives at 775 Sheridan road, Glencoe.

Sues to Break Mother's Will.

Another suit to break a will was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Thomas S. McKibben, 52 years old, 2487 Smalley court, a furniture dealer. He asks that the will of his mother, Mrs. Katherine M. McKibben, who died last Aug. 24, be set aside as "illegal and against public policy." The will provides for division of Mrs. McKibben's $100,000 estate among her children after 25 years have passed.

Mrs. McKibben was the widow of Leonard L. McKibben, north side furniture dealer. In her will she cut her son off with $1, declaring that her action was prompted by "his apparent lack of affection for me, his oppression of me, and his evident lack of faith and endearment ordinarily held by any son for his mother."

Bulk of Estate in Trust.

Her will specified that her furniture store at 964 Milwaukee avenue, is to be operated by the trustee for five years, and then it and her house at 2436 Kimball avenue are to be sold. The bulk of the estate was placed in trust with the Pioneer Trust and Savings bank, for Thomas McKibben's children, Phoebe, 23 years old; Patricia, 21, and Leonard, 10. When the youngest becomes 35 years old, the estate is to be divided.

McKibben holds in his bill that the postponement of division for 25 years is contrary to the "law of perpetuities," which provides that no trust shall be for a longer time than "the life of one living" plus 21 years and 9 months.

Her sister, Helene Costello, who returned several days ago from Cuba and is residing with Mrs. Barrymore, said her sister would not discuss her position with anybody.

CLERGYMAN DIES UNNOTICED AS HE KNEELS IN PEW

Scheduled to Speak, Arrives Late.

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—The Rev. Dr. Robert Scott Chalmers, 53, of Baltimore, a leading Protestant Episcopal clergyman, was to have been the Lenten preacher at Trinity church at midday today. He arrived belatedly to find the Rev. Dr. Frederick S. Fleming, rector of Trinity, already in the pulpit and, taking a pew near the altar rail, died while on his knees.

Dr. Chalmers' body remained fixed in the attitude of devotion and it was not until Dr. Fleming had finished his brief discourse that the death became known.

Body Slumps to Floor.

Then the Rev. Dr. Thomas A. Sparks, of the Trinity clergy, thinking the visiting clergyman's posture strange, tiptoed to his pew and shook him. The body crumpled to the floor.

Dr. Fleming, who was concluding the service was at once notified. He announced the death of Dr. Chalmers, a longtime friend, from the pulpit and then recited a Litany as Dr. Lewis Amiel pronounced Dr. Chalmers dead.

Church Is Filled.

The church was filled to capacity.

No one in the congregation knew until Dr. Sparks' discovery that anything was wrong, nor until Dr. Fleming's announcement that the man who was to have stood in the pulpit at that hour had been fatally stricken.

Dr. Chalmers, a native of Dundee, Scotland, was rector of Grace and St. Peter's church, Baltimore, for many years.

EMPORIA BANKER MUST JOIN SON IN PENITENTIARY

Topeka, Kas., April 12.—(AP)—The State Supreme court ruled today that Warren W. Finney, 61 year old Emporia capitalist, must go to prison for embezzlement, joining there his son and Tom Boyd, former state treasurer, who figured in a million dollar bogus bond scandal.

Finney, who as banker and telephone company president, was denied a rehearing of the case in which he was sentenced to from 35 to 600 years in prison. He was convicted of having embezzled $65,000 from his now closed Emporia bank.

The charges were not directly connected with bond manipulations which sent his investment-plunging son, Ronald, to a long term in the Kansas penitentiary. Tom Boyd was involved in the bond scandal when state treasurer.

APPEAL IS LOST; CRAWFORD MUST BE PULASKI ROAD

The Illinois Supreme court dismissed yesterday the appeal of a group of business men from the Chicago city council's change of the name of Crawford avenue to Pulaski road.

At the instance of a group of citizens the council approved the name change in honor of Count Casimir Pulaski, Polish patriot who fought in the American revolution and lost his life in the battle of Savannah. The change was vigorously fought by numerous merchants and residents along the street.

In dismissing the appeal the Supreme court pointed out that the general assembly delegated to cities and villages the privilege of changing the names of their streets. It ruled that the courts may not disturb the exercise of the privilege.

J. FEUCHTWANGER FUNERAL SERVICE WILL BE PRIVATE

Private funeral services will be held here Monday for Joseph Feuchtwanger, 64 years old, 5427 Hyde Park boulevard, civic leader and retired mail order merchant, who died of a heart attack in the loop on Thursday.

Until his retirement three years ago Mr. Feuchtwanger was president of the Elmer Richards company, Chicago mail order concern, that he helped to organize in 1909. He was credited with pioneering the principle of installment buying as applied to mail order sales.

Born in New York, Mr. Feuchtwanger spent most of his early life in Pittsburgh, coming to Chicago in 1908. He was active in civic work here and was a friend of many men high in public life, including President Warren G. Harding. He toured the United States as a "four minute speaker" during the war.

Surviving are his widow, the former Musette Schram; three sons, Sidney, Joseph Jr., and Richard, and a daughter Esther.

THOUSANDS PAY FINAL TRIBUTE TO ADOLPH OCHS

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—Thousands of persons attended simple funeral services today for Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, in Temple Emanu-El. Burial was at Temple Israel cemetery in Westchester county, where Mr. Ochs had his home.

At 10:30 o'clock when the funeral service opened, several news agencies throughout the world suspended the transmission of news as a tribute to Mr. Ochs. The Associated Press wires were silent, as were those of the Standard News association, the Japanese Rengo agency, and Stefani agency in Italy and others.

By order of Mayor La Guardia, flags on all city buildings were at half staf until noon.

Simplicity and brevity marked the services conducted by Rabbi S. H. Goldenson.

In the great war he submitted a device for the protection of vessels through smoke screens, which was adopted by the British admiralty. From 1902 to 1904 he commanded the Canadian militia and directed its reorganization.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Lanny Ross is off on his first real vacation since he became a radio headliner — and that was three or more years ago. He concluded his own Wednesday night series this week. This program, incidentally, will return in the fall. He will be absent from Capt. Henry's Showboat for four weeks while resting. Lanny is in the big money in radio now. He has been getting more than $2,000 a week, it's reported, for his songs on these two programs.

LANNY ROSS.

It was, however, with a guitar that he made his first few dollars in radio. Lanny was still in Yale then, singing occasionally on sustaining programs, which meant, in those days, without pay. So one day he went down to New York and asked Raymond Knight for a job. Knight needed a guitar played. "Fine," said Ross, "I'm a guitar player."

He wasn't, but a few days remained before the broadcast, so he bought a $5 instrument and learned enough so he could warble one song with it. Before the show he asked whether he might sing a song. The combination pleased Knight and so no one begrudged Lanny the $20 he got for his first sponsored broadcast.

Harold Stokes' favorite radio programs: Frank Black's 90 piece vocal and instrumental symphony, Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra, Hollywood hotel with Raymond Paige's orchestra, and Ray Noble's orchestra. Pierre Andre's choices: Fred Allen, Lum and Abner, Meredith Willson's orchestra, the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Orville Knapp's orchestra, and the Hoofinghams.

Gladys Swarthout, who is at the top in radio, will leave the NBC Beauty Box revue, that operetta series, soon to try her luck in Hollywood. She is to begin work May 6 in "Rose of the Rancho." John Boles has tentatively been assigned to play opposite her. Miss Swarthout will be heard occasionally throughout the summer on the airways from the west coast. In the fall she will return to the series in which she is co-featured with Nelson Eddy and Richard Crooks.

Babs Ryan and Her Brothers [one is actually her former husband], who used to sing with Fred Waring, are to join the Hal Kemp show beginning next Wednesday evening. Peggy [Bernier] Flynn's comedy act will be dropped. . . . Peter Van Steeden's orchestra will replace Lennie Hayton's on Fred Allen's show beginning next week. Hayton has a new cigaret show of his own coming up. . . . Helen Keller will speak on behalf of the better vision institute at 3:30 next Thursday on CBS.

Mrs. Elizabeth Huntington Divorces New York Lawyer

Mrs. Elizabeth Huntington, 5229 Woodlawn avenue, was granted an uncontested divorce on the ground of desertion by Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti yesterday from Ellery C. Huntington, a New York lawyer. Under questioning by her lawyer, Benjamin H. Ehrlich, she testied she was married June 16, 1933, and that Huntington deserted her on March 5, 1934. It was revealed that Huntington has agreed to pay his wife $425 a month for support.

PIPELINE STOCK LOSERS ON STAND IN PARISH TRIAL

Lured by Rosy Promises, U. S. Jury Told.

Further testimony from small investors, who lost their money in the stock crash of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, was presented by the government yesterday before a jury in the court of Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Frank P. Parish and three other former officials of the company are on trial charged with using the mails to defraud in the sale of Missouri-Kansas stock.

The "victims" who testified had dissimilar occupations and came from different parts of the country, but their stories were all of one pattern—they bought Missouri-Kansas [or Mo-Kan, as it was called] stock because it was alluringly described by the company's letters and salesmen. They still hold their shares, now valueless.

Mo-Kan went into receivership in March, 1932, with a loss of $35,000,000 to its stockholders. The defendants on trial, in addition to Parish, are James McMahnon, Ralph G. Crandall, and Samuel J. Maddin.

Mrs. Amanda Swanson, a widow living at 8347 Osgood street, was one of the prosecution's witnesses. She testified that she bought five shares of Mo-Kan, at about $30 each in 1930, believing it a sound investment.

Another "victim" was Hugh Taylor, a coal miner of Belleville, Ill., who bought 30 shares of Mo-Kan, for slightly over a thousand dollars. He was followed to the stand by W. F. Stirneman of Springfield, Ill. Stirneman said that he was formerly a salesman for one of the firms dealing in Mo-Kan stock and that he was so impressed with the representations concerning the company that he bought 30 shares at $34 each.

Dresden Choir Is Worthy of Famous Name

Boys Have Beautiful, Well Trained Voices.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

A choral organization counting over seven centuries of continuous and brilliant existence made its first Chicago appearance at the Auditorium theater last night and created an impression such as might have been expected from its history. It was the boys' choir of the Holy Cross church of Dresden, Germany, now in the course of its first American tour.

Founded sometime about the year 1200, and numbering among its members some of the most famous musicians of Germany, it has sixty-six members ranging from ten to nineteen years of age, all members of the Holy Cross college of Dresden, and is conducted by Rudolf Mauersberger.

Its program took on a wide range, from an elaborate motet by Bach to an excerpt from a modern mass by Kurt Thomas, pausing here for a pair of madrigals by Orlando di Lasso and a set of songs by Dvorak, ending with a group of German folk songs. And the singers began with "The Star Spangled Banner" excellently sung in perfection of English.

The singing was sheer delight, boys' voices that have been developed but not forced, and, therefore, permitted to appear in lovely, pure tone. Along in the center of the group there was a boy to whom fell the obbligatos and solo parts of the program, and he sang like a slender young angel. One of the great charms was the fact that the boys have been drilled into a state of expert efficiency and yet have not become over-refined. Theirs was artistic and intelligent singing, also honest singing.

They are announced to appear again tonight at St. Paul's church, Fullerton avenue and Kemper place, where they will sing Kurt Thomas' "Markus Passion," a work sung every Saturday evening when they are at home in the Holy Cross church of Dresden.

Meanwhile the Hamilton club chorus, one of Chicago's notable male choirs, was giving its spring concert at Orchestra hall under the direction of Harry S. Walsh. It is a first class organization, about 100 strong, with a membership in large part professional and trained superbly by Mr. Walsh. The group sings with extraordinary beauty of tone, it projects the English language in inspiring fashion, and it is highly expert in both sacred and secular songs. William Miller, tenor, and Edward Davies, baritone, were the soloists, both well known for their solo achievements with other organizations, and both members of this chorus.

Likewise there was a pianist hitherto unknown in Chicago but of high artistic merit in a recital at Kimball hall. He was Basil Gauntlett, appearing under the auspices of the Stephens College Alumnae association for the benefit of its scholarship fund. He has tone, spirit, technic, and good musical sense, all to a high degree, and illustrated in a program by Brahms, Schubert, Chopin, Debussy, and others, including himself.

By telegraph from San Francisco, Mary Garden yesterday concluded an agreement whereby she will come to the Chicago Musical college this summer and teach a course in opera. It will be her first attempt at this form of activity. The course will stress stage deportment, mise-en-scène, and acting, as well as the intellectual aspects of singing. It will extend for six weeks, and a scholarship competition will be held at the college in advance of the season.

Damrosch Presents Opera in English for His Golden Jubilee

New York, April 12.—(AP)—A dapper little man of melody, Dr. Walter Damrosch, slipped into the semi-darkness of the orchestra pit at the Metropolitan Opera house tonight and raised the baton for his golden jubilee program.

Just 50 years ago, a youth of 23, he stepped into the same pit to replace his father, who lay dying of pneumonia. That night the program was Wagner's "Tannhäuser."

It was Wagner again tonight, "Die Meistersinger," but a different Wagner.

For Damrosch, who has devoted the last 10 years chiefly to spreading what he calls the "gospel of music" to the masses, presented the comedy in English.

"So every one can enjoy the humor of the lines as well as the music," he said. "Every other country sings opera in its native tongue. We ought to do the same."

Lawrence Tibbett, Helen Jepson, George Meader, Kurt Brownell, and Frederic Baer composed the cast.

Good Morning!

I don't know how it is with you, but books, plays, pictures dealing with the mentally unbalanced have a remarkable fascination for me. The dividing line between sanity and insanity is so faint, so sometimes indecipherable! [Don't get catty!] Nobody in madness ever does anything that the so-called sane haven't contemplated doing in moments of so-called sanity. So it was with eagerness that I went to see "Private Worlds," adapted from Phyllis Bottome's interesting novel of the same name, a story woven round a hospital for the insane and the inmates thereof.

Here is a clinical picture that is finely wrought, sincere and gripping. The principal characters intrigue you tremendously. They are:

Dr. Everest, woman psychiatrist.

Mr. MacGregor, her colleague and teammate.

Fair, timid, little newlywed Mrs. MacGregor, who adores her husband but feels shut out from the mental life he shares with Jane Everest, between whom and herself, however, there exists a devoted friendship.

Dr. Monet, the superintendent, whose coming infuriates MacGregor, who had expected to be given the post.

Claire Monet, the doctor's pretty, unmoral sister—with a murder in her past.

The matron, capable—but given to vitriolic and vulgar displays of temper.

Kindly, brilliant Dr. Arnold, head of staf, who once had been an inmate of the institution.

EACH of these folks, immured in his or her own private world, as are the befuddled miserables who are so much a part of their outward daily existence—private worlds which, Miss Bottome contends, are mental spheres in which we are all doomed to spend a solitary spiritual existence; worlds closed utterly to the understanding of others.

I'm all for Claudette Colbert's being handed another award for her work as Dr. Everest—and Charles Boyer as Monet will astonish you. This picture should MAKE him!

Joel McCrea is just great as tempestuous, pig-headed, loyal MacGregor. Joan Bennett, somehow not looking a great deal LIKE Joan Bennett, plays gentle Mrs. MacGregor beautifully. Sam Hinds is convincing and restful as Dr. Arnold and Helen Vinson cool and evil as Claire Monet.

Staging is the last word in simple authenticity and the dialog rings as true as steel.

There's an outbreak in the men's violent ward that makes YOU gibber, and another scene where Mrs. MacGregor crosses the dividing line temporarily, that——BUT Go SEE "Private Worlds"—will you?

A GIRL and her aunt were employed in the same loop department store. As Saturday night was pay night, and also a night upon which they worked late, they were often fearful of being held up on the way home. One Saturday night—according to Alan K. Barlow, who tells the story—they had alighted from the street car and almost had reached home when they were held up and robbed. The aunt was unable to move for a few moments afterward because of her terror, but her niece ran to the corner where she had seen a policeman.

"O, I've been robbed," she exclaimed. "They took my pay and my aunt's pay."

"Cut out the pig Latin," advised the copper, "and tell me what happened."

IN the April mail. "Please don't print any more letters like the one in your column today from the woman who described her miserable existence—even though you receive them.

"I am sure we all are aware of the misery and squalor that is so prevalent, but why put it in your column? Rather let that be the one place to find a definite lift of the spirit, the one [dependable] bright spot in a gray world. We all appreciate your intimate letters and rather than creating envy they emanate a warm friendly glow."

ALSO in the April mail. "I read your column because it irritates me—and when I'm irritated I get so much more of the housework done. I read your Monday's column [April 1] in a pair of my husband's pajamas [before depression nighties being completely worn out] and over all a purplish woolly bathrobe [$1.95 in a store basement], age two years. No azaleas adorned my curly head, and my heart ached because not even one pair of eager shoe button eyes could look hopefully to me for a walk. I can't afford a dog, and the little half Scottie, half Broadway that was given me couldn't live, so I resent your eternal allusions to your canines, as well as other worldly possessions. . . . I never learned to make 'paprika chicken' back in palmy days, but as the chaos of life continues I find myself becoming quite a cook, in the world's smallest kitchenete. I do have a pepper grinder—perhaps the one thing you mentioned awhile back wishing for—and my little philadendrom plant will never have a blossom, let alone one hundred and seventy-three. Who took the trouble to count them for you? . . ."

THE Illinois State Spiritual association had its meeting the other day in the mirror room of the Morrison hotel. At least that's the notice Wilbur Kaffenberger saw on the bulletin board, and he promptly bought a slug and called up this department. So it's done with mirrors is the obvious conclusion.

BECAUSE this is Be Kind to Animals week we'd like to call attention to the fact that there are hundreds of dogs eager to be adopted waiting at the North Side Animal shelter, on North Damen avenue, and at Orphans of the Storm, at Deerfield, and at the municipal dog pound, on Lawndale avenue, terrier types with bright, expectant eyes; affectionate puppies, dignified faithful shepherd dog types. You have to give a small donation before you can take them home, however, not only to help keep the roof over the heads of the fellows not lucky enough to be adopted yet but because it has been learned by the animal shelters that some people value a dog more if they have an investment in him, however small. He becomes property to be looked after and safeguarded, and searched for if lost.

Chapayev was a Red leader in Russia—the son of a carpenter. The picture bearing his name is a record of one phase of his fighting career.

It is based on the memoirs of D. A. Furmanov, Red army commissar, sent out in 1917 to bring Chapayev, prominent in guerrilla warfare in a small section of the country by the Caspian sea, under the arm of the Red army. It is said that Furmanov acted as Chapayev's second in command during the battle with White Russians which resulted in Chapayev's death. . . .

The picture is propaganda, definitly defending and acclaiming progress of the Reds. Some of the action is stirring and the photography is above the average for foreign films of this type. The production has the common characteristic of Russian movies—its players never appear to be acting. They seem to be living the rôles they play, totally unconscious of the camera.

Dialog is in Russian, but is reproduced with English titles.

The Sonotone, you know, is equipped with devices for the benefit of the deaf. I'm not that way, but I tried one and am sure that the little instruments must be godsends to those who need them.

See you tomorrow!

Four Dinner Parties to Be Given Tonight

Mrs. R. H. McCormick Will Entertain for Guest.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FOUR dinner parties, three of them for brides-to-be and one for a visitor from Baltimore, will engross the smart younger set tonight. Two of the parties are in Lake Forest and the other two in town. The one for the southern visitor, Miss Mary Buckler, will be given by her hostess, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, whose daughter, Patty, is married to Miss Buckler's brother, H. Warren Buckler Jr.

Miss Buckler, who has a "heavy" Chicago beau, arrived last week-end for a visit with Mrs. McCormick at her apartment in Astor street, where the dinner tonight will be given. Mrs. McCormick returned several weeks ago from a visit with the junior Bucklers in Baltimore and with the former Eleanor McCormick and her husband, Sargent Collier, in Walpole, Mass.

The other dinner in town will be one that Richard K. Juergens will give at his residence in Bellevue place for Miss Anne Byron Smith and Morrison Waud, who will be married on the 24th of this month in Lake Forest.

Four young bachelors, Hoyt Smith, John Drum, James O. Heyworth, and Donald R. McLennan Jr., will be hosts at a dinner at the Shoreacres club for Miss Dorothy Ranney and Gaylord Donnelley, whose wedding will take place on May 4 in St. Chrysostom's church.

The other Lake Forest party will be one at which Miss Peggy Hixon, not long at home from a visit in California with the Lent Hookers [Nancy Morse], will be hostess, and joint guest of honor with Robert Macdonald, for both are celebrating their birthdays today. The party is being given at the residence of Miss Hixon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hixon, in North Washington road. It is to observe the hostess' and Mr. Macdonald's birthday and also for Miss Patsy Keith, who will become Mr. Macdonald's bride on the Saturday after Easter in Lake Forest.

Miss Jean Wilhelm Sets Wedding Date.

Miss Jean Wilhelm, who is engaged to be married to Daggett Harvey, and Mr. Harvey will be at the dinner at Shoreacres tonight and will be telling their friends of their decision to be married on Saturday, June 22, for they have just set the date.

The ceremony will be read in Lake Forest in the house the Frank E. Wilhelm family will occupy this summer, the beautiful home of the Robert J. Thornes. Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm will return from a trip abroad on May 1.

The seniors and juniors of the Alliance Française have planned a kitchen shower for Miss Wilhelm, who is

String Is Used for Newest of Knit Outfits

Colors and Price Tags Bring Cheers.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

String, no more nor less, makes the last gasp in the knitted arrivals. String in lovely pastel colors. String fashions two piece outfits with long sleeved blouses and three different necklines. You can select either the youthful high round neckline buttoned down the back with big fat prystal buttons or the same neckline buttons half way down the front with the same shiny balls. For the older silhouette there is a V neckline with a rippling jabot.

But it's the colors and the unbelievable price tags that will stir all knitwear shoppers into action. There's a peach, a lemon yellow, a pistachio green, wood violet, and an oyster white making this knockout collection seem like the very breath of spring or a tray of candy bonbons.

These machine knits so cleverly copy the texture of real hand knitted patterns that they would fool even THE TRIBUNE knitting editor, and that's an accomplishment.

The oyster white affair is without any argument the best outfit for Sunday suppers at the club. The pastels are grand contrasts under all the thin wool separate coats and jackets.

Knitted string outfits that look so much like yarn knits have an added advantage—they do not stretch.

Besides these brand new string knits you can see some very decorative boucles. One model is gray with peacock blue bands, and chromium buttons. The long wide sleeves of this boucle and the bands of contrasting color make a perfect dress-up outfit for bridge and any afternoon parties, especially wearable on the well developed figure.

For information on any article described in this column, call Rhea Seeger, Superior 0100.

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts a post as companion to Miss Christine Venables, who spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, in southern France. Miss Venables has been receiving mysterious death threats through the mail. Mrs. Mark Venables, stepmother of Miss Venables' adored nephew, Harry, dies suddenly. She had been treated by Dr. Gilcrest of Ste. Brigitte. Miss Venables tells Sarah that she and Maj. Frampton were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Shortly after Maj. Frampton was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft and she believes he was murdered. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron Henri de Bellesnaves and Bimi, his beautiful wife; Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Beryl Tomlins is taken suddenly ill and dies. She had taken medicine prescribed by Dr. Gilcrest. Intestinal hemorrhage is believed to have caused her death. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter telling her she has one more day to live. The fatal day passes safely. Miss Venables takes her medicine and retires. Shortly after Sarah is awakened by her agonized call. She dies within the hour, after declaring that she was poisoned. Sarah tells Dr. Gilcrest, who has been left a substantial income by Miss Venables, that it is up to him to demand a post-mortem. It is made but discloses nothing, though the doctor's reputation is damaged. Then the baron dies, apparently a suicide. Dr. Gilcrest conducts a private investigation. The baroness is taken ill and Sarah agrees to stay with her. She distrusts her and the doctor and plans to investigate. Harry departs for London. That night the baroness has a secret caller. Sarah has hidden behind curtains in the baroness' room. The caller is Harry. He and the baroness are secret lovers. She is responsible for the four deaths, having used a poison that leaves no trace in the body. Harry is her cat's-paw. Harry inherited the fortunes of his stepmother and aunt. Miss Tomlins knew too much. Sarah's presence is discovered. She escapes through the window but is captured by Harry. Losing consciousness she awakes bound and locked in the cabin of the De Bellesnaves' yacht. She is found by Dr. Gilcrest, who rescues her after a fierce battle with Harry.

INSTALMENT LIV.

THE DARK LIMBO PASSED.

"They will be captured? O, don't say they'll escape!"

"They can't. Don't worry about that."

Sarah, for the first time allowed to discuss matters, sank back with a tremulous sigh. She still lay in Gilcrest's own bed, whither she had been brought straight from her immersion in the sea. The dark limbo of delirium was a thing of the past, keen interest had returned, and Gilcrest, at her side, was doing his best to satisfy her curiosity concerning the blank spaces in events.

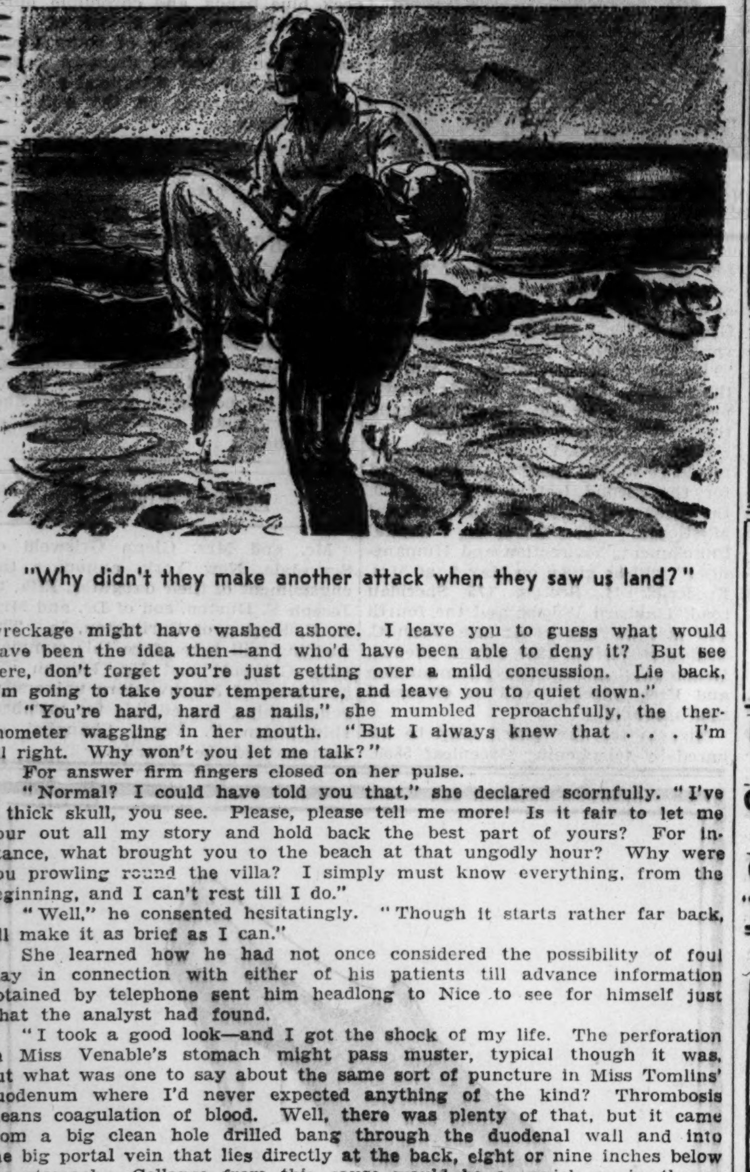
"Were they watching us?" she persisted. "Come to think of it, why didn't they make another attack when they saw us land?"

"No weapons," was the terse reply. "Then, too, I managed to pull in almost abreast of my car. It wasn't the moment for bothering about their movements. I had to look after you."

A cloud dimmed the clear brilliance of her eyes.

"I see," she whispered. "But if we had burned up with the boat? We might easily have done so, mightn't we? In that case, I suppose, there'd have been no need for a getaway. The baroness would have gone calmly back to bed, he'd have driven off, and in the morning——"

"In the morning," said Gilcrest, "there'd have been just two puzzling disappearances and a yacht na poo. Later on some charred remains and wreckage might have washed ashore. I leave you to guess what would have been the idea then—and who'd have been able to deny it? But see here, don't forget you're just getting over a mild concussion. Lie back, I'm going to take your temperature, and leave you to quiet down."



"Why didn't they make another attack when they saw us land?"

"You're hard, hard as nails," she mumbled reproachfully, the thermometer waggling in her mouth. "But I always knew that . . . I'm all right. Why won't you let me talk?"

For answer firm fingers closed on her pulse.

"Normal? I could have told you that," she declared scornfully. "I've a thick skull, you see. Please, please tell me more! Is it fair to let me pour out all my story and hold back the best part of yours? For instance, what brought you to the beach at that ungodly hour? Why were you prowling round the villa? I simply must know everything, from the beginning, and I can't rest till I do."

"Well," he consented hesitatingly. "Though it starts rather far back, I'll make it as brief as I can."

She learned how he had not once considered the possibility of foul play in connection with either of his patients till advance information obtained by telephone sent him headlong to Nice to see for himself just what the analyst had found.

"I took a good look—and I got the shock of my life. The perforation in Miss Venable's stomach might pass muster, typical though it was, but what was one to say about the same sort of puncture in Miss Tomlins' duodenum where I'd never expected anything of the kind? Thrombosis means coagulation of blood. Well, there was plenty of that, but it came from a big clean hole drilled bang through the duodenal wall and into the big portal vein that lies directly at the back, eight or nine inches below the stomach. Collapse from this cause would be as quick as in thrombosis and could—in fact did—give the same outward appearances, except that the patient would turn ghastly pale from the internal hemorrhage. I had noticed Miss Tomlins' pallor. You must have done so, too—but she was very swarthy, you remember, and so it was less striking than it might have been."

"I thought you hesitated just a fraction of a second when I asked why she died—but never mind that now. What did you think when you saw this hole?"

He had shot her a queer glance, but without comment he continued. "Nothing. There was simply no accounting for it—and if I'd made a hell of a bloomer over my diagnosis, all I or any one could say was that here was an ulcer of a peculiar kind, sufficiently acute to erode two juxtoposed tissue walls and cause almost instantaneous death. In the complete absence of poison or corrosive substance you couldn't call it murder. Technically, therefore, I was safe—and the medecin legiste himself never criticized my diagnosis, perfectly justified in the circumstances. At the same time his manner amounted to accusation. I knew to a dead certainty what he was thinking. In his opinion I'd discovered some undetectable way of killing and had got away with two murders."

"He really believed that?" whispered Sarah, her eyes dilated with horror. "O, how terrible for you!"

"Every intelligent person who studied the verdicts must have agreed with him," said Gilcrest stoically. "You did, didn't you? O, it won't hurt my feelings—now. It would have mattered very little if I'd not inherited money by one of these deaths. The irony, of course, was that it was a penniless woman's condition which made the real trouble. I couldn't for the life of me see how they'd find a motive for getting rid of Miss Tomlins, though I was certain they would. I daresay you can tell me what my excuse was?"

Blushing red she murmured, "Go on with your story."

"Well, then! Having viewed these odd appearances, I was every bit as positive as I am now that both victims had been murdered—and when I'd reasoned a little I knew that in each instance my medicine was responsible. I'll go into that later on. Now as to Henri's death." He paused, moistening dry lips. "Murder again—or so I believed, but as in the other cases it couldn't be proved. Not possibly. It was too cleverly done . . . From then on I went a trifle mad, I think. Anyhow—but can you bear any more? It's rather horrible. You see, it concerns the two dogs . . ."

A minute's spellbound attention, and Sarah was eyeing him, thunderstruck:

"Stop!" she whispered. "Do you mean to tell me that fiend killed her own little dog just by way of experiment?"

"It may have been that," he answered, shrugging. "In the bulldog's case—but perhaps you can see why that was done?"

She nodded. "I can. Do you know I had a feeling all along that the end wouldn't be reached till the baron, too, was dead? Not that I had any idea——" She broke off, not wishing to specify her exact conjectures on this point. "What," she resumed quickly, "made you first connect Harry with these affairs?"

"His scared look when he saw the dog collars. Till that moment he'd never entered my calculations, simply because——" Here Gilcrest showed embarrassment. "Well, I had the best of reasons for supposing the woman herself had no sort of use for him. The impression was deliberately fostered, one needn't ask why."

"And yet," said Sarah, "it couldn't have been hard to give that idea, for you see it was quite true. She does despise Harry from the bottom of her soul—so bitterly that she can't cover it up. If he weren't a hopeless fool he'd have seen it was only his money she was after, and that once she'd make sure of that his life wouldn't have been worth tuppence. It's odd, isn't it? Because Harry is attractive, at first, that is, and in a purely physical way."

"You think so, do you?"

The swift demand gave her secret pleasure.

"O, decidedly!" she declared coolly. "I was quite drawn to him for a bit, till I found out how dull he was. Perhaps it was the same with her. She got bored, lost interest, and found some one who——"

Henrietta Alley Becomes Bride.

From New York comes the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Henrietta Magie Wardwell Alley of that city and John Lewis Montgomery of Philadelphia and Wilton, Conn., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Woodrow Montgomery of Radnor and Glen Moore, Pa., which took place yesterday afternoon in All Souls Unitarian church, New York, in the presence of relatives and a few friends. A reception followed at the residence of the bride.

Late next week Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery will sail for a wedding trip to Dutch Guiana, British Guiana, and the Windward Islands. Upon their return in May they will reside in Wilton. This is Mrs. Montgomery's third wedding. Her first husband, Chester Alan Wardwell of Boston, died in 1926 and she was divorced from her second, Rayford Wardlaw Alley of New York, in 1930 in Reno.

Mrs. Montgomery, a member of the Junior league of New York, the Vincent club of Boston, and the Service club of Buffalo, is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Ogden Magie of Chicago. Mrs. Montgomery has two daughters, Henrietta and Florence Wardwell, who were at the wedding yesterday. Henrietta goes to the Wright school in Bryn Mawr and Florence is a student at Chatham hall in Virginia.

Mrs. Magie is visiting another daughter, Mrs. Robert Whittlesey, in New Haven and since Mrs. Whittlesey is not well, Mrs. Magie did not go to New York for the wedding.

Mr. Montgomery was married once before. His former wife, from whom he was divorced in 1932, is Mrs. Fifi Spencer Montgomery of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Goodspeed Will Give Tea for Mr. Petri.

Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed is entertaining at tea this afternoon at her residence on Lake View avenue for Egon Petri, who is visiting the Goodspeeds during his Chicago stay. The distinguished pianist was this week's soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Some of Mrs. Helen Szukalska's friends have been invited by her to dine informally at her apartment, 2600 Lake View avenue, tonight at a Polish dinner she is giving for the new Polish vice consul.

Members of the College club and their guests are looking forward to an interesting time late tomorrow afternoon when Arthur Meeker Jr. will discuss his experiences as a writer, for Mr. Meeker is noted for his dry wit. Members of the library committee will act as hostesses at the affair, which will start at 5:30 o'clock and will be followed by supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Fisher, and Rudolph Ganz are a few of those who will entertain parties of friends tomorrow evening at a dance recital Harald Kreutzberg and Ruth Page are to give at the Studebaker theater. This will be Mr. Kreutzberg's only Chicago recital this spring.

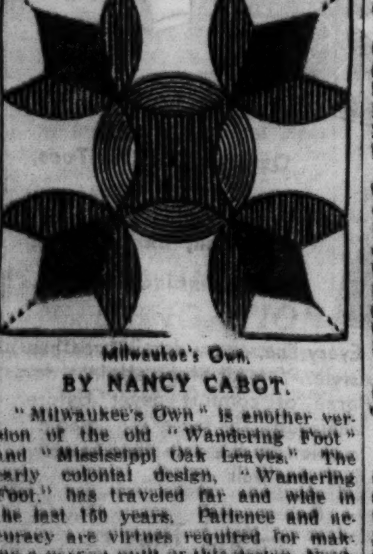
Hubbard Phelps on Way Home.

Hubbard Phelps, who is returning to Chicago via the Panama Canal from Phoenix, where he spent the winter, is expected to arrive at home on April 27. His mother, Mrs. de Koven Phelps, has been at home about two weeks from a trip to Arizona and California.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins have returned from a vacation spent in Phoenix and so have Mrs. Watkins' uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers. They all were among the guests at luncheon given recently by the Francis Neilsons at the Biltmore swimming pool as a farewell after their winter in Phoenix.

Among other Chicagoans there were William McCormick Blair Jr., Harold F. McCormick, Mrs. Arthur Goes, Miss Nora Carney, Mrs. Frank Brophy, and the James Minottos. Mr. and Mrs. Neilson arrived in Chicago on Wednesday and left yesterday for their country place on Green Lake in Wisconsin. They are planning to sail the middle of May for England.

Quilt Is Version of Early Design of Colonial Days



Milwaukee's Own.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Milwaukee's Own" is another version of the old "Wandering Foot" and "Mississippi Oak Leaves." The early colonial design, "Wandering Foot," has traveled far and wide in the last 150 years. Patience and accuracy are virtues required for making a perfect quilt of this design. Needless to say, the finished quilt is extremely lovely.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The immediate beautifying effect of a facial is evident, but to our way of thinking it isn't nearly as important as the benefits that are not apparent to the eye—the oiling and cleansing and the preservation of contour. Once a woman appreciates what the facial does in the way of youth preserving she'll figure it in on her budget.

We've discovered that many women feel the facial is a luxury, available only to those whose sole financial concern is clipping coupons. 'Tain't so. Scouting around Chicago we find facials that fit the modest pocketbook, and darned good ones, too.

One, for example, costs less than some jars of creams women buy hopefully. It's one solid hour of cleansing and massaging that stays time's fingers very effectively. At its end you're feeling in the pink and looking years younger. Your brows are groomed, your complexion is glowing and you're perfectly made up.

It begins with a cleansing that entails a going over with a cucumber cream; this is partly removed and followed by a still more thorough cleansing with warm water via a suction tube—an interesting and effective process known as hydrovacuum. Your skin is cleaner and consequently fairer than it's been since you came to the big city.

Next comes a rich massage cream, good for the dryness that besets nine out of ten of us.

This done, you have your massage, and if you don't relax every muscle and purr like a kitten while gentle fingers dance over your face you're just made of iron. You can almost feel the lines being smoothed out—and the vibratory motions of the operator's hands as they lift your cheek muscles and firm your chin convince you that age's trade-marks won't be stamped on you for a good bit longer.

The long massage concluded, warm water and a mild skin tonic are used to take away the cream. As an extra touch a cloth wrung out in violet toilet water is drawn over throat, shoulders, and around the hair line. You think you feel fresh as the well known daisy, but you feel even fresher after the final rite. Soft cloths wrung out in cold water are placed like a mask and over these the operator gives you an ice rub.

Your skin glows and you feel, down to the very bones of your face and neck and shoulders, that your skin's youth has been renewed. When you get your makeup, don your bonnet and look at yourself in the mirror you know it has.

WASHING EGGS DOES NOT MAKE THEM SPOIL SOONER
GILL

The popular belief that eggs which are washed will spoil sooner than those which are not washed has no basis whatever in fact. There is no difference. Most egg buyers insist that the eggs be cleaned before they are bought, and they would certainly not do this if the washed eggs spoiled faster than the others.

BY MARY MEADE.

At the take-off today here's a question that has perplexed many a cake baking cook. Did you ever find yourself all set for a chocolate cake and then discover the cupboard bare of anything except cocoa?

Here's the procedure of substitution: For each one ounce square of chocolate called for substitute four tablespoons of cocoa. At the same time increase the shortening in the cake by a half tablespoon and use four tablespoons less flour than the original recipe specifies.

Mrs. E. E. G. asks for a recipe for a baked carrot ring, to be filled with green peas. Here 'tis, with the suggestion that the peas might go half and half with curried lamb occasionally as a filling:

Carrot Ring.

1 pound raw carrots
1 green pepper, shredded
1 cup milk
3 eggs, well beaten
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
Dash of pepper
⅛ cup blanched almonds, coarsely chopped
1½ tablespoons butter

Clean, scrape, and grate the raw carrots. Shred the green pepper in fine slivers and mix with the carrots. Combine the milk, eggs, seasoning, sugar, and almonds. Melt the butter in a large ring mold, pouring the excess into the carrot mixture. Combine the carrots and egg mixture, pour into the mold, and bake in a shallow pan of hot water in a slow oven, 325 degrees F., for about 40 or 50 minutes or until the custard is set. Turn out onto a hot platter and fill.

Time Erases Many of Child's Serious Faults

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Do you feel sometimes as if you were batting your head against a stone wall as far as any results you are getting with the children are concerned? I don't mean in general management, but in some one particular, worrying kind of behavior?

Have you put your intelligence at work upon it, have you considered every possible cause and done what you can about each, have you tried managing your son or daughter as wisely as possible in this one regard, and yet must admit you can see not one bit of improvement?

Such an experience comes to many a parent at some time in his or her life—and leaves behind it a depressing feeling of futility.

Now it's possible, of course, that the failure may be serious and permanent. But, in nine cases out of ten, this is not so. In these nine cases, one of two things may happen—and often both occur.

One is that all your rearrangement of your child's life—like changing his school, or moving to the country, or going to live by yourselves again instead of "doubling up"—added to all your wise ways of dealing with this troubling aspect of your child are having their effect and when you least expect it, will bear fruit. Wise and loving handling is never wasted.

And the other thing that may happen, when all your efforts seem to wind up in a blind alley of failure is that time may do the trick. Time takes care of so many things that fret us—which is only another way of saying that nature, in the magical process of growth and development and adjustment, bodily and mental and emotional, solves many of our problems for us.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

THE SLEUTH AT CONTRACT.

Even though your rôle in real life happens to be that of a matter of fact banker, you must constitute yourself an amateur Sherlock Holmes at the bridge table. So many people bid their own hands correctly, but disregard the inference which may be drawn from their partner's bidding. Your partner is attempting to portray his holdings. Stop a minute and get a count on his hand.

For example, suppose you pick up the following collection of cards:

Sp.—K x	Di.—A K Q 10 x x
Ht.—K J x x	Cl.—x

You properly open the bidding with a diamond. Had you held one less heart and a high honor with a small card in clubs your correct bid would have been one no trump. However, though you hold a "declarer" type of hand (one that should be led up to) you respect your worthless singleton in clubs and only hope that you can bid no trump later.

Your partner responds with two clubs. So far so bad. Having only a singleton club you have no prospects of setting up his club suit; therefore you cannot make the strong response of two no trumps. Two diamonds is your next bid—a weak response, but that cannot be helped. You have not found any fit in the two hands as yet.

Now your partner bids two hearts. Business is picking up. Your first impulse is to jump to four hearts. But on sober reflection you recall that no trump bid that you wanted to make all along. Here is a fine spot for it. You definitly show your partner a stopper in spades, as well as support for his heart suit. (Since you refused to bid no trump over his two club response the fit must be in hearts.)

"Three spades," replies your partner. Here's where the gumshoe sleuthing comes in. Your partner has, of course, shown you a five card club suit, a four card heart suit, and a four card spade suit. He is also indicating inferentially that he has no diamonds. In other words, he is trying to tell you that if your diamonds are six to the ace-queen, let us say, there are little or no prospects of setting up your suit at a no trump contract. In the hand given above, however, your diamonds are fairly solid. Even if the seven outstanding diamonds are divided five-two against you there is an even chance of the jack dropping in two or three leads. Therefore you will probably make four diamond tricks out of your holding.

A bid of four hearts can hardly be criticized at this point. The only question that you, as an amateur detective, must ask yourself is whether a contract of three no trump wouldn't be just as good, if not better, than a contract of four hearts. This question is particularly important at duplicate, in match point scoring, where there is a prospect of making four no trump. Four hearts count only 120, whereas four no trump count 140 points.

By bidding three no trump at this point you protect your partner against a possible bad trump division. It is evident from the bidding that he will have no trump clubs and spades in your hand, and at least one diamond in his hand. He has a void in diamonds; therefore it is eminently possible that one of the opponents has either a void or a singleton in hearts; the other necessarily will then have four or all the outstanding trumps. If you play the hand at no trump you can mess around with four suits and should be able to garner nine tricks with ease.

Culbertsons Win Match—16,130 Points

New York, April 12.—(AP)—Ely and Mrs. Culbertson triumphed tonight in their 150 rubber match with The P. Hal Simses by running out the last two rubbers and winding up the Sims-Culbertson contract bridge battle 16,130 points to the good.

At the end of the 150th rubber the pair standings were:

	Culbertson.	Sims.
Advantage	16,130	....
Rubbers won tonight	2	1
Total rubbers won	81	69
Total points	127,270	111,140
Total aces held	1,729	1,751
Total kings held	1,715	1,765
Total queens held	1,696	1,784

The Culbertsons gained 1,480 points in the three rubbers, but the Simses missed an opportunity to win the last rubber with a small slam in spades through a misplay by Mrs. Sims. If she had made the slam they would have made 1,630 points.

There were five spades out against her. But the king and queen were in Mrs. Culbertson's hand. The king dropped to the ace, leaving the jack and small spade on the board. The 10 was in Culbertson's hand, and all she had to do was lead to the eight in the dummy and let Mrs. Culbertson take the trick with the queen.

If she had made this play Mrs. Sims could have caught the 10 with her jack and made the contract. Amid sighs of anguish from the kibitzers and her partner she played the jack in the dummy. Mrs. Culbertson made the queen and Ely the 10, setting the contract.

Later when she was asked to speak on the radio Mrs. Sims cried, "I can't, I can't, after flopping that slam!"

Although the slam would not have changed the outcome, it would have been a grand finale for Mrs. Sims to end the match with the slam. The Simses had won the first game of the rubber on the 861st hand, but the match dragged on for nine more hands, 870 in all.

U. S. Fashion Designers Hold United Show

Atlantic City, N. J., April 12.—[Special.]—This nation's leading creators of fashion presented a united front to their Parisian rivals here tonight with the staging of the first forum of American designers at Chalfonte-Haddon hall.

A group of New York leaders coöperated to present the affair, which marked the first showing of an American couture, giving a complete picture of American designed fashions.

Twenty-two mannequins are taking part in the event, and during tonight and tomorrow at a second showing will have displayed 120 creations from bathing suits on up to the most exquisite evening gowns.

The feature of the forum was a cloth of gold evening dress especially designed by Maybelle Manning and worn with the historic Napoleon jewels. The jewels were presented by Napoleon Bonaparte to Marie Louise of Austria on the occasion of the birth of the Dauphin, and are valued at half a million dollars. The shoulder line of the gown is lowered to permit full view of the colorful necklace, earrings and crown. The simple rope trim of the dress continues around the bustline to provide a charming design for the lovely brooch. Backless, save for a twist of rope, the dress fits tightly through the body, flares at the knees and flows into queenly train.

In colors, blue predominated, with every type from navy to the softest pastel displayed. Black with bright and pastel accents also appeared. It was apparent that color contrast is the important thing for spring.

DIVORCES, BATHS ARE ADVERTISED IN HOT SPRINGS

Tribune Car Measures Trip at 725 Miles.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hot Springs, Ark., April 12.—[Special.]—Convenient divorces without publicity are advertised in literature given to tourists by the chamber of commerce here at this resort with a national reputation centering on its baths.

"When you are taking your baths, or ostensibly here for that purpose," reads a leaflet reprinted from a magazine, "you can get, without even appearing in court and within ninety days, a most noiseless and air-tight divorce. We know of few pleasanter places in which to be free of the intolerable burden of a brutal or even incompatible mate."

Roadster Avoids Courts.

THE TRIBUNE roadster arrived here today on a mission relating neither to the courts nor to the baths, merely blazing trails for spring tours from Chicago. A visit to the courts was avoided but there's no avoiding the "boilers."

Life here centers around the tubbing establishments even more than it did around the public baths in classical Rome. Half the main street is "bathhouse row."

U. S. Controls Springs.

The hot springs, forty-seven in number, are under jurisdiction of the federal government and all who sell the use of the water are under federal regulation.

The office of the park superintendent reported that tourist travel here during the six months ending April 1 was 35 per cent heavier than for the same period of the previous fiscal year. The highway distance from Chicago, which contributes a large portion of these visitors, is 725 miles, through Cairo, Ill., and West Memphis, Ark. It is a trip of seventeen and a half hours by rail.

URGES MEETING FOR PEACE IN UTILITIES STRIKE

Peter J. Angsten, chairman of the Illinois industrial commission, recommended to Gov. Henry Horner yesterday that a conference of interested parties be called as a "reasonably certain" means of settling the utility strike that affects several downstate communities.

Strikers include employés of the Illinois Power and Light company who were called out by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The walkout forced closing of the Centralia gas plant which serves 2,500 customers. Vandalism has temporarily halted service in other communities.

Angsten based his recommendation largely on a report made to him by A. Z. Becker, arbitrator for the commission. Those he suggested inviting are Michael J. Boyle, international vice president of the striking union; J. E. Johnson of Champaign, vice president of the light company, and D. D. Hodges, treasurer of the Utility Operators' association, which operates some of the light company's properties in the central part of the state.

"We have pleaded with the parties at interest," Angsten said in his report to Gov. Horner, "to forget for the moment their personal interest and consider the public, which is suffering most."

FAMOUS HIKING CLUB 27 YEARS OLD; CELEBRATES

Twenty-seven years of activity in promoting hikes and nature study for Chicagoans will be celebrated by the Prairie club tonight at a dinner to be held at the Olympia Fields Country club. The day will be doubly celebrated, since today's hike will be the 1,100th Saturday afternoon walk of the organization. Members and friends of the club will walk five miles through the grounds of the country club and surrounding territory before the anniversary dinner.

Organized first in 1908 as the Saturday Afternoon Walks association, the club obtained an Illinois charter under its present title in 1911. Its boast is that none of its scheduled hikes have ever been abandoned, no matter what the weather, and there are regularly scheduled events every Saturday and Sunday the year round.

Prof. Frank L. Morse is president of the club, and Martha J. Bristle is office secretary. The organization has offices in the First National Bank building.

MOONEY MAKES NEW ATTEMPT TO GAIN FREEDOM

San Rafael, Cal., April 12.—(AP)—Tom Mooney, grasping at a legal straw proffered by the United States Supreme court, brought back into the California courts today his long fight for freedom.

The ageing San Quentin convict, serving a life sentence for the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness day parade bombing, filed a habeas corpus petition. Judge Edward I. Butler indicated he may consider the petition at length before acting.

California courts long ago decided in effect his case had been adjudicated finally, and that nothing more could be done in state tribunals. Mooney applied to the Supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus. The court held that he had not exhausted all remedies possible in state courts.

COUNCIL GROUP WINDS UP WORK ON COMMITTEES

Aldermen Will Leave Florida Tonight.

BY LLOYD WENDT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami Beach, Fla., April 12.—[Special.]—Two chairmen of working committees of the Chicago city council were renamed and three chairmanship vacancies were filled tonight by the committee on committees which is here organizing the council for a four year period. Tonight's action completes the selection of chairmen.

The committee will hold its final session here tomorrow afternoon, leaving in the evening for Chicago to present its report to the council Monday night.

The committee named fourteen vice chairmen, but failed to settle the fight on the vice chairmanships of the finance and transportation committees. License and judiciary positions are also unfilled, but first term aldermen are likely to get them.

Rowan Holds Two Posts.

The chairmen continued in their posts are Henry Sonnenschein [22d], track elevation, and William A. Rowan [10th], tag days. Rowan is the lone alderman with two chairmanships. He also heads the harbors committee.

Bryan Hartnett [12th], head of the committee on special assessments, was advanced to the chairmanship of the recreation and aviation committee, a place left vacant by the death of Ald. Thomas A. Doyle. John E. Egan [13th] was named chairman of special assessments to succeed Hartnett, and John J. Grealis [44th] was selected for chairman of police and municipal institutions, succeeding George A. Williston defeated in the February election.

Seven Vice Chairmen Renamed.

Of the fourteen vice chairmen approved today, seven were continued in their positions as follows:

George W. Robinson [36th], industries; George D. Kells [28th], license; Matt Porten [34th], police; John Coughlin [1st], buildings; Joseph C. Ross [40th], health; Edwin F. Meyer [45th], schools, fire and civil service, and Walter J. Orlikoski [35th], tag days.

The new vice chairmen are:

John J. Lagodny [21st], utilities; Arthur G. Lindell [9th], trafic; Harry E. Perry [18th], terminals; James J. Novarik [15th], recreation and aviation; Thomas J. Daley [7th], harbors; William V. Pacelli [20th], special assessments, and Albert F. Schulz [47th], track elevation.

25 "MARRIED MEN" TURN BACHELOR AND PAY $1 FINES

Twenty-five of 41 men arrested in a police raid on a stag party at 4526 Sheridan road where an alleged indecent performance was in progress Thursday night renounced their marital status in the Women's court of Judge Edgar A. Jonas yesterday. When arrested all 25 said they were married. Judge Jonas announced that the single men could pay $1 fines and that he would turn the married men over to their wives for punishment. All 41 of the defendants promptly stepped forward and paid the $1 fines. Cases against Ralph Kocher, 5025 North Keeler avenue, charged as keeper, and six women accused of appearing only in filmy veils at the party, were continued until April 25.

CUBS, WHITE SOX PROMISED FAIR WEATHER TODAY

COMISKEY PARK GETS RENEWAL OF CITY SERIES

French, Whitehead Starting Pitchers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

"Fair and warmer," say the weather guessers and "hooray" say the White Sox and Cubs. If the weather bureau is correct the Chicago major league baseball teams will vie with each other at Comiskey park, beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon, a happy prospect in contrast with the disappointment which prevailed when yesterday's scheduled charity game was washed and chilled away.

The cancellation yesterday brought a switch in the pitching strategy of Manager Grimm of the Cubs, who had planned to use Lon Warneke, and Manager Dykes, who had given Les Tietje the assignment. This afternoon Larry French will pitch for the Cubs and John Whitehead will start for the Sox. If it really gets fairly warm French will pitch all the way. Whitehead is slated to split his chore with Vernon Kennedy.

Warneke Saved For Cardinals.

So far Grimm has made no formal announcement of his pitching program in the opening National league series here with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, but his decision to drop Warneke out of the city series virtually confirmed the rather obvious theory that he will start Warneke Tuesday and follow with French Wednesday. Bill Lee will pitch tomorrow's game against the Sox and will be ready for service in the final of the Cardinal series next Thursday.

Aside from the switch in the pitching plans Manager Grimm and Manager Dykes made known no other changes in their battle schemes. This means that the following lineups probably will trot out on the south side this afternoon:

CUBS.	WHITE SOX.
Galan,lf	Radcliff,lf
Herman,rf	Hayes,2b
Klein,rf	Simmons,cf
Lindstrom,3b	Bonura,1b
Cuyler,cf	Washington,rf
Cavarretta,1b	Appling,ss
Hartnett,c	Dykes,3b
Jurges,ss	Sewell,c
French,p	Whitehead,p

This afternoon's affair will be the third of the spring series between the teams, they having played at Los Angeles March 16 and 17. As matters now stand the Cubs can get no better than a draw in the spring set, the Sox having won 5 to 0 on March 16 and 9 to 8 following day.

All three pitchers nominated for this afternoon saw duty in the California instalments of the series. French replaced Warneke in the sixth inning of the first game. In his first inning Radcliff, Simmons, and Bonura singled in succession, but the Sox were held to one run because of a double play. In the next inning a pinch double by Mule Haas with the bases full added three runs and successive singles by Bud Hafey, Luke Appling, and Dykes complete the Sox total for the day.

Whitehead pitched the first three innings and did not allow a hit after Cuyler opened the game with a single. Kennedy rescued Wyatt in the seventh inning of the second game, and after stopping the Cubs with a tie in the seventh shut out the National leaguers for two innings while his mates scored a run for the 9 to 8 victory.

Cubs Release Two.

Two of the boys who have been dining with the Cubs this spring were sent away yesterday. Eddie Cihocki, who was drafted largely because it was reported he was a great piano player, was sent to Albany. Frank Lee Coleman, borrowed from the National association after he had been salvaged from the defunct Eastern league, also went to Albany.

Cihocki is an expert fielder, as Connie Mack knew when he had him, but he knows naught of batting. As to the piano playing, he, like Umpire Beans Reardon, harmonician, who traveled with the team, could not carry his own instrument. And the Cubs all spring stopped in only one place that had a piano and half of the strings on it were broken, greatly hampering Eddie's playing.

SCRATCHING OF HORSES BRINGS INVESTIGATION

Bowie, Md., April 12.—(AP)—Charges of tampering after two horses had been scratched from the fifth race here today, ostensibly because of colic, brought an investigation by the Bowie stewards, but no foul play was revealed.

The stewards said their preliminary investigation of what they termed "rumors of tampering" with J. E. Smallman's Canterboy and Mrs. John Hay Whitney's How's Chances showed no evidence of an attempt to fix the race by eliminating the horses.

The stewards said their investigation would continue, however. Both horses were scratched from the Class C Graded Handicap when they were found to be suffering from a form of colic believed brought on by the inclement weather.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: I have been living in Chicago since 1855 and grew up here, so I enjoy the "Earlier Chicago" articles in your column. Recently mention was made of Wright's grove as a north side picnic center of early days. I remember attending picnics there held by Holy Name cathedral. It was located on the northwest corner of Clark and Diversey. The first street cars on the north side ran out that far.

There was a large roadhouse at the corner which had a high picket fence enclosure. During the civil war the United States government erected barracks there for army recruits. It was called Camp Fry. I was there when the soldiers returned who had been part of Sherman's army.

The proprietor of the roadhouse made some remark derogatory to Gen. Sherman. The soldiers didn't do a thing—they merely wrecked the interior of the building completely. I saw barrels of whisky rolled out from his basement, soldiers taking butts of their guns to break ends of the barrels and using their cups to help themselves to whisky.

Camp Fry was used, of course, by many soldiers going through Chicago after the war. I have had the pleasure of carrying a musket on my shoulder from the Wells street bridge out to the camp, receiving in compensation a cartridge or a few percussion caps.

It was a great thrill for us boys to march along with the returning soldiers. I saw Col. Mulligan march away on that Sunday afternoon [I forget what year], later to be killed at the battle of Lexington, Ky.] I recall his funeral when his remains were brought back. He is buried in Calvary cemetery. T. F. Gallagher.

Back in the early 1900s old Calumet Country club was located at 95th and Cottage Grove, with James Foulis Jr. as pro, Jack Daray as caddy master. The holes, following custom of the time, had appropriate names, viz:

Start, meadow, pond, elbow [dog leg to you], slope, circus ring, devil's gulch [big sand trap], prairie, poplar, oak, Burnside, boomerang, woods, farm, Pullman, Calumet, clubhouse.

Our Movie Career.

During our brief career at Hollywood as an extra in "Dante's Inferno," not yet being shown, we appeared in the same scene with Jane Withers, juvenile screen star. Therefore it's a shock to be informed by Francis Parrett, out manager, that Jane's part has been "cut" from this picture in the revising. We assume that was because her rôle was not as important as in other films in which she is to appear. But no such consideration applies to us.

Frankly, we do not know whether the whole scene was "cut" or just the incident in which Jane figured. If the former, our left ear and gray fedora will not appear in the crowd scene as we had hoped. If the latter, we still may be there trying to look into the depths of hell. It's a great strain waiting until the picture comes here.

Considering the ado we made at the time, it's fortunate we did not cash our pay check of $7.50 as an extra but saved it for just such an emergency as this—authenticity of the fact that we actually were in the movies. The pay check will be shown to any scoffers on demand.

Liquor Complications.

Harvey: Out here in Ioway, with these new fangled state liquor stores, the old self-made man who quit school when he was in sixth grade is outta luck. You practically gotta be a brain truster or at least a Supreme court justice to be able to make out all the forms and follow all the instructions to get a pint of gin. Let's start a campaign to get the good old eighteenth amendment back—it was much easier then.

Do You Remember 'Way Back When:

Back in 1881, days of Cap Anson, a track meet was held in the White Stocking baseball park on the lake front, opposite the present public library, and high hurdles of 3 feet 6 inches were driven down on a grass track with sledge hammers [cinder paths were unknown in Chicago then], but competitors were not restricted to the number they could tip over without being disqualified, which was some consolation?—H. MEDICA, KIEFER BREAK RECORDS IN EXHIBITIONS

Add Speed to Women's Program.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Those two record breakers—Jack Medica and Adolph Kiefer—were at it again last night. They performed as added attractions to the National A. A. U. women's swimming championship meet, and by the time they had finished splashing around the Lake Shore Athletic club's pool they had smashed seven world's records between them.

In one of the feature events on the women's program, Lenore Kight of Homestead, Pa., successfully defended her championship over the 220 yard free style course. She beat Mary Lou Petty of Seattle, Wash., with about two yards to spare, Katherine Rawls of Miami Beach being third and June Burr of Miami fourth. The winner's time was 2:35.5, one-tenth of a second slower than her own A. A. U. record.

Medica Breaks Two Marks.

Medica went after two records hitherto held by Johnny Weissmuller—the 200 meter and 220 yard free style. Weissmuller's marks were 2:08 and 2:09 respectively. Medica crossed the 200 meter line in 2:07.2, and continued with a rush to reach 220 yards in 2:07.9.

Until Kiefer entered the pool last night, five world backstroke records varying from 880 yards to 1,500 meters were held by four different swimmers. Kiefer set out to show that whether the distance was short or long he could cover it faster than any other backstroke swimmer in the world.

Keeps On Going.

He reached the 880 yard mark in 11:32.2, which was 1 minute 2.3 seconds better than the accepted world mark. Then to show that he isn't just a sprinter, he continued on, setting new marks at 1,000 yards, 1,320 yards, 1,500 yards, and 1,500 meters. By the time he reached the finish he was 3 minutes 16.5 seconds ahead of the world record. His time for the 1,500 meters was 21:20.1, the previous mark being 24:36.6.

The Women's Swimming association team of New York came through as expected in the 300 yard medley relay, retaining its championship by going the distance in 3:40.2. The team was composed of Eleanor Holm Jarrett, Dorothea Dickinson, and Judith Fowler. Summaries:

THE BEGINNING OF THE END FOR LAZER

Garden Names Braddock for Baer Title Bout

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—James J. Johnston, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, announced late tonight that he officially had selected James J. Braddock to meet Max Baer for the heavyweight title, in accordance with the Garden's agreement with the champion. The fight will be staged in the Garden bowl in Long Island City, June 6 or 13.

This announcement followed a long trans-Atlantic telephone conversation with Max Schmeling in Germany, in which Johnston tried to persuade the German boxer to come to this country and fight Baer in June.

Schmeling, who had refused to consider a bout with Braddock, told Johnston, according to the latter, that he was convinced that Walter Rothenburg, German promoter, would be able to get Baer to fight him in Europe and that he definitly would not come to America at this time for the fight.

Will Notify Hoffman Today.

Johnston will notify Ancil Hoffman, manager of Baer, tomorrow that he has named Braddock and will place Braddock's name before the state athletic commission at its meeting Tuesday.

According to the contract the Garden holds with Baer, the Garden must name the opponent for the champion by April 15, and if the man named is not satisfactory to Baer, the selection of an opponent then will be made by the boxing commission. The boxing commission already has designated Braddock as the leading contender.

Joe Gould, manager of Braddock, already has accepted terms for the fight, and formal signing of the contract probably will take place tomorrow.

Has Spectacular Rise.

Braddock's rise to fame in recent months has been spectacular. A few months ago he was moving freight on the docks of Hoboken with the thought of a chance at the heavyweight championship not even a dream.

Braddock obtained his chance when he was offered a fight with Art Lasky in what was called a series of elimination contests. Entering the ring as an outsider with 5 to 1 odds against him, Braddock gave Lasky a terrific beating in 15 rounds and found himself sitting in the front rank of heavyweights.

4 GOLDEN GLOVE FIGHTERS WIN NATIONAL TITLES

Thomas and Lovings Lose in Semi-Finals.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 13.—Four members of the Chicagoland Golden Gloves squad won National A. A. U. boxing championships here tonight in the finals of the annual tourney fought before 11,000 who paid approximately $7,400.

The four, who were the only members of the Chicagoland team to reach the finals, were Al Nettlow of Detroit, 126 pounds; Troy Bellini of Cleveland, 118 pounds; Dave Clark of Detroit, 160 pounds, and Joe Bauer of Cleveland, 175 pounds.

Their victories stamped them as leading contenders for the International Golden Gloves team which meets the Italian champions at the Chicago Stadium on May 22. A squad of Golden Gloves champions and runners-up will go into training in a few weeks and the boxers who perform to the best advantage in the conditioning period will be selected to meet the eight Italian title holders.

Bellini Leads the Way.

Bellini was the first Golden Glover to win a national title in tonight's fighting. He gave a splendid exhibition of boxing to outpoint George Cirimeli of San Francisco after reaching the finals by conquering Louis Wallach of St. Louis in a semi-final match earlier in the evening.

Nettlow followed Bellini into the ring and gave Pat Kelly of New Orleans a thorough whipping. Nettlow, who like Bellini was a Golden Glove champion in 1934 and a runner-up this year, eliminated William Miller of Pittsburgh in the semi-finals.

The third national title acquired by a Golden Glover went to Clark, the 1935 middleweight champion and Intercity winner, who won a decision over Lloyd Marshall, who fought in the Cleveland Golden Gloves tourney. Clark was warned several times for hitting low and the referee was ready to award the title to Marshall. Marshall, however, refused to accept the championship under such conditions and was allowed to continue. Marshall fell down the steps leaving the ring and was helped to his dressing room, where he collapsed. Physicians revived him.

Bauer, who won the Chicagoland Golden Gloves title this year and whipped his New York opponent in the Intercity matches, met Leonard Bostick of St. Louis in the finals. Bostick dropped Bauer with a wild right in the second round. Bauer took a two count, then jumped up and stretched Bostick to the count. A right to the stomach ended Bostick and the bout.

There's Room for Argument.

Prior to Thomas' licking, which was subject to argument if you felt that way, Lorenzo Lovings, Chicago brilliant lightweight, champion of the C. Y. O., was beaten by Leo Sweeney of Pittsburgh.

The Lovings-Sweeney match was a fancy bit of boxing and either was entitled to the award. Unfortunately in the last round a glancing punch ripped the bandage from the cut over Lovings' eye. The coaches would not have permitted Lovings to fight in the championship bout if he had won.

William Beauhuld of St. Louis defeated Sweeney in the final. Sweeney made a scrap which matched Beauhuld until the closing minutes.

Thomas received the vote of one judge. The referee and the other judge cast the deciding votes for Nova. Thomas received a decision over a St. Louis heavyweight last night, which was subject to booing. This circumstance, following a blast from local newspapers today, didn't help Thomas with the crowd tonight.

Even so it would be difficult to keep from scoring him a winner in the first two rounds. Thomas' punches to the body weakened Nova. However, in the third round Thomas tired and

REFEREE HALTS FIGHT AS FOE DROPS 3D TIME

17,826 Jam Stadium to See Bout.

BY FRENCH LANE.

They gathered at the Chicago Stadium last night—17,826 were there—to see Joe Louis, colored cyclone and former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, hammer his way on toward the world's heavyweight championship.

They spent—these 17,826 customers—$42,187.80 and got what they paid for.

They saw Louis pound Roy Lazer of Paterson, N. J., all over the ring during two rounds of fighting. They saw the unemotional colored boy shoot a left hook to Lazer's jaw at the start of the third round and watched Lazer go flying through the air to land flat on his back.

They saw the referee lift and lower his hand nine times and then they watched the battered Lazer's courage lift him off the floor. And again they saw Louis shoot his short right to Lazer's jaw. Again Lazer sailed into the air. This time he landed on his knees.

Up He Comes Again.

Up and down went Referee Davy Miller's hand until the count of seven had been sung out. Then once more the courageous Lazer bounded back on his feet. Perhaps it was not over after all.

Then these excited customers watch the cool, methodical Louis start a two handed bombardment to the jaw. A stone wall might have withstood it. Lazer could not and few humans could have endured it.

Lazer landed on his face this time. Referee Miller counted up to six. There was hardly a sign of life in dazed, helpless Lazer. To all appearance he was off on a long sleep.

Referee Halts It.

The referee stopped counting. He rushed to the corner and hoisted Louis' right arm as a signal of victory. At almost the same instant the attendants in Lazer's corner tossed in the towel. The fight was over and even the world's champion, Max Baer, who ten minutes earlier had been a clownlike ringside spectator, appeared to be a bit amazed and some of his black curly hair was standing on end.

This is the story of the 18th straight victory the sensational Louis has scored since he turned professional less than a year ago. It is the story of the 14th knockout he has registered during that spectacular campaign which sent him from a $20 a bout preliminary boy on up the steps until this morning he stands out as the greatest colored challenger for the world's highest pugilistic honors since the days of Jack Johnson.

Lazer Courageous Foe.

Maybe Lazer ddn't amount to much. Still he had fought and won thirty fights and never before had he been knocked off his feet. He looked as good as any of the others whom Louis has put away and appeared far more courageous than most of them.

The desire of the public to see a slashing knocker-out of the Louis type was best demonstrated at 7:30 o'clock when thousands began bombarding the ticket windows and entrance gates. By 8 o'clock a milling throng jammed Madison street and Warren avenue. It was 9:30 o'clock before all the customers reached their seats.

Louis appeared in the ring first, wearing the blue robe of last year's Chicagoland Golden Gloves team. Lazer had let his whiskers grow for about four days and was a rough, tough looking customer until Louis began chopping him down.

Belloise Shades Milling.

Mike Belloise, New York featherweight, chalked up his third straight Chicago victory in an eight round bout which followed the main event. His victim was Varias Milling, Filipino battler.

Milling got off to a good start with a two-fisted barrage of blows in the first three rounds. Belloise solved the Filipino's windmill offensive in the fourth round, however, and then proceeded to forge to the front with sharp counter punches to the chin and body.

Even so Milling's backers thought the worst their charge deserved was a draw. The winner weighed 128¾, one-quarter less than Milling.

Buddy Baer Wins.

Before the big battle took place Buddy Baer, giant younger brother of Champion Maxie, took picks on Corn Griffin of Georgia. Young Baer was peppered considerably by the old fellow from below the Mason and Dixon line in the first round, but went to work in the second.

Baer knocked Griffin down six times in the second session before he finally flattened him completely with a right to the jaw. Griffin was counted out a second before the bell would have tapped.

Frankie Battaglia of Winnipeg caught the eyes of the judges and the referee in his 10 round battle with Al Diamond of Newark. The decision brought an outburst of disapproval from the crowd. The scrap had been a vicious slugging affair throughout. Battaglia's fierce body punches won him the verdict, although it was by a hairline.

Gene Stanley, Detroit, 165 pounds, beat Hookie Jackson, New York, 158½ pounds, in a five round bout. Billy Treest, 169½ pounds, St. Charles, Ill., beat Frank Kapinowski, 158½ pounds, Detroit, in five rounds.

CHICAGO DRAWS MANY NOTABLES OF FIGHT WORLD

Champions Baer, Ross Return to City.

Chicago yesterday became the center of the nation's fistic activities. The Joe Louis-Roy Lazer presentation at the Chicago Stadium, the return of Barney Ross, lightweight and junior welterweight champion, and his managers, Sam Pian and Art Winch, from Seattle Wash.; the arrival of promoters and newspapermen from nearly every big city in the country, including New York, and the reëstablishment of Max Baer, heavyweight titleholder, and his retinue at a north side hotel, all contributed to that distinction.

The fistic notables will start moving out of the loop today, however, and continue their trek tomorrow, bound for the east, where on Tuesday the New York boxing commission again will focus the spotlight on Manhattan by allotting dates to Madison Square Garden and the Twentieth Century Sporting club for major bouts.

An Important Meeting.

This meeting will be one of the most important ever held by any commission anywhere, for the issues involved include where, when and for whom the next heavyweight title contest will be fought, and the sanction of welterweight and lightweight championship encounters.

After his fight last night, Louis attended a banquet given in his honor at the Grand café on Chicago's south side. He will appear as the honored guest at the South Side Y. M. C. A., 3763 Wabash avenue, tonight, and tomorrow will head for West Baden, Ind., for ten days' rest before opening an exhibition tour at Flint, Mich., the latter part of the month.

At the conclusion of the tour Louis and his representatives will go to New York to establish a training camp for Joe's impending match with Primo Carnera.

May Set Back Carnera-Louis Bout.

The Carnera-Louis bout, which will be presented under the auspices of the Century club, tentatively has been signed for June 19, but it is understood officials Tuesday will ask to have the encounter set back to early July so as not to conflict with their proposed welterweight championship bout between Ross and Jimmy McLarnin, planned for early that month.

Those close to the New York situation also insist the Garden will name James J. Braddock as Champion Baer's opponent in a title bout to be held late in June. Another item to be settled at the same session of the New York commission is disposition of a Ross-Lou Ambers lightweight engagement with the crown at stake. This match has been set for May 29, but according to Century club representatives, it will be postponed until late July.

Yesterday afternoon the Illinois athletic commission again conferred with Ancil Hoffman, manager of the heavyweight champion, relative to a Baer title defense at Soldiers' field in the fall. The commission reassured Hoffman of its coöperation and the manager intimated he would like to have Baer fight here, but must await developments in the east.

Baer to Handle Brother.

Another date has been arranged for Max at Buffalo, N. Y., April 22. The champion will not don his ring togs in that city, however. His duties will include handling his young brother, Buddy Baer, in a four round contest against Big Boy Bradke. Exhibition dates arranged earlier will take Max to Flint, Mich., next Wednesday and Kalamazoo Thursday. Max will oppose Harold Anderson at Flint.

Ross returned yesterday morning from Seattle, where he whipped Henry Woods in a junior welterweight title encounter Tuesday. He will remain idle until he receives word from Co-Managers Pian and Winch on the forthcoming battles with McLarnin and Ambers. Pian and Winch will go east tomorrow to attend the New York commission meeting.

Tony Canzoneri is booked to battle Eddie Zivic at Pittsburgh, Pa., April 26. . . . Jimmy McLarnin has not yet answered an offer to compete at Detroit Olympia, April 26. . . . Jack Doyle, young Irish heavyweight, has informed Stadium officials he is not yet ready to appear here. . . . Sammy Chivas, Detroit junior welterweight, took a layoff yesterday, while Eddie Carroll, Ottawa, Ont., his opponent in the eight round windup at Marigold Gardens Monday, continued drills. . . . John Mirabel and Davey White, junior lightweight warriors, were signed yesterday to meet in a five round fight at Midway arena Monday. . . . Joe Triner Jr., 9 year old son of the state boxing commission chairman, has been in a coma since Saturday from the effects of a brain ailment.

NEW BILL WOULD KEEP RACE NEWS INSIDE TRACK

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—(AP)—A house committee today had under consideration a bill introduced by P. J. Breen, Paris Democrat, which would prohibit the dissemination of race news by wire or radio to any "place outside the enclosure of a licensed race track."

The bill, aimed at bookies in "pool rooms, taverns and gambling houses," would provide a penalty of $1,000 to $3,000 and one to three years jail sentences.

MISS GLUTTING REACHES NORTH, SOUTH FINAL

Pinehurst, N. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Charlotte Glutting of East Orange, N. J., and Estelle Lawson of Chapel Hill, N. C., will meet tomorrow in the final round for the North and South women's golf championship.

In the semi-finals this afternoon Miss Glutting defeated Helen Waring, Pinehurst, 3 and 1, while Miss Lawson triumphed over Deborah Verry, Worcester, Mass., 2 and 1.

WALTONS HEAR WAYS TO SOLVE CONSERVATION

Stream Pollution and Soil Problems Discussed.

Stream pollution, soil erosion, chapter problems, and the annual banquet yesterday occupied the attention of members of the Izaak Walton league attending the thirteenth annual convention in the Hotel Sherman.

Yesterday's sessions served as an anticlimax to the waterfowl arguments which held the attention of the convention Thursday afternoon. There will be no further discussion of the waterfowl situation until this morning, when the resolutions committee will make its report.

How to Reclaim Lands.

Dr. H. H. Bennett, director of the soil erosion service of the United States department of agriculture, told the convention that the creation of community forests and grazing reserves constitute the most important single step that can be taken to reclaim erosion wrecked lands.

In another speech, Grover C. Ladner, deputy attorney general of Pennsylvania, said that the curbing of stream pollution represents the most worthwhile improvement which has been suggested to President Roosevelt for the expenditure of Public Works Administration monies.

"Pure water," he said, "is, next to air, the most absolute necessity of life, and to temporize longer with the problem of stream pollution is to court national disaster."

Hear Secretary Wallace.

As the climax to a national broadcast from the convention hall, Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, spoke from Washington on the subject of land utilization and its relation to wild life.

The convention will be concluded this morning with the committee reports, election of officers, meetings of national officers, and two talks on wilderness preservation.

Raise Funds for 4-H Work.

It was announced yesterday afternoon that money has been raised with which the Waltonians will teach youthful members of the national 4-H clubs the work of conservation. Two thousand dollars already has been guaranteed the league for this work, and it is probable that $10,000 more will be raised.

J. N. Darling, chief of the U. S. biological survey, was the main speaker at last night's banquet in the Bal Tabarin. He stressed the importance of the past year in the work of conservation, especially in reference to waterfowl, and paid tribute to the coöperation which Mexico and Canada have given the United States in this work. Tom Wallace, editor of the Louisville Times, stated that the militant services of newspapers are needed to solve the problems of conservation.

Rattlesnake with Enterprise Can Always Get Drink

There are stories, there are fibs, there are tall stories, there are lies, and there are whoppers. The words spoken by Chester McCarty yesterday morning at the national convention of the Izaak Walton league constitute a whopper, and they gave him a prize for his effort.

Mr. McCarty's whopper was as follows:

"I was fishing one day on the banks of the Deshutes river in Oregon and hadn't had a dime's worth of luck with the bait I was using. Some one had told me that when all other baits failed to land 'em, frogs would do the trick.

"I went in search of frogs, and finally found one. Being a little nearsighted, I failed to see that the frog was being held in the mouth of a vicious looking rattlesnake until my hand was a few inches from it.

"Having a bottle of whisky with me, I poured a few drops of the stuff down the snake's throat. He dropped the frog. I picked it up, walked along the edge of the lake to the place where I had left my fishing tackle, and began casting with the frog as bait. Pretty soon I felt something tapping against my boot.

"When I looked down I saw the snake to which I had given the whisky. It held two frogs in its mouth."

And for that story the Oregonian was awarded a minnow mounted on a fancy shield.

Trout Season in Wisconsin Opens May 15

BY BOB BECKER.

The annual May first celebration which always has ushered in the trout season for Wisconsin fishermen no longer is on the calendar. Under 1935 regulations the anglers will not be able to go after trout in Wisconsin until May 15, except in streams and rivers which border the state and have been designated by the state department of conservation. In such waters the trout season opens May 1.

It's an ill wind that blows no good for somebody, however. Whereas trout enthusiasts must wait an extra half-month for their sport in Wisconsin, the anglers who enjoy going after wall-eyed pike, pickerel, and muskies get their fun ten days earlier.

The season for those fish formerly opened May 25. This year it opens May 15.

The wall-eyed pike run already has started in rivers in southern Wisconsin. Residents have begun to catch them in waters which are not closed. It is legal to catch wall-eyes and other game fish, except trout, black bass, and sturgeon, in Lake Winnebago and several other lakes in southern Wisconsin, the Fox river in Winnebago county, and the Wolf river, which is famous for its white bass run in the spring.

The limit catches for the various species in Wisconsin are 15 per day for trout, 10 per day for wall-eyed pike, eight per day for pickerel, and a limit of one muskie per day. A resident license fee in Wisconsin is $1 and a nonresident license costs $3.

If fishermen who formerly opened the trout season May 1 feel they can't wait until May 15 they can transfer their allegiance to Michigan, where the season will open May 1 on most state waters. For black bass, white bass, and warmouth bass in Michigan fishers must wait until June 25.

In Illinois and Indiana fishermen can go after a mess of fish right now. In Illinois it is legal to fish for crappies, perch, rock bass, and bluegills, and excellent catches are being made in northern Illinois lakes. The seasons on black bass and pickerel are closed.

In Indiana it is legal to catch silver bass, bluegills, crappies, rock bass, wall-eyed pike, pike, pickerel, and trout right now. The Indiana season closes on all these species except trout the last day of April.

$5,000 Race Tops Bowie's Closing Day

Bowie, Md., April 12.—[Special.]—The Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt entry of Dogmata and Good Harvest appears the favorite in the $5,000 added Southern Maryland handicap, feature of the final day of the Bowie meeting which ends here tomorrow.

This afternoon Mr. Vanderbilt announced he had purchased Good Harvest, a double winner at the meeting, from the B. B. stable of Isidore Bieber. Mr. Bieber said: "I claimed Good Harvest from Mrs. Dodge Sloane for $2,500 and made a profit on the deal, but cannot disclose the sale price."

Dogmata doubtless would have been the favorite for the race in any event because of good form at the meeting and the prospect of a soft track.

Watch Evergold and Dust Girl.

The Shandon farm entry of Evergold and Dust Girl, which won the big stake here last fall, is the main threat to another Vanderbilt victory. It was a Shandon farm horse which turned back the Vanderbilt entry of Cold Shoulder and Gum, which went to the post the shortest price of the season.

The field is small, being a four horse race when the entries are considered. Lynx Eye and St. Moritz are the other entrants. The latter, a 3 year old, is in with 95 pounds. The test is at a mile and a sixteenth and there is no possibility of a fast track.

Boston Brook Is Victor.

There was only one Vanderbilt color bearer this afternoon, and he was an outsider and a distant last in a field of four. The winner turned up in H. R. Dickens' Boston Brook, which gave Jocky J. Pollard a double. His first winner was A. W. Abbott's Dancing Doll in the fourth. Boston Brook won the class C graded handicap and Dancing Doll took the Laurel purse.

The finish was greeted by a storm of boos as Boston Brook and Sang Froid came to the line as a team. Many thought Sang Froid won, but the judges decided otherwise. Boston Brook returned $6.40 for $2.

JUDGE RULES AGAINST DAILY LICENSE TAX

Louisville, Ky., April 12.—(AP)—Kentucky's three race tracks will benefit approximately $150,000 a year from a decision today by Circuit Judge Churchill Humphrey that the 1934 state sales tax repealed the special daily license tax the tracks hitherto had paid.

Judge Humphrey ruled Churchill Downs must pay the 3 per cent state sales tax on its share of the pari-mutuel pools, on all receipts from concessions at the track, and on all other receipts except admissions, on which the tax may be passed on to the purchasers of tickets.

Last year the Churchill Downs, Latonia, and Dade Park tracks paid the state a total of $223,903 in license fees, the first two paying $2,500 each day of operation, and Dade Park, $500 a day.

Today's ruling is estimated to mean a saving of $100,000 to $200,000 annually for the tracks.

All three tracks brought suit against the state tax commission for a declaration of rights, and Judge Humphrey's decision in the Churchill Downs case is expected to be taken soon to the Kentucky Court of Appeals for final decision. Judge Humphrey also held the 1934 sales tax law did not affect the license which the city of Louisville imposes on the pari-mutuel machines at Churchill Downs.

South Shore Wins from Tribune Revolver Club

The team of the South Shore Gun club won from THE TRIBUNE Revolver club in competition held Thursday evening on the pistol range in Tribune Tower, scoring 496 of a possible 500. THE TRIBUNE marksmen's score was 444. Seven men shot on each team, but the scores of the five highest were used to compute the team averages.

Elmhurst Track Team to Meet Armour Today

The Elmhurst college track team will open its season against Armour Tech at Elmhurst this afternoon. Elmhurst stars are Camerer in the two mile, Capt. Wolf in the mile, Baumracker in the 880, and Vanderkieft in the high jump.

WASHINGTON AND CALIFORNIA ROW FOR TITLE TODAY

Oakland, Cal., April 12.—(AP)—Crews of the Universities of Washington and California will meet here tomorrow in the regatta that annually determines rowing supremacy of the far west. The event will be rowed over a three mile stretch before a crowd expected to exceed 50,000.

California won the national intercollegiate championship at Poughkeepsie last year and Washington trailed in second place, but the varsity shells tomorrow will be manned by newcomers, except in two instances. Washington's freshman crew of 1934, Poughkeepsie champion, sits intact as the varsity.

California pins its faith on a crew containing only two men with previous varsity experience. Carroll Brigham, No. 4, and Coxswain Reggie Watt rowed at Poughkeepsie last season.

NORTHWESTERN NINE WILL MEET MILLIKIN TODAY

Decatur, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—Millikin will open its 1935 baseball season here tomorrow against Northwestern university. Coach Leo Johnson expects to use Herman Mehmken, veteran right hander, and Clifford Hopkins, freshman left hander, against the Big Ten nine.

Spring vacation, rains, and cold weather have hampered the Big Blue training sessions, and Johnson has had little time to size up new candidates. Junior Marshall, Chicago freshman, probably will start at first base, while either Nick Gilbert, one armed Casey sophomore, or Junior Schlick, Decatur freshman, will be at an outfield post. Seven lettermen will fill the other positions. The game may be staged at the Decatur Three-Eye league park.

The second annual Iron and Steel Industries bowling tournament will open today with more than 450 individuals competing at the Woodlawn alleys. Squads will start bowling at 1 o'clock. The tourney, limited to employés of steel companies, will continue tomorrow.

Aurora Track to Have Double and Quinella

Those optimistic individuals known to the turf as double barreled horse players will have a fertile field for the exercise of their talents when the 21 day spring meeting at Aurora opens the Illinois racing season May 1. The management of the rebuilt Fox Valley racing plant intends to offer both the daily double and the less well known quinella.

The ordinary racegoer is content to do his wagering on one horse at a time in straight, place or show bets, and from time to time he complains that even this simple form of speculation is a rather difficult way to win money.

But the double barrelled horse player wants as little to do as possible with such simple methods of betting. His field is the daily double, in which the better attempts to name the winners of the second and third races on a single ticket, or the quinella, in which the trick is to pick the first two horses in a given race on a single ticket.

All Chicago Tracks Have Double.

The daily double has grown in popularity in recent seasons, having been adopted by all Chicago tracks. Its local introduction, however, was at Aurora's spring meeting in 1932, and the payoff of $3,122 for $2 that was registered during that meeting when Tufinuf and Knockabout came down in front in the second and third races May 6 still remain the Chicago record.

Because Aurora opens the Illinois season, and the racegoers have not had a chance to get an accurate line on many horses coming out of winter quarters, the name of the Fox Valley course always has bulked large in the records of daily double payoffs.

Last year, for instance, there were only 13 daily double payoffs in North America which were more than $1,000, and two were at Aurora. The first was May 2, when Chantesuta and Dispatcher paid $1,040.64 to three persons—a cab driver, a housewife, and a doctor—holding tickets on the combination. A few days later, May 12, Monks Bela and Mack's Pal returned $1,628.14.

Quinella Returns Good Prices.

The daily double is the favorite wager of the casual racegoer who is not a close student of form. But the quinella, which is offered at no other Chicago track, appeals to an entirely different type of better. Regulars and horsemen are those who favor the quinella, for the price it pays to the man who can figure a race down to two horses almost always is more than such a wager would yield on the revealed form of the horses.

Under present plans, the daily double at Aurora will operate on the second and third races daily, with the quinella offered on the final race each afternoon.

HOUSEHOLDER TO MEET WILLMAN IN SPECIAL RACE

Tony Willman and Ronnie Householder, two of the leading drivers at the 124th Field Artillery armory, will meet in a special match race on the midget automobile program tomorrow night.

Willman and Householder also will drive in other races on the 12 event card, meeting Marshall Lewis, Pat Warren, Wally Mitchell, Frank Brisko, Ted Hartley, and Art Foley. All these drivers are high among point winners.

MICHIGAN MEETS U. OF CALIFORNIA ON TRACK TODAY

Berkeley, Cal., April 12.—(AP)—University of Michigan's western conference indoor track championship squad will oppose the University of California here tomorrow in an intersectional meet.

Virtually on the performances alone of Willis Ward depend the chances of the Wolverines, trying their spikes out of doors for the first time this season. The six foot two inch colored star is slated to compete in five events, the 100 yard dash, high hurdles, broad and high jumps, and shot put. In the century he will match strides with California's fleet George Anderson, timed in 9.5 seconds this season. Ward has run it in 9.6.

RACINE AMATEUR LEADS MIDWEST GOLF TOURNEY

Wehrle Shoots a 73 in Mist and Fog.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., April 12.—Wilford Wehrle, the young Racine amateur who has made himself known well and favorably to Chicago district golf fans by his performances in the national qualifying trials for the last few years, today took the lead in the fourth annual midwest golf tournament by shooting a 73, one over par for the Hill course here.

That 73 might have been a low enough card for any day in the year, but considering the fact that the elements were not exactly favorable for the opening of the Chicago District Golf association's inaugural tournament, it was exceptionally handsome. Wehrle was the leader of a field of more than 300 heroes who went forth into a day more typical of the Scottish moors than the Hoosier hills.

Misty and Cold.

A raw, marrow chilling breeze collaborated with a low hanging mist to make the first 18 holes a downright disagreeable chore, but in spite of them most of the gallant three hundred staggered through the full eighteen. They will resume the ordeal tomorrow morning and at the end of the second 18 holes the championship proper will have been decided, the title going to the low gross scorer for 36 holes. Another eighteen, strictly free style, will be transacted on Sunday.

The day was not confined to masculine golf, for there was a smaller band of heroines who took arms against the Valley Low course here. Leading the women was Mrs. George C. Davis of Oak Park, president of the Chicago Women's District Golf association, who took the lead among the low gross scorers with a 91 and tied for low net with Mrs. A. K. Hohmyer, who finished with 99—19—80.

The amazing card of the day on the Valley course was submitted by Mrs. Harley Higbie of Detroit, Mich., well remembered from national competition, who took the astounding total of 93 strokes from scratch.

Following in the net scoring were Mrs. Ernest Heitkamp, 118—30—88; Mrs. M. J. Shoemaker, 122—30—92; Mrs. Paul Walker, 111—18—93, and Mrs. Harold Scott, 118—25—93.

Martin Shoots 74.

Close upon young Wehrle's heels as the championship field entered the final 18 was Russell Martin of Chicago, the Flossmoor star, who figured so prominently in last year's national amateur. Martin found his way through the fog and the mist with a 74, one less than the defending champion, George Dawson of Glen Oak, Chicago district amateur champion, who has won the trophy for the last two years. Dawson will assume permanent possession of it with a victory in this year's event.

Prizes will not be confined to the championship trophy, since there will be awards for low gross and low net in classes A, B, and C for the 36 hole route.

DECIDE AGAINST OPERATION ON HOWELL'S FACE

Lynchburg, Va., April 12.—(AP)—Dixie Howell, Detroit Tiger rookie and former football star at the University of Alabama, will not have to undergo an operation on his face, physicians announced tonight.

Howell was still considered to be in a serious condition, but sufficient improvement was shown today to dispel fears that he would have to submit to surgery. Dr. John W. Devine, the physician, said he was well pleased with Howell's response to treatment.

Physicians said Howell was too ill tonight to have visitors and that he is not yet out of danger of complications. Special nurses were kept on duty at his bedside.

An operation was pondered for a time to raise the cheek bone on the right side. A long crack extends across the malar bone to the antrum, and there is danger of infection.

Howell was struck in the face by a line drive during practice here today.

Four Games Tonight in Larrabee Y Tournament

Four games will be played in the North Avenue-Larrabee Y. M. C. A. open basketball tournament tonight. Teams in the tourney are composed of many K. C. and high school stars. Tonight's schedule:

7:00 p. m.—Bensenville vs. Union Special; 8:00 p. m.—Edgewater Pres. vs. Elgin; 9:00 p. m.—Vaklavek Boosters vs. Hank's All Stars; 10:00 p. m.—Melrose Park vs. Mazekia Undertakers.

N. U. to Play Intra Squad Game Today

Northwestern university's football team, making its first public appearance under Coach Lynn Waldorf, will stage an intrasquad game at Dyche stadium today as the feature number on a field day program which will include in addition college and high school football relays, passing and kicking contests. The first event will start at 2:30.

The college relay race will bring together teams from Notre Dame, Purdue, Chicago, De Paul and Northwestern. Six suburban schools will participate in the high school relay. They are Evanston, New Trier, Morton, Waukegan, Oak Park and Deerfield-Shields.

Race in Football Togs.

Both races will be run on the football field with the participants attired in football togs. A football will be substituted for a baton, the runner passing the ball to a teammate at the completion of each heat.

The football game will be a regulation contest with Big Ten officials in charge. The Northwestern band, for the benefit of which the field day has been arranged, will be on hand.

Squad Is Divided.

Coach Waldorf has divided the squad of 80 players into two evenly matched teams. Co-captains Wally Cruice and Al Lind have been appointed respective captains of the White and Purple elevens. The starting lineups will contain a liberal sprinkling of freshman players.

The players have been participating in spring practice for the last month and have made considerable progress in mastering the style of play inaugurated by Coach Waldorf.

TERRY SAYS AGE IS GETTING HIM; MAY QUIT IN 1936

Richmond, Va., April 12.—(AP)—Memphis Bill Terry, who has been playing baseball for more than half of his 37 years, professes to feel the first pangs of old age and hinted rather broadly today that his active playing days may end with the 1936 season.

Complaining about the weather that caused cancelation of a game the Giants were supposed to play here with the Cleveland Indians, Terry said he is "getting too old for the game."

He's been hitting at a lively enough clip, the Giants' manager said, but 20 years of baseball has taken a lot out of his legs.

Both Terry and Walter Johnson, manager of the Cleveland team that the experts have picked to oppose the Giants in the world series, were well enough satisfied with their ball clubs.

Terry said if the club comes along as he thinks it should "We'll be so far out in front at the end of the season that there won't be any race to it."

FOUR CHICAGO TEAMS IN STATE MEET AT JOLIET

Four Chicago volleyball teams, Division Street Y. M. C. A., Hyde Park Y, Lawson Y, and Larrabee Y, will compete in the annual state Y. M. C. A. double elimination volleyball tournament at Joliet this afternoon and evening and tomorrow morning.

The Division Street team, coached by Ernest C. Reniff, won the Mississippi valley tournament at Davenport, Ia., the Tri-State tournament at Freeport, Ill., the Milwaukee interstate tournament, the Three-States tournament at Hyde Park Y, the Midwest tournament at Beloit, Wis., and the city Y championship tournament.

The Lawson team took third place in the city tournament.

The winners of the first and second places in the state tournament qualify for the international tournament at Binghamton, N. Y., May 10 and 11 and for the national A. A. U. tournament at San Diego, Cal., June 14 and 15.

CLEVELAND FIVE BEATS CHICAGO IN POLISH MEET

St. Stanislaus A. C. of Cleveland defeated Circuit 54 of Chicago, 41 to 4, in the opening game of the third annual Polish Roman Catholic union's basketball tournament at the Holy Trinity gymnasium last night. The Chicago team was recruited to take the place of Steubenville, O., which was unable to appear.

The M. B. C. quintet of Buffalo, N. Y., defeated St. Casimir of Racine, Wis., 33 to 21. St. Stanislaus of Adams, Mass., brought the 13 game winning streak of the Reymont society team, Chicago champions, to an end in the third game of the evening, 26 to 22.

Emmett Murphy Signs to Coach at De La Salle

Emmett Murphy, assistant football coach at St. Mary's college, Winona, Minn., and former Notre Dame quarterback, has been appointed head coach at De La Salle institute, according to Brother Basil, director of the school. In addition to his coaching duties he will be in charge of the department of economics and commercial law.

Murphy started his career at Cathedral High school, Duluth, Minn., where he was captain of the football team. Murphy matriculated at Notre Dame in 1928, and was graduated in the midterm of 1933. Upon graduation Emmett accepted the coaching position at Christian Brothers High school, Memphis, Tenn. The next season found him engaged as instructor in economics at St. Mary's college and freshmen football coach.

His success at St. Mary's was a repetition of that of the previous year. He won all games on the regular schedule, and defeated De La Salle, Minneapolis, champion of the northwest high school conference, and Duluth Cathedral, head-of-the-lakes champion.

Bellini and Nettlow Win U. S. Titles

both clinched repeatedly. The poor finish may have swayed the decision to Nova.

Thomas Starts Hullabaloo.

Interest today centered on Thomas' victory last night over Irwin Striebel, the 237 pound St. Louis heavyweight. Local pride was upset by the two to one decision in this quarter-final match, and the newspapers and rabid partisans demanded recounts. As a result, William Kenney, chairman of the National A. A. U. boxing committee, called a meeting of his associates this morning. A member of the St. Louis boxing commission and a representative of Striebel, as well as the three officials who decided the match, were present.

The official cards revealed Referee Tom Loutett of Washington State had voted for Thomas, 58 to 57; Judge Alvin J. Williams of Pittsburgh voted for Thomas, 58 to 54, and Judge Dave Stevenson of San Francisco voted for Striebel, 59 to 56. Stevenson's card was the only one apparently changed, for he had scratched out his third round totals and altered them to give Striebel the victory. This spiked insinuations of St. Louis partisans that the men favoring Thomas had second guessed.

He Has Some Trouble.

Further investigation of Stevenson's work as a judge brought out the fact that he had added cards incorrectly in other bouts, and in one instance had voted for one contestant when his figures indicated victory for the other.

The hullabaloo started last night when the referee misread the judges' cards and indicated Striebel had won.

Louis Nova staggered to victory over Joe Malinky in the heavyweight championship fight. Both were very tired, but Nova had the better of the battering.

3 Champions Stay in A. A. U. Mat Matches

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 12.—(AP)—Three defending champions came through the quarter-final round of the National A. A. U. wrestling tournament today, while a fourth went out amid excitement rarely seen in such an event.

Foy Stout, defending 145 pound champion, left the ring in protest at the failure of Referee Roger Flanders to give him three points he considered he had earned against Doc Strong, Oklahoma Aggie freshman.

Bitterest Match of Meet.

Stout was persuaded to return and the Aggie freshman won out by a point score of 23 to 22. It was the bitterest battle of the tourney.

Ralph Teague, the heavyweight champion, won a decision over William Norton, Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers, his former teammate. Teague is wrestling under the colors of the Stout Athletic club of Wetumka.

Orville England, Southwestern's 165 pound champion, won easily from Earl Deneau of the Stout A. C. to advance to the semi-finals with three other Oklahomans. His teammate, Jack Gott, 126 pound title holder, had trouble with Matt Hesser, former Oklahoma Aggie now wrestling for the Tulsa Y. M. C. A., but won on points, 15 to 13.

Final rehersal of new routines today will complete preparations at the Stadium ice for the second showing of the international ice skating carnival tomorrow night.

The foreign figure skating champions have had an opportunity to rest this week after a barnstorming tour of Canada and the United States, and feel they will be better able to display their specialties tomorrow.

Miss Vivi-Ann Hulten of Stockholm, Sweden, who will do a Hungarian dance on skates, is one of the best known skaters in the world.

Karl Zwack of Vienna, who, with Idi Papez holds the Austrian pair championship, will skate his comic number called the beginner on skates. Hocky pads are used by Zwack to break the falls he takes in his tuxedo and high hat.

Swedish and Norwegian-American societies will coöperate with the Figure Skating club of Chicago in sponsoring the carnival. Part of the ticket sale will be turned over to the Swedish Societies Old People's Home in Evanston.

Gehrig Takes No. 1 Spot on Yankee Team

New York, April 12.—(AP)—With genuine flourish and obvious enthusiasm Lou Gehrig today took over the rôle of spotlight man for the Yankees after playing the part of strong, silent understudy to Babe Ruth for ten years.

To emphasize the development, Gehrig worked out briskly with Jack Dempsey at Artie McGovern's gymnasium, which was wired for sound especially for the occasion and gave off echoes of Ruthian ballyhoo. There were no knockdowns.

It's Capt. Gehrig Now.

To make it official, the Yankees disclosed Manager Joe McCarthy has appointed Gehrig team captain for the 1935 season. This was significant, because there has been no captain on the club since Babe Ruth held the job, only to be deprived of it by the late Miller Huggins "for the good of the service."

To celebrate, Columbia Lou promptly exercised the prerogatives of his new office and responsibility. He smiled broadly as the boys gathered around, took a deep breath, squared his tremendous shoulders and boomed:

"The Yankes, for various and good reasons, are a greatly improved ball club. We figure to regain the American league pennant. But for a lot of tough breaks we might have beaten the Tigers last year. We will have more speed, plenty of power and will get better pitching than Detroit. It looks like a good race, probably a close one, but we have the best team in the league, all things considered."

A Long Speech for Lou.

This was one of the longest nonstop statements Gehrig ever issued, in addition to being the most emphatic. The boys have taken Gehrig and his exploits for granted for so long that it was all a bit sudden. It was necessary to readjust the focus. The man who has long since passed Ruth, in so far as his performances on the field and his power at bat are concerned, was shedding his inferiority complex.

PILNEY'S HIT IN TENTH BEATS OHIO STATE, 4-3

Notre Dame, Ind., April 12.—[Special.]—Andy Pilney's hit in the 10th inning scored Vic Mettler from second base and enabled Notre Dame to defeat Ohio State, 4 to 3, today in the season opener. Mettler had doubled with one out.

Matt Thernes pitched for Notre Dame. After Tippy Dye had scored for Ohio in the first inning on Capt. Al Clawson's single, Pilney tripled to open the second and scored on Capt. Lefty Dunn's grounder to second base.

Ohio State went ahead in the third on a double by Dye, a single by Prosenjak, an error, and Clawson's fly to center field. Danny Cunha scored Frankie Gaul from third in the fourth inning and Wally Fromhart, who had walked, scored on Pitcher Montgomery's wild pitch to tie the score in the fifth.

Ohio State left immediately for Champaign, Ill., where it opens the Big Ten season against Illinois tomorrow. Score:

JIM FLYNN, K. O. CONQUEROR OF DEMPSEY, DIES

Succumbs to Heart Attack in Tavern.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.—(AP)—The game heart that carried Fireman Jim Flynn through more than a hundred bruising ring battles, including a knockout victory over Jack Dempsey, stopped beating today.

The 55 year old fireman, fighter and, in recent years bartender, christened Andrew Chiariglione at Hoboken, N. J., Dec. 24, 1879, died at the City Receiving hospital.

A heart attack struck him down last night, but true to the tradition he helped mold in the ring from 1901 to 1923, he refused to quit. An hour before he died Flynn smiled weakly and gasped:

"I'm groggy, but I'm not out. You won't have to throw in the towel."

One-Two Stops Dempsey.

But Jim was mistaken, as he was too often in the declining years of a career that took him into the ring against Jack Johnson, Tommy Burns, Billy Papke, Sam Langford, Gunboat Smith, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Luther McCarty, and many others.

"Well, it was this way," he used to say. "I hit him with a one, two. The right nailed his chin. But just put it down that I didn't exactly knock Dempsey out. He just forgot to duck."

Flynn was a railroad fireman, living in Pueblo, Colo., when he first started fighting around 1900. The ring records disagree on the time, place and some of the results of his bouts, and Flynn couldn't exactly remember.

He Met Champions.

He had his first chance at the world's heavyweight title in 1906 at Naud Junction, at that time an outlying district of Los Angeles, when he met Tommy Burns. Burns scored a technical knockout in the 15th round.

Six years later Flynn tried again, meeting Jack Johnson on July 4, 1912, in Las Vegas, N. M. The bout was stopped after nine rounds and Johnson was awarded a technical knockout.

He fought Billy Papke, the former middleweight champion of the world, twice in ten round no-decision bouts. These took place in Los Angeles in 1909. A year later he met Sam Langford here. The first bout was a no-decision affair, but Langford knocked him out in ten rounds later that year.

HUDSON MOTOR SELLS NOTES TO RESERVE BANKS

Will Pay Loans and Add to Working Capital.

The Hudson Motor Car company last night announced the sale of $6,000,000 in notes to provide additional working capital and retire short term paper now held by banks. The issue was sold privately, part of it being taken by the Chicago and New York Federal Reserve banks under terms of the direct loans to industry program.

"Although Hudson has shown a substantial gain in working capital since the first of the year," said President Roy D. Chapin, "the large volume of business now being done makes desirable an increase in working capital.

Gets Capital for Expansion.

"We feel now that the company is assured of ample working capital on a term basis for its expanding operations. Up to April 1, the company shipped 34,881 Hudson and Terraplane cars of the 1935 model, compared with 30,586 shipped to the same date last year. Retail sales are increasing steadily and factory shipments for the week beginning April 8, 1935, will be the largest for any week thus far this season."

Maturities of the notes are arranged as follows: $250,000 on Aug. 1, 1936; $500,000 a year later, $750,000 the next year, $1,000,000 on Aug. 1, 1939, and $3,500,000 on March 20, 1940. The issue was sold at par, and there will be no public offering.

Notes Secured by Mortgage.

The $6,000,000 obligation is secured by a first mortgage on the company's manufacturing properties in Detroit, Mr. Chapin said. Hudson has no preferred stock and the notes represent its only funded debt. Short term notes to be retired are held now by commercial banks.

Although Mr. Chapin did not state how the issue was distributed, reports prior to the announcement were that $4,000,000 was to be taken by the Federal Reserve banks and the remainder by private houses in New York City.

Loew's, Inc., 6s.

Investors' Guide: Shall appreciate very much your report on Loew's, Inc., 6 per cent bonds due 1941, and what are they secured with?—L. E. O.

Answer: Loew's, Inc., is the only one of the five major motion picture producers to have come through the last five years without having sustained a loss. A sharp improvement in theater attendance during 1934 boosted earnings in the year ended Aug. 31, 1934, to $7,480,000, from $4,-034,000 in the preceding year. During the twelve weeks to Nov. 22, 1934, net income was $2,001,000, against $1,595,-000 during the corresponding 1933 period.

For the year ended Aug. 31, 1934, charges were earned 3.66 times, against 2.44 times in the preceding year.

Current position on Aug. 31, 1934, was strong. Working capital alone was about 16 per cent more than total long term debt.

Although the debenture 6s, due 1941, are the unsecured obligation of the company, consistently good earnings record and strong current position entitle them to a sound rating.

They are currently callable at 103.

Short Term Notes Are Dear.

Investors' Guide: Can you advise me why 3½ per cent Libertys which have been called for June 15 sell above par?—W. B.

Answer: This issue of bonds is selling above par because it represents a conservative, short term investment. The interest rate on it is large enough to yield sufficient return to offset the premium paid for the bonds and still leave a small return for the period during which a purchaser would hold them [until the call date].

There is a very large demand for high grade investments with short term maturities and, consequently, the yield on such investments is low.

Optional Payment.

Investors' Guide: I would like to know if Canadian Pacific 4½ per cent bonds, due 1960, are payable in Canadian currency. Are they callable at any time?—F. F. P.

Answer: Canadian Pacific Railway company collateral 4½ per cent bonds, due 1960, are payable in United States legal tender in this country and in Canadian lawful money in Canada. They are callable as a whole or in part on any interest date on 60 days' notice at 104 to July 1, 1940. The rate then decreases 1 per cent for each five year period until July 1, 1955, after which date they are callable at 100½ to July 1, 1959, thereafter at par.

TWO MORE BANKS MAY PAY PART OF DEPOSIT ACCOUNT

Inland-Irving, Jefferson Park Reports Issued.

Further payments to depositors of the Inland-Irving and Jefferson Park National banks are indicated in reports as of March 31 made available yesterday.

The national bank statements for the first time contain estimates of the liquidation value of remaining assets, from which depositors may gain an idea of what they ultimately will receive. It is emphasized that the estimates are subject to change and do not mean that the money is available now.

The Inland-Irving bank, which paid another 10 per cent during the first three months of the year, has returned $1,812,700, or 50 per cent. This is in addition to paying off preferred and secured claims of $1,075,000.

Asset Value Small.

Remaining assets are appraised at $427,869, or only 16 cents on the dollar, as against book values of $2,664,165. The bank owes a balance of $112,200 on loans of $1,078,900 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, making it appear that another 10 per cent payment of $362,000 is as much or more than depositors can reasonably expect before liquidation is completed. Total collections to date are $4,102,400—$585,-000 last quarter. In addition to the $362,000 payment to depositors, $233,-000 was repaid to the RFC, cutting cash to $14,000 as a result of the quarter's operations.

The Jefferson Park bank, with total receipts of $1,636,600, has returned $167,450, or 20 per cent, to depositors in addition to $834,500 to preferred and secured creditors. Of last quarter's collections of $165,000, the receiver paid off the last $110,000 due on its RFC loan, and has cash of $74,600 on hand. This leaves the way open for another payment to depositors soon, with the aid of a small advance from the RFC.

May Pay 25 Per Cent.

Remaining assets on the books at $1,004,387 are estimated to yield only $236,789, or about 23 cents on the dollar. Making allowances for expenses and interest, this would indicate enough net for eventual repayment of another 20 or 25 per cent to depositors.

Through an error in a copy of the March 31 statement of the First National of Oak Park, cash on hand of $22,800 was not mentioned in a report printed yesterday morning. This item, together with the estimated $39,755 yet to be realized from liquidation of remaining assets, would indicate further payment closer to 15 per cent than the 10 per cent or less mentioned in yesterday's story. The bank has repaid $145,650, or 40 per cent.

DEPOSITORS' HOPE OF REPAYMENT LEADS TO RUN ON CLOSED BANK

A "run" on a closed bank, something new in financial circles, was reported yesterday morning by N. W. Irwin, receiver for the Hyde Park-Kenwood National bank, following publication in THE TRIBUNE of the March 31 statements of several closed national banks.

The reports carried estimates of the value of remaining assets of the banks and what these might mean ultimately in the amount of dividends to be paid.

Depositors, misreading THE TRIBUNE story, thought the money was on hand now. As a result, Mr. Irwin and his staf were kept busy all morning answering telephones or explaining to those who called in person that the payments could be made only as the assets were converted into cash. Several other receivers reported somewhat similar difficulties.

BOND NOTES

Authorization to call $5,000,000 of the outstanding 5 per cent bonds due 1940 of the California Packing company was given yesterday by directors. The issue is callable at 103 on 60 days' notice. The present retirement will leave $7,500,000 of the original $15,000,000 issue outstanding. The refunding, it is said, will be effected through use of cash reserves and a private banking loan which, it is said, can be obtained at approximately 2 per cent.

The Union Oil company was scheduled to file with the securities and exchange commission a registration statement covering the refunding of $13,463,000 of 5 per cent debentures of 1945. Interest rate is reported at about 4 per cent. Part of the issue will be made up of five year debentures with varying rates of interest, and the balance will be twelve year convertible debentures.

J. J. Newberry company has called for redemption May 15 all outstanding ten year convertible 5½ per cent gold notes, due in 1940, amounting to $4,000,000. The redemption price is 102. The company has disposed privately of a new issue of $3,000,000 of five year 3¾ per cent notes, due May 1, 1940. The additional $1,000,000 necessary to pay oz the 5½s will be obtained from current cash and a short term bank loan.

The state of Texas awarded a new issue of $1,500,000 of emergency relief bonds to a syndicate headed by the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust company of St. Louis on a bid of 100.03. The bonds mature serially April 1, 1936 to 1943. The 1936 to 1939 maturities pay 2½ per cent and the 1940 to 1943 maturities 2¼ per cent.

Gov. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado has signed bills authorizing the state to refund $2,956,000 of its 5 per cent highway bonds. It is expected that the bonds will be offered this month.

HIGHEST GRADE BONDS DULL ON REFUNDING NEWS

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—Rumors and official announcements of corporate bond refunding today called for price adjustments in the particular issues affected and gave further emphasis to the risk of purchasing callable bonds too far above their redemption prices. The result was a dull market in high grade issues, except for a few of those that have no redemption features.

Gains were recorded in a number of lower grade issues.

Treasury bond trading was considerably less active, the market preferring to mark time while waiting to see whether the government calls the balance of the fourth Libery loan. Traders were interested in knowing whether a refunding offer to holders of the called first Liberty loan is pending. Prices for treasury issues moved still lower. The day's decline in the new 2⅞s brought then a half point below the recent high record. However, net losses in this group were not large.

Pressure was removed from Italian bonds after two days of weakness. The goverment 7s recovered sharply on a small amount of buying. Austrian 7s of 1957 were strong.

ECCLES-GLASS CLASH EXPECTED NEXT MONDAY

Senate Group to Consider Reserve Nomination.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—(AP)—Senator Glass [Dem., Va.], chairman of the senate banking committee, announced today his subcommittee will begin on Monday consideration of the long pending nomination of Marriner S. Eccles as governor of the reserve board. Eccles will go before Glass' committee Monday, or a few days later, for what may prove an epic of thrust and parry between two highly placed opponents, each shrewd, resourceful and well versed in the whole subject of banking and monetary matters.

The slight, youthful Eccles, stands for everything in this field to which the dynamic senator from Virginia, 45 years his senior, is opposed. Their expected clash will be a continuance of several with which they enlivened the capital's winter.

Predicts Bill Will Be Split.

A prediction that the controversial federal reserve feature of the omnibus banking bill would be split off from the general measure by the senate banking committee was made today by an administration source.

Such a split would leave the federal deposit insurance provision and technical changes in banking laws in what some regard as a more favorable position for passage, unhampered by attachment to the quarrel-producing federal reserve section. It would leave proponents of the plan to bring rigid government control of the federal reserve system—led by Eccles—and the opposition headed by Glass free to fight out the battle to any length.

The administration official said he believed the banking committee in the house would report the bill out in its entirety, but that there existed a strong move within the senate committee to report the measure in two sections.

Firmer Government Control.

The federal reserve section of the bill was advanced by its backers as a means of giving the government a firmer hand in the control of credit in the country.

Among other things the measure would abolish the dual setup in management of regional banks, putting aside the present governors and chairmen of the regional banks—one controled by the banks and the other by the government—to be replaced by a single board controled by the government.

INSULL INVESTOR SUIT NOW GOES TO DEFENSE SIDE

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—The case of 23,000 Insull investors seeking restitution of $30,000,000 from five New York banks and the General Electric company rested today in the federal court. The defendants will begin on Tuesday before Judge Julian W. Mack.

An interval between the complainants' case and the opening of the defense will be occupied in reading into the record the 1932 examination of Owen D. Young, chairman of General Electric, and Gerard Swope, president.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Yesterday's TRIBUNE carried an Associated Press report from Washington which stated incorrectly that Federal Judge Evan Evans ruled there was no collusion in the appointment of receivers for Insull Utility Investments. The reverse is true, and Attorney Samuel Ettelson is relying partly on Judge Evans' ruling in his petition for a Supreme court review of Judge Walter C. Lindley's finding that there was no fraud or collusion in the Middle West Utilities company receivership. Judge Evans held that fraud existed in the Insull Utility Investments case, and commented that the same facts applied to other Insull company receiverships, which arose under similar circumstances.

DOLLAR WHEAT COMES BACK ON WAVE OF BUYING

New Crop Prices Rise as Shortage Looms.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Dollar wheat came back in the Chicago market yesterday as a climax to a three day advance which has added nearly 9 cents a bushel to the value of the new crop. Trading reached a pitch in the last hour that has not been approached for months. Large and small buying orders poured into the wheat pit, sweeping prices forward 2⅛ to 3 cents a bushel for the day. Prices fluctuated rapidly and brokers had difficulty in executing orders.

The sudden activity in the last hour mystifies most of the traders. There has been a cumulative broadening of the market for the last three days since the government released its sensational forcast on the winter wheat crop, which held out the prospect that for the third successive year the country's wheat harvest will fall far below normal.

Dust Storms Encourage Buying.

The dust storms that have been raging for weeks over the southwest winter wheat country are the visible evidence of the condition of the crop. These storms had subsided yesterday, but the wide publicity they had been given continued to bring buying into the market.

Market reports credited a group of eastern speculators with heavy purchases on yesterday's advance. The same group has been active in the market for several days and probably have had more to do with the ballooning of prices than any one else.

The bullish enthusiasm found encouragement in another sharp rise in silver prices in the foreign markets, reflecting the latest step of the American treasury toward making the metal an important part of the currency base.

Signs of Inflation Seen.

An added factor is preparation of the administration for distribution of the huge work relief fund, which spells price inflation in the minds of commodity speculators.

An unusual feature of the rise in the market yesterday was that it was not accompanied by corresponding advances in other commodities or in stocks. This lends support to the reports that there is a strong speculative group which is concentrating its operations in the wheat market. The government's bullish appraisal of wheat prospects has been public property for three days and on inflation news alone other markets would ordinarily advance with wheat.

Both the May and September future contracts closed above a dollar a bushel, while the July contract ended an eighth of a cent below that mark. The closing quotations represented the best prices of the day.

Week Shows Sharp Advance.

At its final price of $1.00¼ a bushel September wheat, a new crop delivery, was worth 8⅜ cents more than it was at the close of the market last Monday. The gain in the July future during the same period has amounted to 8 cents a bushel, while the May contract is 6 cents higher.

The last time that dollar wheat was posted at the Board of Trade was Jan. 11, or more than three months ago.

The activity in wheat completely overshadowed the other grains, all of which closed the day with moderate gains. Corn was 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents above Thursday's level, while rye and oats were ¾ to 1¼ cents higher.

Closing prices on the July futures, with comparative quotations, were:

	Yest'd'y.	Thurs.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .99⅞	$ .96⅞	$ .94¾
Corn	.83⅝	.82⅝	.77⅝
Oats	.43⅜	.42¼	.39⅞
Rye	.61½	.60½	.57

Spread in Prices Narrower.

The price relationship between the old and new crop futures in wheat has been drastically changed since the government made its estimate of 436 million bushels for the winter crop. A week ago May wheat, an old crop delivery, was selling at a premium of about 3 cents a bushel over July and September contracts, the new crop futures. At yesterday's closing prices May wheat was worth only a quarter of a cent more than September and 1⅝ cents more than July wheat.

Chicago grain dealers reported yesterday there was a better demand from milling interests. The advance in future prices and the corresponding upturn in cash quotations have brought in more buying. Flour business is reported to be showing some improvement.

TWO INSURANCE CLASSES FIGHT CODE PROVISIONS

Casualty and surety companies yesterday joined the fight against Illinois' proposed insurance code when Chicago office managers, meeting in the Palmer house, decided to demand amendment or elimination of certain provisions.

Investment provisions of the code, which the group termed unfair, were the chief target of the meeting. It was contended these rules would place casualty and surety companies in the same class with life insurance firms so far as investments are concerned.

The next hearing on the bill will be held Tuesday in Springfield.

Auto Plant Hires Heads of 650 Welfare Families

Detroit, Mich., April 12.—(AP)—A Detroit automobile plant called 650 heads of welfare families today for full time jobs, Benjamin J. Tobin, deputy welfare administrator, announced. Tobin withheld the name of the company, he said, at the request of officials, but estimated that the requisition removed at least 2,700 names from Detroit's relief rolls.

U. S. Agents Seek Wheat Bootleggers

Bootlegging of foreign wheat is a new problem with which the federal government is forced to cope. Customs investigators in Chicago and St. Paul have launched a drive covering the entire middle west to ferret out cases in which wheat imported under the guise of feed is being converted to milling uses, it was learned yesterday.

Under the tarif law imported wheat must pay a duty of 42 cents a bushel. Since 1930, however, the government has permitted the importation of foreign wheat to be used for feed purposes under a 10 per cent ad valorem duty.

Officials Receive Complaints.

Washington custom officials have received complaints from the American Millers association that much of the wheat being brought in from Canada as feed is being sold to mills. Importers are thus able to turn a good profit by escaping the 42 cent duty.

How extensive the diversion has been is a matter of guesswork. A few figures, however, give an indication. In the 1932-'33 crop year a total of less than a million bushels of foreign wheat was inspected by the Chicago custom officials whose jurisdiction covers ten states. In the 1933-'34 crop year to date 1,175,000 bushels have been handled.

One Shipment is Watched.

One shipment of 775 tons of foreign wheat cleared through Chicago as feed grain is under close scrutiny. Officials have been unable to find more than 212 tons of this shipment used for feed. It is believed that the balance of the wheat was sold as milling wheat.

Diversion of such feed wheat to other channels is not a criminal offense. The bootleggers, however, are liable for the full 42 cent a bushel levy. An importer who brought in a bushel of feed wheat valued at 75 cents a bushel on which he would pay 7½ cents duty will be assessed an additional 34½ cents a bushel if it can be proved that the wheat was used for milling purposes.

BUSINESS 'GOING STRONG,' SAYS AD AGENCY LEADER

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 12.—[Special.]—Arthur Kudner of New York, retiring chairman of the board of the American Association of Advertisng Agencies, at today's session of the association declared that the tide of doubt has turned and "business is going strong." He said he believed the "very makings of the new prosperity we shall know are in the adversities of today."

"I base that belief on the driving power in the American character that has made this nation the wonder and the envy of the world," he said. "We have barely 7 per cent of the world's people, yet this little group in the United States has more purchasing power than all Europe combined. It has created and owns more than half the world's wealth.

"However much you may be impressed or appalled by the titanic spending from Washington, by the audacious legislation in effect or in prospect, do not look to these for the real security of the future of this land. That security is the special charge not of a few but of all the unafraid and inventive and resourceful and serviceable among us, and it will remain, as it always has been, guarded by their devoted care."

NATIONAL INCOME IS REPORTED 13.9% HIGHER FOR 1934

The national income in 1934 amounted to 47.6 billions, an increase of 13.9 per cent over the preceding year's total of 41.8 billions, the national industrial conference board reported yesterday in its April bulletin. The figures were based on the net value of goods and services produced. Per capita income was $377, or $44 above 1933.

In terms of purchasing power the effective increase was considerably less than in dollar volume, because wholesale prices rose 13.7 per cent and cost of living 6.1 per cent from 1933 to 1934.

Compared with 1929, when the national income reached a peak of 83 billions, the conference board found last year's figure to be a decline of 42.7 per cent. Wholesale prices were down 21.4 per cent and cost of living 20.6 per cent, placing purchasing power about 27 per cent under 1929 levels. Per capita income last year was 44.8 per cent below 1929 and 30 per cent less in purchasing power. The average income per gainful worker, including unemployed, was placed at $946 last year, compared with $1,719 in 1929.

SOUTHERN ROAD WILL DISPLAY STREAMLINED DIESEL TRAIN HERE

The latest addition to the railways' fleet of streamlined trains will be exhibited at the Union station early in May when the Gulf, Mobile and Northern's Diesel powered "Rebel" goes on display.

Each of the two trains, which will run between Jackson, Tenn., and New Orleans, is a four car, non-articulated unit, similar in appearance to the Zephyr of the Burlington, which controls the G., M. & N. It is completely air conditioned, has doors in the center of the cars and all doors and windows are flush with the sides. Signal cords give way to a button signal system between the engine cab and rear of the train.

The cars are constructed of Cor-ten steel, a new alloy which combines great strength with comparative light weight. They were built by the American Car and Foundry company.

Selection of the name raised widespread controversy in the south, where the United Daughters of the Confederacy and similar organizations protested. I. B. Tigrett, president of G., M. & N., declared the name was selected because it suggested something radical or rebel-minded, and had nothing to do with the civil war.

Is Dust Storm a Storm? Ask Insuring Firms

The dust storms, which have been sweeping the western and midwestern areas, have created a fine problem for insurance companies, it became known yesterday. It hinges on the question of whether or not dust storms are included in the protection offered by wind and tornado insurance. Although no general policy has been agreed upon, most of the companies were understood to be refusing payments on claims made as a result of the storms.

The National Automobile Underwriters' association has the question under consideration in New York, but has announced no policy. Among the fire insurance companies, which write wind and tornado policies, almost none of them are admitting the validity of claims.

Court Test Likely.

It is expected that the question may be brought to a court test.

The dust storms have been unaccompanied by any great amount of wind in most instances, and no cases have been discovered as yet where an automobile or the roof or walls of a building were smashed by wind.

The most common type of claim has been for damage to the inside of automobile engines or pock-marks on the windshield or finish as a result of the sand abrasion while driving through storms. Other claims have been filed for dust damage to interiors of homes.

The matter is a new one to the insurance companies, and they feel there is serious question if there is any coverage in policies other than those of the most comprehensive types.

Contend Damage Avoidable.

The companies generally contend that a person caught in such a storm should know that damage would be certain to result from driving through it, and that trouble would be averted by not driving. It was reported that in some few cases, payments are to be made where the motorist was stranded in the country and was compelled to drive through the storm.

Fear of future abuse is one factor leading to the general inclination not to pay. Two means of future protection are under consideration, it is said. One would be insertion of a provision definitly exempting the company from liability, while the other calls for including dust storm damage and charging a separate rate for this coverage.

AMERICAN TRADE MISSION CLOSES STUDY IN JAPAN

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, April 12.—The visit here of the American trade mission headed by former Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes closes tomorrow when the party departs for Osaka. The mission has inquired into how Japan's power to buy American commodities can be increased. This involves finding things that Japan can advantageously sell.

The delegates were able to amass evidence showing that further American trade restrictions will diminish the volume of American exports, the commerce being already heavily overbalanced in favor of the United States.

As the mission's primary purpose was fact-finding its business was confined to an exchange of views through three Japanese-American round tables. Political questions were not touched, though the mission was allowed to see that American immigration discrimination against Japan was still a sore point.

FREIGHT TRAFIC AT FORD PLANT SETS NEW HIGH

Dearborn, Mich., April 12.—[Special.]—Freight movement records at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor company were broken in March for the second consecutive month, it was announced today.

Trafic through the Rouge plant yards in March totaled 34,955 cars, loads and empties, the announcement said. This was nearly 11 per cent above the former record of 31,500 cars handled in February.

The preceding high mark of 29,500 cars was established in April, 1930.

McGraw Electric Company Votes Dividend of 25 Cents

McGraw Electric company yesterday declared a dividend of 25 cents a share, payable May 1 to stock of record April 22. A similar payment was made on Feb. 1. Last year the company paid 50 cents on the stock. Scotten Dillon company declared a dividend of 30 cents a share, payable May 15 to stock of record May 6. In the preceding quarter 50 cents was paid.

RADIOS FIRST CHOICE OF WOULD-BE BUYERS; AUTOS RANK SECOND

If Chicagoans obtain their wishes, the first things they will buy are radios, automobiles, rugs, and fur coats—at least those four items were the first choice of most persons interviewed in a survey of "what families want to buy next," conducted by the marketing department of the college of commerce of De Paul university. The survey covered all sections of the city, and 5,931 persons were interviewed.

The four leading first choice items were the same as in last year's survey except that radios and autos changed places. In all, 31.2 per cent chose these items—658 for radio, 576 for auto, 324 for rug, and 298 for fur coat. The greatest gain from last year was made by oil burners which rose from 21st to 6th place. Vacuum cleaners reached eighth place, the other new entry into the first ten which included odd pieces of furniture, living room furniture, electric refrigerators, and bedroom furniture.

The leading second choices were automobiles, rugs, radios, refrigerators, and fur coats, in that order. The leaders for third choice were house decorations, linoleum, automobiles and dishes.

Adding the total of first, second, and third choices gave automobiles a slight edge over radios, 1,078 to 1,049. Next in line were rugs, 758; fur coats, 660, and house decorations, 638.

The report was issued by L. M. Mcdermott, professor of marketing at De Paul.

JAPS' DUMPING HANDKERCHIEFS BLAMED ON NRA

Charges of Japanese dumping which threatens demoralization of the American handkerchief industry and its 6,000 employés were made in a letter dispatched yesterday to the senate committee investigating costs and imports of cotton piece goods, by the New York Handkerchief company of Chicago.

The letter, signed by J. Irving Meiselman, secretary, declares the Japanese are laying down handkerchiefs in this country at prices, including shipping costs and taxes, under actual costs of raw materials in the United States.

"Before the advent of NRA," the letter says, "we were able to meet these prices. But increases of 15 to 20 per cent in handkerchief prices imposed by the Blue Eagle, plus an advance of 30 per cent in operating costs, obviate any possibility for successful competition."

Meiselman charges 100,000 dozen Japanese handkerchiefs are being imported weekly and urges prompt action to stem the influx, which "if continued will boost dealer stocks to such a level that the industry will be effectively crippled."

COURT APPOINTS NEW RECEIVER FOR APARTMENTS

Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski yesterday removed the Metropolitan Trust company as receiver for the nine-story Madison Park apartment building, 1380 Hyde Park boulevard. He ordered the company to make a final accounting of its stewardship since its appointment in 1932, and set May 3 for the hearing of any objections. Simultaneously, Judge Klarkowski appointed as receiver for the building John J. Fox, architect, at 549 Randolph street.

At previous hearings of the suit for removal, which was brought by a group of bondholders and other interested parties, the court indicated it was dissatisfied with the receiver's management. Testimony was introduced to show that leases on apartments in the building called for rentals $12,000 in excess of taxes, and that large amounts were spent for rehabilitation, leaving little money for the creditors.

Minneapolis & St. Louis Road's Sale Delayed Again

Minneapolis, Minn., April 12.—[Special.]—Court sale of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad was continued for a fifth time today, until June 11, when no prospective purchasers appeared.

Commonwealth Edison Rate Hearing Postponed

The Commonwealth Edison company rate hearing case, which was scheduled to come up before the Illinois commerce commission yesterday, was postponed until next Tuesday, April 1.

Judge Wants Kenwood Bank to Repay More

Circuit Judge John Prystalski yesterday refused to approve a request of State Auditor Edward J. Barrett to repay another 10 per cent to depositors of the Kenwood State bank until explanation is made as to why the proposed payment does not amount to 25 per cent.

In court proceedings on April 1, when John M. Thomson was replaced as receiver of the Kenwood bank by William L. O'Connell, representations were made by Thomson that money was available for a 25 per cent payment. Previously he charged the auditor with preventing him from paying a 10 per cent dividend in March.

Auditor Explains Discrepancy.

At the state auditor's office later it was said that part of the discrepancy probably is explained by the fact that part of the money included in the 25 per cent estimate was to come from collections on the stockholders' liability suit, of which Thomson still has charge.

Judge Prystalski, who warned in the previous proceeding that he wanted no delay in paying the 25 per cent, yesterday asserted that he would not be made a "rubber stamp." He will consider the dividend matter Tuesday afternoon, when Attorney George Marks will present an order on behalf of depositors to appeal from the ouster of Thomson.

Judge Prystalski also granted a petition presented by Marks for 15 depositors, asking that they be permitted to intervene and be given notice of all material motions and orders entered in the Kenwood receivership.

Overrules Receiver and Auditor.

In agreeing to sign this order, the court overrode objections made by Attorney Hargrave Long and other attorneys representing O'Connell and the state auditor. The judge said O'Connell is a public official and should welcome this action. He added that he could not conceive of any matter in the receivership which depositors would not be interested in.

Thomson, in the meantime, is attempting to obtain signatures of two-thirds in number and amount of depositors to a petition for his reinstatement. He reported yesterday he was confident that he will regain his post in this manner if not by a reversal of Judge Prystalski's approval of his ouster. The court held the state auditor has sole power to name receivers and that he has no jurisdiction.

STORE SALE GAIN IN MARCH MORE THAN SEASONAL

Department store sales in the United States during March showed a much larger than seasonal increase over February, the federal reserve board announced yesterday. The Chicago district was the only one to show a gain over March, 1934, the nation as a whole reporting a loss of 8 per cent with district declines ranging from 4 to 16 per cent.

The board's index, based on preliminary figures for March, stood at 80, compared with 75 in February, 72 in January, and the 1923-'25 average of 100. The index makes allowances for seasonal changes, the number of business days, and the date of Easter.

The gain for the Chicago federal reserve district over a year ago amounted to 1 per cent. Losses reported by the other districts were as follows: Boston, 16 per cent; New York and Philadelphia, 13; Cleveland, 10; Richmond and San Francisco, 6; Atlanta, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, and Dallas, 4.

TWO AMERICAN FIRMS EXPAND CANADA PLANTS

American firms are expanding their operations in Canada, where they enjoy a greater degree of industrial freedom than they do at home. The Toronto industrial commission yesterday reported plans of two American corporations to expand Canadian operations.

Griffith Laboratories, Ltd., of Toronto, affiliate of Griffith Laboratories, Inc., of Chicago, has purchased property for the construction of a new plant, which will double its present production capacity there. The company began its Canadian operations four years ago.

McCormick & Co., Ltd., Canadian subsidiary of McCormick & Co., Baltimore manufacturers of spices, extracts and other products, has established a plant in Toronto for the manufacture of its products there for the Canadian market.

SILVER SPURTS TO 68¾ CENTS IN OPEN MARKET

Speculators Boost Price Sharply.

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—Feverish speculation in the silver market hoisted the price 2¾ cents at one clip in the New York market today. Handy & Harman announced today's official price at 68½ cents for foreign mined metal, the highest since July, 1926. In the outside market, silver sold here at 68¾ cents.

The London price was raised 1⅝ pence to 31 5-16 pence, the highest level since Jan. 19, 1926, and equivalent to 68.43 cents.

The Montreal futures market opened actively with prices 100 to 245 points higher than yesterday's close as follows: July, 68.30 cents; September, 70.10; December, 71.00 bid, and January, 71.3 bid.

Handy & Harman's price for domestic mined silver was the same as yesterday at 70⅝ cents, the difference between that quotation and the treasury price of 71.11 cents being due to marketing expenses.

Far East Buying.

Heavy speculative buying by the far east, especially Indian interests, was again reported in response to the continued aggressive activity of the silver bloc in the United States.

Gold bloc currencies opened weaker in the European foreign exchange markets, but strong support from the central banks of Holland and Switzerland caused them to rally, and they opened stronger in the New York market.

Continued recovery in the gold bloc exchange is attributed to short covering and the policy of the Bank of the Netherlands in placing no barriers in the way of gold exports.

The weakest spot in the gold armor was disclosed in the London forward rate of the Swiss franc, the discount on the 90 day quotations being increased from 34 centimes yesterday to 45½ today. On the French franc and the guilder the discount on forward contracts was reduced.

French Francs Rise.

French francs rose sharply in the New York market to close at 6.61⅜ cents, up 1⅜ points. Against francs the dollar was worth $1.0029, compared with $1.0051 yesterday. Based on the old parity of the franc, the dollar was valued at 59.24 cents, against 59.36 cents.

Guilders gained 2 points to 67.60 cents and Swiss francs 6 points to 32.45 cents. Belgas rose above their new parity for the first time in several days, closing at 16.97 cents, 2 points higher.

Pound sterling closed unchanged at $4.84¾, while Scandanavian currencies were steady to 1 point higher.

Chinese currencies again rose sharply in keeping pace with the advance in commercial silver prices. Hongkong dollars soared 2½ cents to 53 cents and Shanghai dollars gained 15 points at 38.65 cents.

The price of bar gold in London was raised 1½ pence to 144 shillings 1 penny a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.95.

The arrival here of $2,097,200 gold from Canada and the engagement abroad of about $3,000,000 gold for shipment from Holland were reported by the Federal Reserve bank, bringing to $123,000,000 the gold already received or engaged on the present movement.

LEWIS FORESEES SENATE CONTROL OF TRADE PACTS

Washington, D. C., April 12.—(AP)—Senator Lewis [Dem., Ill.] warned today that if foreign nations continue making what he described as treaties discriminating against the United States, the senate may resume its control over reciprocal trade compacts.

He cited announcement of a treaty between France and Russia, and said that Russia "gives the world to understand that it is a notice to the United States to view what is being done as a lesson to our government." Asserting that "this is the time, sirs, and these are the days when Americans must be for Americans," Lewis declared:

"The hour may come when we resume the right on the part of this body to supervise these [reciprocal trade] treaties that we may grant them to those who have granted equal favor and opportunity to us, but withhold and denounce them if they have been made to those nations who turn about to enter into compacts to discriminate in trade against the United States."

SEC. PERKINS OPENS MIDNIGHT PARLEY TO AVERT RUBBER STRIKE

Washington, D. C., April 13 [Saturday].—(AP)—Secretary Perkins went back into conference with American Federation of Labor rubber union officials at midnight, hopeful that the Akron, O., rubber strike threat would be removed later today.

The labor department chief had left the conference 15 minutes before to advise the rubber manufacturers "to go to bed," and that she wished to see them "tomorrow morning."

Miss Perkins said she didn't "think there'd be anything of significance tonight." She said she and the union officials were going over "indefinite proposals" of the manufacturers. The conference was likely to be a long one, she said, and one which she thought should not be "hustled."

The union men, she said, would not likely either accept or reject the proposals—still not made public—before morning.

Silver Issues Lead Stocks to Higher Levels

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 12.—Silver shares continued active on the stock exchange today, moving to still higher price levels on the momentum inspired by the administration's silver price raising order of Wednesday. Gains in the group ranged from 1 to more than 3 points with U. S. Smelting and Cerro de Pasco teaming up for the leadership honors. Homestake rose 4 points on one sale, but the rest of the goldminers stood on or about their previous closing figures.

The upturn in Cerro de Pasco boosted that issue to the highest point in five years. Approximately 25 per cent of the total dealings of the first half of the session were in the white metal stocks.

Rail Shares in Demand.

Railroad shares were brought out by speculators who believed that a decision favorable to the carriers on the pension act, or legislation to further curb buses and trucks. A number of issues of the division, including New York Central and Delaware and Hudson, reached new peaks for the recovery. Atchison was conspicuously active, particularly in the early dealings and again toward the end, finishing about a point higher. Union Pacific made further headway.

The flurry in the rails came in the face of a carloadings' report showing a fall in revenue freight last week from the corresponding period of last year. The decline was due chiefly to a loss in coal trafic.

Merchandise List Active.

A number of merchandise issues attracted renewed buying interest in response to sales figures, but late afternoon profit-taking sales of the more active issues made the group's net swing on the day negligible.

Public utilities were receptive to increased demand. Both Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey finished a point or more higher. United Dyewood rose sharply on active trading and American Chicle sold at the best price in six years. Wright Aero dropped 3 points.

Fairly wide movements occurred in the preferreds. International Printers Ink, U. S. Rubber, National Biscuit, Goodyear Tire, and Fairbanks Morse gained 1 to 3 points.

Coca-Cola Loses Ground.

Coca-Cola, thoroughly chastened after its spectacular runup recently in anticipation of a stock splitup, subsided another couple of points, bringing it back to 190. A week or so ago the cold drink specialty sold above the 200 mark.

The tobaccos were not so active. Liggett & Myers receded rather abruptly. In the farm division, Case marched ahead despite gloomy reports on sandstorms and their growing menace to the nation's bread basket.

Oils met a fair amount of buying with Tidewater Associated bidding for attention at slightly better prices. Barnsdall was active. The motor division was quiet but final prices showed fractional improvement as a whole.

CHICAGO TOWEL COMPANY'S HEAD IS PAID $62,336

Washington, D. C., April 12.—(AP)—F. W. Means of Chicago, reporting to the securities commission, said his "aggregate remuneration" as head of the Chicago Towel company in 1934 was $62,336. The sum was made up of $8,000 salary as president and $54,336 from a contract as general manager.

Means reported he held 13,440 shares, or 16.8 per cent, of the company's common stock. C. H. Chadwick of Chicago, chairman, who was paid $8,000, held 14,475 shares, or 18 per cent. F. J. Brady of Hubbard Woods, Ill., director, was paid $7,020. James E. Plew, Valparaiso, Fla., held 18.6 per cent, or 14,900 shares.

American Investment company of St. Louis reported that Emma R. Barber, Springfield, Ill., held 19 per cent, or 2,592 shares, of preferred stock; Walter H. Whittier, Grand Rapids, Mich., held 16 per cent, or 2,200 preferred, and D. L. Barnes, St. Louis, Mo., held 19.4 per cent, or 12,647 shares, of the company's B common. Barnes, president, received $20,759 salary.

Servel, Inc., reported to the SEC today that Axel L. Wenner-Gren, chairman, held controling interest in corporations owning or having contracts to purchase 404,467 shares of the company's common stock.

The Wesson Oil and Snowdrift company reported A. D. Geogheogan, president, held 1,630 preferred and 24,000 common shares.

CANADA REPORT URGES CONTROL OVER BUSINESS

OTTAWA, April 12.—(AP)—The far-reaching report of the royal commission on mass buying which would establish Canada's "new deal for business" was placed before the house of commons today.

Regulation of industry as a whole by a government board, with more stringent control over various branches of industry, is the keynote of the report. The commission recommended regulation of "monopolies," a maximum 44 hour working week and strengthening of provincial labor laws.

A cheerless picture of conditions in Canada was painted in the 40,000 word industrial section of the report. It contrasted the enormous salaries and bonuses paid executives of tobacco companies with the wages paid employés and distress prevailing among growers.

Packing houses were criticized for "cut-throat competition," canners were scored for low prices paid to fruit and vegetable growers, the commission warned the flour milling industry to set their financial house in order and the report said the furniture industry is completely dislocated.

Jap-British-American Oil Negotiations Fail

TOKIO, April 13.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Negotiations between the Japanese government and American and British oil companies seeking a basis for foreign companies to continue business in Japan proper broke down today without an agreement.

BEST BUSINESS INCREASE IN 25 YEARS FORECAST

Dun & Bradstreet Reports Upturn.

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—The sharpest business rise witnessed in the last quarter of a century lies immediately ahead, Dun & Bradstreet Inc., said today in its weekly business review.

A complete transformation of sentiment occurred last week, the review said, as more convincing proof came forward that the passing of March had left behind the lows for the year.

"Potential benefits of the 5 billion dollars appropriated by the government have provided the stimulus needed to dispel the impatience which had appeared in some branches because of the letdown in business toward the close of the first quarter," the review asserted.

Reports More Decisive.

"All of the reports received were more decisive than at any time this year in the confident attitude taken regarding a more even tempo of progress from now on. Encouragement also was provided by the fact that, in spite of rain, cold, snowfall and recurrent dust storms, consumer demand was sufficiently strong to carry retail distribution to a larger total than for the week preceding."

Although some retail buying was postponed because of unfavorable weather the review saw this as indicative that the peak of the spring merchandise movement will be deferred until May. In the industrial centers of the middle west retail sales rose 10 to 18 per cent over a year ago and despite snow and dust middle west and northwest farming areas showed gains of 5 to 8 per cent, the agency reported.

Gains by Districts.

Recession of flood waters in the southwest was reflected in a gain of 10 to 12 per cent in retail sales, Pacific coast states marked up increases of 4 to 8 per cent, and slight gains appeared in New England and the east.

"General industrial operations," the survey continued, "remained at the year's peak. No check is in prospect for the rising trend in motor production. Demand for steel is broadening and higher schedules have been adopted by manufacturers of refrigerators, drugs, chemicals, electrical equipment, and plumbing and heating supplies."

Building materials were seen coming more into the spotlight, following the three-year peak established by building permit values in March. Manufacturers of woolen goods were reported to be holding their favored position.

Rudolf S. Hecht of New Orleans, president of the A. B. A., and Robert V. Fleming, Washington, D. C., first vice president, also were aboard the special.

MOST BRITISH INDUSTRIES SHOW GAINS FOR YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—A general improvement of the industrial situation in Great Britain in 1934 was the keynote of the annual report issued tonight by the ministry of labor. The recovery extended to a majority of industries and was reflected in reduction of the number of unemployed from 2,903,065 at the beginning of the year to 2,389,068 at the end of the year.

One effect of the improvement in industry, the report pointed out, was an active demand for highly skilled workers, particularly in the building trade. In many instances employers have found difficulty in filling jobs suitably.

Improvement was noted in 81 of 102 industrial groups, the chief exceptions being coal mining, some of the textile and clothing trades, and public works contracting. Among the industries showing substantial improvements were metal engineering trades, iron and steel, and shipbuilding and ship repairing.

WEEK'S FREIGHT TRAFIC SHOWS SHARP LOSSES

Due Largely to Lighter Coal Movement.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Freight trafic on the nation's railroads last week totaled 545,627 cars and showed a more than seasonal decline of 71,858 cars, or 11.5 per cent, from the preceding week, according to figures released today by the Association of American Railroads.

The drop from the preceding week, when a high for the year was set, was due almost entirely to a sharp letup in coal shipments. Lifting of strike threats as well as completion of deliveries for the first quarter accounted for this.

Total loadings for the week were 13,443 cars below the 559,070 cars reported a year ago, but 53,556 cars above the 492,061 cars moved two years ago. Freight trafic since the beginning of the year to April 6 amounted to $8,056,308 cars, compared with 8,124,238 in the corresponding period of 1934 and 6,741,356 in 1933.

Coal Drops Sharply.

Coal totaled 69,323 cars, a decrease of 71,539 below the preceding week, a decrease of 20,503 below 1934 and 13,159 below 1933.

Miscellaneous freight totaled 239,993 cars, a decrease of 2,871 below the preceding week, but an increase of 11,435 above 1934 and 61,920 above 1933.

Less than carlot merchandise was 163,285 cars, an increase of 1,781 above the preceding week, a decrease of 3,809 below 1934 and an increase of 2,390 above 1933.

Grain and grain products totaled 25,615, a decrease of 1,369 below the preceding week, 306 below 1934, and 7,597 below 1933. In the western districts loadings 15,987 cars, an increase of seven above 1934.

Live Stock Gains.

Live stock amounted to 12,388 cars, an increase of 1,365 above the preceding week but a decrease of 662 below the same week in 1934 and 2,955 below 1933. In the western districts loadings were 9,436, a decrease of 785 below 1934.

Forest products totaled 24,312 cars, a decrease of 95 below the preceding week, but increases of 717 above 1934 and 7,528 above 1933.

Ore totaled 5,273 cars, an increase of 1,142 above the preceding week, 184 above 1934 and 3,485 above 1933.

Coke totaled 5,438 cars, a decrease of 272 below the preceding week and 499 below 1934, but an increase of 1,954 above 1933.

REPORT CONTEST FOR GOVERNORS OF N. Y. CHANGE

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—Petitions placing in independent nomination for the governing committee of the stock exchange Bertrand L. Taylor Jr., Robert M. Keelips, and John F. Murray have been filed with the secretary of the exchange, it was authoritatively reported today.

Definite knowledge of the contents of the sealed envelopes containing the nominations will not be available until April 22, the exchange declining even to confirm the receipt of such missives. Of the three reported independents, Mr. Taylor is regarded as being most likely to displace a candidate on the regular ticket. Mr. Murray, however, has his friends, as was evidenced by an informal petition which was signed a fortnight ago by more than 200 members.

Stock Exchange Expected to Refuse Extra Holiday

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—A petition to close the stock exchange on Saturday, April 20, following the Good Friday holiday gathered 159 signatures today, but its chances of approval by the governing board were regarded as slim. The recent activity in the market has offered a good many member firms the first chance in months to get "out of the red." If trading continues next week-end at its present relatively brisk pace it does not seem likely that the governors will decree that the firms forego the short session before Easter.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP)—Print cloths sold moderately today at advanced basis of 6⅛c per yd for wide 64x60s. Finished goods were firmer, with inquiries broadening. Overcoating sales for fall have exceeded the 1934 business and trading in fancy men's wear suitings continued steady. Silk goods were quiet. Rayon goods sold better in small lots. Burlap was steady and quiet.

COTTON LOAN UNCERTAINTY BRINGS PRICE FLUCTUATION

Highly conflicting reports as to the government's attitude toward a loan on the 1935 cotton crop continue to have a great deal of effect in causing erratic price changes. Strong cables from Liverpool and commission house buying, combined with the pronounced upturn in silver, started prices on the upgrade early. The market was called upon to absorb heavy profit taking, however, and toward the last there was increased selling on unconfirmed rumors that there was no immediate prospect of an announcement concerning government loans.

Despite the strength in grains and stocks, cotton closed unchanged to 8 points lower here while other markets were 2 to 7 points lower. Spot cotton closed 5 to 10 points lower with New Orleans 11.95 cents, Galveston and Houston 11.90 cents, and New York 11.80 cents per pound. Prices follow:

SUGAR

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today at 3:15c per lb for spots. Prices at best showed gains of 4 to 5 points, but hedging and realizing checked the upturn. The market closed 3 to 5 points higher in the No. 3 contract and 3 to 4 points higher in the No. 1. Sales were 29,600 tons in the No. 3 and only 3,200 tons in the No. 1.

MEAT SUPPLIES IN STORAGE FAR BELOW NORMAL

Stocks Drop Sharply Since Beginning of Year.

Reserve stocks of all meats held in storage houses in the United States on April 1 showed a decrease of 63,393,000 pounds as compared with a month earlier and a drop of 152,113,000 pounds compared with Jan. 1 holdings. On April 1 there were 806,983,000 pounds of all meats still in storage, as compared with 870,376,000 pounds on March 1 and 908,615,000 pounds on Jan. 1.

The out-of-storage movement has been at the rate of about 2,100,000 pounds daily during the last month, and with the industry confronted with some of the smallest live stock supplies in history, even greater decreases are looked for in reserve supplies. Barring 1933 and 1934, the current stocks of meat in storage are among the lowest on record for this time of the year. The April 1 holdings compare with 770,725,000 pounds a year ago and with 687,697,000 pounds two years ago. The five year average for April 1 stands at 858,079,000 pounds.

Spring Rise Not Unusual.

It is not unusual for the meat stocks to soar above 1,000,000,000 pounds at this time of the year. On April 1, 1925, there were 1,042,093,000 pounds of meat in storage. In 1920 the April 1 holdings rose to 1,304,142,000 pounds and in 1918 there were 1,354,961,000 pounds held in store.

Beef tonnage dropped to 98,180,000 pounds on April 1, the smallest in many months, as compared with 110,777,000 pounds on March 1 and with 140,940,000 pounds at the opening of the year.

Pork stocks declined to 627,163,000 pounds on April 1, compared with 666,598,000 pounds on March 1 and 687,563,000 pounds at the opening of the year. A year ago there were 657,222,000 pounds in store.

Pork Lowest Since Before War.

With very few exceptions, current holdings of pork in storage houses are the smallest for this time of year since before the war, showing a decrease of over 100,000,000 pounds compared with the five year average.

Lamb in store at the first of the month at 3,206,000 pounds was smallest since last November, comparing with 3,506,000 pounds on March 1, with 2,024,000 pounds a year ago, and a five year average of 2,660,000 pounds.

Poultry also showed a substantial decrease. Frozen poultry on hand April 1 this year at 83,174,000 pounds compared with 106,776,000 pounds March 1, 74,197,000 a year ago, and a five year average of 80,368,000.

EGGS SELL LOWER DESPITE BULLISH STORAGE REPORTS

Liberal profit taking sales developed in egg futures yesterday and while the market was somewhat firmer at the start on continued bullish storage reports the close was at net losses of ¼ to ⅜ cent per dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The October delivery finished at 24½ cents.

New York reported net withdrawals of 3,000 cases of eggs from cold storage, said to have been the first time on record that this has occurred during April. The total into storage movement at the four leading points of accumulation was 17,000 cases, or 29,700 cases short of the inward movement a year ago.

Butter futures were unsettled, closing ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent per pound higher, with a light trade. Potatoes were irregular, with April Idahoes 10 cents higher, and round whites 3 cents per 100 pounds lower.

The monthly report on stocks of produce in cold storage on April 1, as given by the bureau of agricultural economics, showed smaller stocks of butter than expected and a somewhat larger holding of eggs. Comparisons follow:

LARD UNCHANGED TO LOWER AFTER DECLINE AND RALLY

Selling of lard futures yesterday by houses with eastern connections, presumably hedging against purchases of cottonseed oil, resulted in the former dropping 17½ cents from Thursday's finish at the extreme. On the decline warehouse interests, which sold on the preceding day, became good buyers, and with the late strength in grain a rally followed, placing the close about the top. Closing trades were unchanged to 5 cents lower. Bellies were nominally unchanged to 7½ cents lower. Cash lard closed at $12.97; loose, $12.90; leaf, $13.00, and bellies at $16.50 per 100 pounds. TREASURY HEAD DENIES U. S. PEGS UTILITY STOCKS

Stabilization Fund Is Not Used—Morgenthau.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau today scotched rumors widely circulated in the capital that the treasury's $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund had been used to peg utility security prices.

In a one minute telephone conversation with Chairman Rayburn [Dem., Tex.] of the house interstate commerce committee, the treasury head flatly denied that the fund had been used for that purpose. The question came up at the morning session when Representative Wolverton [Rep., N. J.] asked Solicitor Dozier Devane of the federal power commission if there was any truth to the rumor about the use of stabilization funds. Devane said he knew nothing of it, and Representative Pettengill [Dem., Ind.] suggested it would be a violation of the law.

Denies Policy Depresses Stocks.

At the request of Rayburn, Devane presented counter-arguments to charges of utilities spokesmen that their stocks had been depressed because of the Roosevelt utility policy and the bill to abolish holding companies in 1940. He presented charts designed to show that the utilities securities toboggan was in February, 1933, before President Roosevelt took office.

Devane testified the securities of the 25 principal utility holding companies had a total market value of $19,245,157,757 at the 1929 high sale point, only $2,879,034,949 bid price on Feb. 28, 1933, but a $2,285,015,979 closing price April 9, this year. At the same time, ten principal independent operating companies' securities dropped from $3,880,067,352 in 1929 to $1,298,846,243 on the 1933 date and to $1,275,807,806 this week, he said.

Rayburn Blames Lack of Value.

"The shrinkage in the price of holding company securities has been due to a recognition by the investing public that they have never had any solid value behind them," Rayburn said, "but were flimsy paper structures built up by promoters and speculators."

In answer to Rayburn, Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of public utility executives, said in a statement:

"We are trying to recover from depression. Recovery will not be achieved in the face of any such legislation as the proposed public utilities bill. Nor is there any possible way of evading the fact that the passage of this bill will cause immense destruction in the existing values of public utility securities."

SEC ISSUES FIRST STOP ORDER FOR MINE FINANCING

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—The first stop order against a mining company in which commission findings and opinion have been filed was issued today by the securities and exchange commission against the security registration of Big Wedge Gold Mining company of California. The commission also announced postponement of hearing of application of the stock exchange to strike Hupp Motor Car corporation from the list from April 18 to April 25 at 10 a. m., in Washington.

The order against Big Wedge Gold Mining was based on the commission's opinion that there were many false or misleading statements and omissions of material facts in the registration statement, the financial statement, the prospectus, and the engineer's report as to the prospects of the property. The action follows a hearing held by the commission in Los Angeles, Cal.

The opinion calls attention to testimony of the president and a director admitting that total assets were not worth $3,000,000, the figure given in the registration statement, and to testimony by the president that the company was insolvent.

PEOPLES TRUST BONDS RESTORED TO INCOME BASIS

Several Issues Sold by Bank Reorganized.

BY AL CHASE.

Bond issues totaling $2,417,000 have been restored to an income basis, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Mortgage and Bond Investors corporation to holders of bonds underwritten by the Peoples Trust and Savings bank and the Peoples Securities company. Interest distributions totaling $53,137 already have been made on issues reorganized by the corporation, according to Benjamin F. Bills, chairman.

These interest payments were made on the following reorganizations: Bryn Mawr Manor, Chatelaine Tower, 47th and Lake Park, Hackel Garage No. 2, Jeffery Terrace, Kingston apartments and Sulgrave Manor.

Complete Four Reorganizations.

In addition, it was stated that four other reorganizations are now completed: Birmingham building, Brightmoor apartments, Marquette Manor, and the State-Delaware building, and $7,650 of interest is now being distributed.

"Not only is definite progress being made, either toward a practical reorganization or at least in an improvement of the condition and earnings of the properties, but in practically all instances the tax delinquencies which existed at the time the properties were brought to us for attention are being steadily reduced," said Mr. Bills.

"Thus far, in approximately two years there has been applied toward the payment of delinquent taxes and penalties, as well as on current taxes on all of these properties, a total of $518,699."

Walgreen Company Closes Lease.

The Walgreen company has leased the entire first floor of the building at the southwest corner of State and Divisions streets, 47x70, for fifteen years. According to Milton Moses, broker, the premises are to be extensively remodeled for the lessee's use.

Newton C. Farr, trustee for the Stevens building, 17 North State street, reports thirteen upstairs shop leases negotiated since the first of the year.

CHESAPEAKE CO. REVISES BOOKS AT SEC BEHEST

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—The first example of a change in the corporate accounts of a railroad holding company affected by the securities and exchange commission was afforded today in the issuance of the report of the Chesapeake corporation for 1934. The Chesapeake corporation is the link through which the Alleghany corporation, top company in the Van Sweringen two billion dollar railroad holding structure, controls the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad.

The Chesapeake corporation has changed its method of accounting with respect to the bond discount and expenses in connection with its twenty-year five per cent convertible collateral trust bonds, dated May 15, 1927, which was originally charged against paid-in surplus in the aggregate amount of $4,617,748. This item will be set up as a deferred asset to be amortized over the life of the bonds, with appropriate adjustments for bonds already retired, resulting in charges of $1,934,120 to deferred bond discount and expense, $2,466,782 to earned surplus, and $216,844 to 1934 income.

Profits of $934,810 from the purchase of bonds for the sinking fund and from conversion of Chesapeake corporation bonds into Chesapeake and Ohio common stock, less net results of security transactions, prior to Jan. 1, 1934, have been transferred from paid-in surplus account, as of Jan. 1, 1934, to earned surplus account.

STEVENS HOTEL HAS GOOD DEMAND FOR APARTMENTS

After a preview of new apartments on the eighteenth floor of the Stevens hotel yesterday, Louis Sudler of Sudler & Co., who has charge of the leasing, announced that, although only twenty-three suites have been furnished, thirty-six already have been rented.

There will be ninety furnished units when the transformation from ordinary hotel rooms into modern home suites, designed by John Root of Holabird & Root, is completed.

Otto K. Eitel, manager of the hotel, announced the plan to use one entire floor for furnished suites last month. Some of the units have small electric grills. All are rented by the month.

HEAVIER HOGS BREAK DESPITE LIGHT RECEIPTS

An unexpected break of 10 to 25 cents hit medium and heavy hogs here yesterday, notwithstanding some of the lightest receipts on record. The slump came in face of higher markets at other leading points and a better outlet for pork here. Smaller plants bid Thursday's quotations for the selected grades under 200 pounds and paid steady prices for a few weighing up to 225 pounds, but when the principal buyers came out they demanded reductions of 15 to 25 cents in bigger weights.

Buyers said their bearish orders were due to the relatively high level of prices here in the last two days. They contend yesterday's concessions only made it possible to buy hogs at Chicago in line with outside points.

Top sales sank 10 cents to $11.55, processing tax included, while the average showed a loss of 10 cents at $11.25.

Demand for butcher stock has been the feature of the cattle trade in the last week and has driven many classes of cows and hefers out of line in the price list. They continued in demand again yesterday and retained the recent gains, while steers sold slowly at about steady rates. Some weighty beeves were weaker on final rounds. An exceptionally light run of steers arrived. No strictly choice kinds were offered, the best here selling at $12.50, with the bulk at $8.00 to $11.00.

Lamb prices yesterday set up a new 25 day high at $8.65, which was paid by packers for one load of wooled stock. The bulk sold at $8.25 to $8.60.

Building Corporation Reorganization Asked

Reorganization of the 219 Lake Shore Drive Building corporation was sought in a creditors' petition filed yesterday in the United States District court under section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy law. According to the petition filed by Attorney Herman E. Klein the liabilities, consisting principally of funded debt, are approximately $1,000,000. The building has been in state receivership for failure to pay real estate taxes aggregating about $22,000.

NEAR NORTH SIDE

It's very nice when you close your desk at the end of the day to know that after a short, brisk walk just 5 blocks north of the river, you will come to a studio in a quaint little lamp-lighted court that makes you feel far away from Chicago, or a little top floor flat with a huge 35 ft. living room, or a roof garden, or a place where a large family can live with rooms flooded with sun light, a full view of our illuminated buildings at night and the spaciousness and feeling of a nice home. Some with lofty ceilings, all with fireplaces, all interesting; a little charm about them that makes you glad you live there. You are home long before most of your friends, with a full evening before you. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 7 rooms. Also shop space.

5 DAYS' DRIVING TRIAL.

DODGE SEDAN. 1933 DE LUXE: EXtras galore. The finish has not a mar on it. Expensive broadcloth upholstery. The tires are excellent; go over the motor with a fine tooth comb and you'll agree that it's the last word. See this Dodge—drive it—and then compare it with anything else in Chicago. Our price is cut to 495. See this car now!

OLDSMOBILE COUPE. NEWEST 1934. One of the handsomest cars you ever saw! Many extras. Has low slung lines and a world of power and pep. Was owned by a wealthy North Shore family who gave it the best of care. Specially priced today at $685.

CADILLAC DE LUXE SEDAN. LATE 1931. A beauty. The motor was REALLY given the most minute "going over" and now you would certainly think that it performs like a new 8 cylinder motor. The finish glistens like a new dollar and the upholstery appears practically unused. We are marking this car at only $595, and we sincerely believe it to be a most outstanding car value.

BUICK SPORT COUPE. 1933. YOU WILL have to look far and wide to find a car anywhere in town to equal this one. It's the last word for smart appearance and sparkling performance. Rumble seat. Now $675.

GRAHAM SPT. COUPE. '33. IN STORAGE for almost 6 months. We checked it over carefully in our shop; now recommend it as an outstanding automobile. It's top notch throughout. Rumble seat. Special at $585.

STUDEBAKER DE LUXE BROUGHAM. '34. Really has every modern improvement—free wheeling, safety glass, etc. Finish has not a mar on it. Expensive upholstery. Tires appear unused. Motor was driven just enough to be properly broken in. Has full Studebaker guarantee. Priced at only $595.

CHRYSLER COUPE. LATE 1934 DE LUXE. It's a real beauty. It has the appearance and performance of an auto fresh from the factory. Rum. seat. Our price is just $685.

AUBURN SEDAN. LATE DE LUXE 1930 with side mounts and every conceivable extra. Examine this Auburn from bumper to bumper and you'll agree that it still possesses all the original newness. Today, $195.

CHEVROLET SPORT COUPE. LATE '33 model. Finish is bright and shiny. The upholstery is luxurious. The motor is the last word. Rumble seat. Special today, $395.

HUDSON SEDAN. 1931. YOU'LL FIND this car a very economical purchase. In the first place—it's in dandy condition today. Second—it gives a lot of miles per gallon of gas. And thirdly—it's priced special at $295.
